compulsory winding-up, under which they will obtain speedy payment of their claims. With regard to the shareholders, for reasons I have pointed out, their position is very different. They will have, so far as the assets are deficient, to find the means of paying all the creditors in full, and they have therefore the greatest interest in the realisation of the assets in the best manner and at the least possible expense. If they think that anything better than a compulsory order can be done for them, they are fairly and properly entitled to have their views considered; but I am very clearly of opinion, from my experience in these matters, and from what I have heard from my officers, that I am satisfied I cannot do better for them than make the order asked for by the creditors' petition. My chief clerks, who are able men, and of considerable experience in winding-up cases, are strongly of opinion that the best thing for all parties is a compulsory order, which works much better than a voluntary winding-up under supervision. It is as cheap, more speedy, and the business is conducted in every respect in a more satisfactory manner; therefore I am perfectly certain that in making an order to wind up the company compulsorily now, I shall be acting in the best way certainly for the creditors, and I think I shall be doing that which is best for the shareholders also. Their interests will be well considered, and when they have recovered from the excitement and disappointment caused by the failure of the bank, which I cannot but look upon as a national calamity, and when they can calmly and dispassionately meet together and form an opinion as to what is best for them, if they desire to be represented in the liquidation, any resolution they may come to on the subject will be most carefully considered, and will have every attention from me. If they should authorize Mr Hughes or any other gentleman to watch their interests, I should be ready to give every attention to their wish. On the grounds I have stated, I am clearly of opinion that the bank having closed its doors, and having completely stopped payment, there is no other course to be adopted for the interests of all parties than to order a compulsory winding-up, and that order I accordingly make. As to the appointment of liquidators, I would suggest as the best course, that all parties should now agree that Mr Turquand and Mr Clarke be appointed official liquidators, and in that case, as I have already intimated, it would be open to me, at any time, to add to their number, or to substitute some one else. These things could be done in the winding-up, and, therefore, there is no necessity for any delay, which, I think, would only lead to needless expense. Delay might do a great deal of harm, and it cannot possibly do any good. I will hear anyone who has any objection to raise to Mr Turquand or Mr Clarke, and if there is no objection, I appoint these gentlemen official liquidators.

Mr Brinstowe said he did not object, personally, to Mr Clarke, but he would prefer some one more immediately resident in the South Wales district.

The Vice-Chancellor said he could pay no attention to the objection of the creditors, all they can possibly want is to have official liquidators who will realise the assets as speedily as possible.

Mr Bristowe withdrew his objection, and Mr Turquand and Mr Clarke were appointed the official liquidators.

The Vice-Chancellor said he would only allow costs to the shareholders, and to those creditors who supported the petitions. There would be one order upon both petitions, and the creditors for whom Mr Glasse appeared would have the carrying-out of the order.

The West of England Bank shareholders regret the Vice-Chancellor's decision, as it is anticipated that compulsory liquidation will increase the expenses £1 a share.

The chief collector of the waterworks at Bristol (says Mayfair) is in an embarrassing position. He had £500 in hand when the West of England Bank closed on Saturday afternoon, and was allowed to place it in the strong room till Monday, intending then to pay it in to the account of the waterworks company. The Bank did not open on Monday, and the collector asked for the return of his money. The question was referred to the liquidator. "We cannot give up a shilling of the assets of the bank," said Messrs. Turquand and Clark. "Very well, then," replied the collector, "allow it to be placed to the credit of the account." "That cannot be done now," answered the liquidators, "it ought to have been done on Saturday." "Well, then, give me a receipt for it." "We give no receipts for anything. We simply take possession of everything we find in the bank," and thus the collector is left without his £500, without a receipt for the money, and with a blank in his pass-book where the entry ought to be.

ORIGINAL POETRY.

A CHRISTMAS SONG.

Your joyous music surges—swells
O'er crowded cities—lonely fells,
To hail the Christmas morn.
Your chimes repeat the old, old story,
So long foretold by prophets hoary,
The Christian's hope, the Christian's glory,
"To us a Child is born."

'Neath starry skies on Bethlehem's plain,
Behold! the angelic host proclaim—
While wond'ring shepherds catch the strain,
And upward lift their eyes—
"Peace upon earth," the angels sing,
"Glad tidings of great joy we bring,"
And heavenly hallelujahs ring,
Adown the eastern skies.

Are any sin-sick, weary, worn,
Friendless, forsaken, tried, forlorn?
Rejoice with me this Christmas morn,
To us a Son is given.
The tender, gracious, Mighty One,
Who did for all our sins atone,
And shew'd the way to heaven.

Now let us hail the Prince of Peace,
And pray that cruel war may cease;
That love to God and man increase,
And spread from sea to sea.
Sweet bells, ring out the want and pain,
The scornful pride, the greed of gain;
Ring in Messiah's glorious reign.
Amen, so let it be.

Cwmbran. JULIA M. HIGHLEY.

CHRISTMAS.

From the Diary of that rare old gossip, Mr Pepys, we extract the following entries relative to three Christmas-days of 200 years ago:—

"Christmas-day (1662).—Had a pleasant walk to Whitehall, where I intended to have received the communion with the family, but I came a little too late. So I walked up into the house, and spent my time looking over pictures, particularly the ships in King Henry the Eighth's Voyage to Bullaen; marking the great difference between those built then and now. By and by, down to the chapel again, where Bishop Morley preached on the song of the angels, 'Glory to God on high, on earth peace and good-will towards men.' Methought he made but a poor sermon, but long, and reprehending the common jollity of the Court for the true joy that shall and ought to be on those days. Particularised concerning their excess in plays and gaming, saying that he whose office it is to keep the gamesters in order and within bounds, serves but for a second rather in a duel, meaning the groome porter. Upon which it was worth observing how far they are come from taking the reprehensions of a bishop seriously, that they all laugh in the chapel when he reflected on their ill actions and courses. He did much press us to joy in these public days of joy, and to hospitality. But one that stood by whispered in my ear, that the bishop do not spend one groate to the poor himself. The sermon done, a good anthem followed with vialls, and the king came down to receive the sacrament.

"Christmas-day (1665).—To church in the morning, and there saw a wedding in the church, which I have not seen many a day; and the young people so merry one with another, and strange to see what delight we married people have to see these poor fools decoyed into our condition, every man and woman gazing and smiling at them.

"Christmas-day (1668).—To dinner alone with my wife, who, poor wretch! sat undressed all day till ten at night, altering and lacing of a noble petticoat, while I by her making the boy read to me the Life of Julius Cæsar, and Des Carte's book of Music."

The geniality and joyousness of the Christmas season in England, has long been a national characteristic. At present, Christmas Day, if somewhat shorn of its ancient glories, and unmarked by that boisterous jollity and exuberance of animal spirits which distinguished it in the time of our ancestors, is, nevertheless, still the holiday in which of all others throughout the year all classes of English society most generally participate. Partaking of a religious character, the forenoon of the day is usually passed in church, and in the evening the re-united members of the family assemble round the joyous Christmas-board. Separated as many of these are during the rest of the ANNUAL PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

2ND CORPS MON. RIFLE VOLUNTEERS.

On Friday last, the volunteers attached to the Pontypool, Abersychan, and Garndiffaith Companies of the above corps assembled at the armoury at Pontymoil, and headed by their band, under Drum-Major Waite, proceeded to the Town Hall to receive prizes for drill-attendances and shooting.

Major Mitchell presided, and on the platform were Capt. Llewellin, Capt. Jacob, Lieuts. Verity, Jones, and Batt, and Surgeon Mulligan. Major Hair, Capt. J. F. Williams, Lieut. Bevan, and Battalion-Surgeon Thomas, of the 5th Mon. (or Hanbury) were present; also Lieut. Stedman, of the Griffithstown Artillery.

Several ladies and gentlemen were in attendance to witness the distribution of the prizes.

Major Mitchell briefly explained the business for which they had assembled, and after having made a few remarks as to the volunteer system, the numbers enrolled and the effective strength of this branch, announced that Mrs Llewellin would distribute the prizes, an announcement which was received with cheers.

The following prizes were then presented to the different winners, those winning the Hanbury and Llewellin prizes being lustily cheered by their comrades, others coming in also for a share of the applause:—

THE HANBURY PRIZE, given by J. C. Hanbury, Esq., £10, won by Private James Green in five monthly competitions.

SILVER CUP, given by D. Llewellin, Esq., won by Corporal H. W. Joshua.

After the distribution of the prizes, Major Mitchell proposed a vote of thanks to J. C. Hanbury, Esq., and also to D. Llewellin, Esq., for the interest which they took in the corps.

This vote of thanks was warmly accorded, the band rendering musical honours.

Captain Jacob proposed a vote of thanks to Mrs Llewellin for her kindness in attending to distribute the prizes. He was always glad to see ladies present on such occasions.

This vote of thanks was warmly accorded, and Captain Llewellin returned thanks on behalf of Mrs Llewellin.

During the evening, the bands played several selections in the most creditable manner, amongst which were—

Overture	Rose d'Amour	Halevy.
March	Pro Patria	Brepsant.
Grand Selection	Britannia	Godfrey.

The number of names enrolled in the 2nd Corps amounted during the past year to 531, and the effective strength was 525. The mone yprizes subscribed by the inhabitants of the district, notwithstanding the badness of trade, had not decreased, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to them in a body.

5TH MON. (OR HANBURY) VOLUNTEERS.

ANNUAL DINNER AND DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

The room was nicely decorated for the occasion with Christmas evergreens. There were several mottoes, amongst which were "Success to our Army, Navy, and Volunteers," and "Prosperity to the Town and Trade of Pontypool."

A good, substantial dinner was provided by the host and hostess, Mr and Mrs Newth, and we need hardly add that the guests did ample justice to the good things placed before them.

After the cloth had been removed, the prizes were distributed as given below.

Captain Williams proposed "The Queen." It was their usual custom whenever they met under such circumstances to drink the health of our beloved Sovereign, and more especially at the present time, when all England feels a deep sympathy for her in the loss of an affectionate daughter, who had won the love of all England for the devoted manner in which she nursed the Prince Consort (hear, hear).

National Anthem—Band.

Captain Williams next proposed "The Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family." The Prince had, during the Paris Exhibition, raised himself greatly in the estimation of the people. He conducted matters so well that he added to the honour of England (applause).

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

God Bless the Prince of Wales—Band.

The next toast proposed was "The Army and Navy," coupled with the name of Sergt. Bessant.

The British Grenadiers—Band.

Selection—Band.

Captain Williams then addressed the corps as follows: You all know the state of the neighbourhood as well as I do. Trade is in a very depressed state, and I am afraid that it will continue so for some little time longer. Unfortunately for us, we have our finances locked up in the West of England Bank, and we have not been able to go round to collect money for the shooting as we usually did—we thought it was useless to do so when the Bank broke. However, we intend to do so next week, and I hope we shall be successful in our endeavours. Our expenses have been very heavy; we have paid £50 very lately for clothing, and had an entire new set of accoutrements, and we are now in an effective state, in fact, there is no corps in the county more effective. I wish to impress upon you the necessity of taking care of your clothes. I may say that our corps has been dealt more liberally with than any corps in England (cheers); and I hope in future we shall not have to lay out so much money as we have had to do in the past. It has cost nearly £300 for clothing since I took command of the corps, and this independently of belts, shakos, &c. I hope, therefore, you will do all in your power to keep down expenditure by taking care of your clothing and accoutrements (applause).

Captain Williams: The next toast I have to propose is one I am sure that you will drink with enthusiasm, and that is the good health of Mr Hanbury for his great kindness in allowing us the use of the Park. I can assure you that our corps could not do what it has done in the past if it was not for Mr Hanbury's kindness. Hitherto we have been very fortunate in our arrangements with regard to the Park, but we should be always prepared for a reverse, which, of course, would be a serious matter for the corps. However, we cannot feel too grateful to Mr Hanbury for his exceeding kindness in granting us a loan of the Park. I beg leave, therefore, to drink the health of Mr Hanbury, with which I couple the names of Mrs Hanbury Leigh and Lady Bruce. This toast was drunk with great enthusiasm.

Selection—Band.

Colour-Sergt. Sumner gave the next toast, the health of Captain Williams. A corps without a good Captain was of very little value, and he was extremely obliged to Sergeant Sumner, for the flattering manner in which he has mentioned my name, and especially to the corps for the way in which they have responded. As Serg. Sumner has expressed it, I have always endeavoured to take a warm interest in the corps, and to try and make the members as happy as I possibly could, and also to meet them and give way in many points for the sake of the corps. If a man will only do his duty like a man, I shall never want any more from him. I have endeavoured to please every one, and I have found it a difficult matter, and I can assure you I will never try that again. I find it will not do. I shall try to do my duty in every respect, and will respect every one who does his, and I hope every one in connection with the corps will endeavour to do so. If we all try to do our best, we shall get along pleasantly. Making reference to the dispute about a medal, Captain Williams said, the fault lay with the way in which the bill was written, some people taking one view of the matter, some another, but he hoped that matter would be allowed to rest. There is no doubt the bill was badly written, the sense could be understood in different ways, but he hoped there was now an end to the matter, and wished that Serg. J. Truman would enjoy it. I will say something about our shooting. You are aware that our team has won the Battalion Cup three years in succession, and that is more than any corps in the County has done. The members of the corps have reason to be proud of this team, for the work they have accomplished has raised the Hanbury Corps in the estimation of all the corps in the County. I beg to propose the health of our team, coupling with it the name of Corporal Edmonds.

Selection—Band.

Corporal Edmonds responded.

Sergeant Probyn: I beg to propose the health of one who has always tried to promote the interests of the corps—Lieutenant Bevan.

The toast was received with musical honours.

Lieutenant Bevan briefly responded, thanking them for the kind manner in which they had received his name.

Selection—Band.

Captain Williams: I wish now to propose the health of the Sergeants of the Hanbury Corps. I have to thank them greatly for their assistance and the readiness which they at all times display in endeavouring to do their best in connection with the corps. I thank them very much for this attention and this readiness to do their duty, and I am sure the corps have need to be proud of them. They have passed their examinations creditably, and they are efficient in their work. I beg to couple with this toast the name of Colour-sergt. Sumner.

The toast was well received.

Selection—Band.

Colour-sergeant Sumner: I have to thank you very much, Captain Williams, for the manner in which you proposed "The Sergeants," and the members of the corps for the manner in which that toast has been received. And I thank the officers of the corps for the manner in which they have treated us. I always feel it a pleasure to go to drill, because I know that when there we have men who always pay the greatest attention to what is said to them, and that is one of the greatest pleasures we have as sergeants. I hope this good understanding will continue, and that all may prosper—officers, sergeants, and men, and long maintain the honour of the Hanbury Corps (cheers).

Song—Mr Newth.

Capt. Williams next proposed "The Privates of the Hanbury Corps." I have always, said the speaker, found them very attentive and obedient, and they have conducted themselves in a pleasant manner. Capt. Williams then gave some good advice as to the conduct of the men in the ranks during drill, but said that on the whole he had very little reason to complain of the Corps. The toast was coupled with the name of the oldest volunteer in the Corps.

Selection—Band.

Private H. Long briefly responded.

Private Bell responded.

Selection—Band.

"The Press" was next proposed, coupled with the name of our Reporter, who responded.

Song—Mr Newth.

The next toast was, "The Band and Bandmaster."

Sergt. Evans responded, on behalf of the band.

Selection—Band.

"The Host and Hostess" was next proposed, to which Mr G. Newth responded.

BLAENAVON LOCAL BOARD.

The ordinary meeting of this Board was held on Friday evening, the 20th inst. Present:—

E. P. MARTIN, Esq., Chairman;

Also Messrs H. C. Steel, W. Edwards, J. Burgoyne, A. Morgan, T. Edwards, J. Gill, the Rev W. Rees, Dr Ball, and officers.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Balance in the hands of the treasurer, £110 3s 8d, as per pass book.

The Surveyor's accounts, which included quarterly salaries, were examined and allowed, amounting to £58 8s 11d.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

MEDICAL OFFICER'S REPORT.

Gentlemen,—Since the last report, I am sorry to inform you that there has been a considerable increase in the amount of sickness in the district, 17 deaths having already occurred this month. Whooping-cough is rather prevalent, and has occasioned two deaths, but there is no other epidemic disease present. The unusual severity of the weather has, no doubt, caused a considerable number of deaths, especially amongst old people who have been for a long time ill.

I remain, gentlemen, your obedient servant,
C. B. BALL, M.D.

SURVEYOR'S REPORT.

Gentlemen,—I beg to report to you as follows: The gutters in Llanover and New Roads have been opened and cleaned. Llanover Road has been thoroughly repaired. The furnace has been fired, and is recovering nicely.

I beg to submit for your approval a plan of an addition to the White Horse Inn, being situated in King Street, occupied by Mr Thomas James. This is in accordance with the bye-laws.

I remain, gentlemen, your obedient servant,
J. PRITCHARD, Surveyor.

A letter was received from Mr Thomas James, accepting the captaincy of the fire brigade; also one respecting the bridge from the Monmouthshire Railway Company, refusing to contribute towards the repairs of the same.

The Clerk was instructed to write again to the Railway Company, drawing their attention to a

It was decided that in the present serious aspect of affairs the matter had better be deferred, but in the meantime Mr Burgoyne was to be asked to furnish the Board with another tender for putting the bridge into a safe condition for the present.

A resolution was passed that Messrs. Edwards, Gill, and Steel, should inspect the bridge, and report upon the same, and the Clerk was instucted to convene a meeeing upon the receipt of the said report.

A plan was passed of a bar parlour to be erected in the White Horse, belonging to Mr Thomas James, subject to the bye-laws.

GRAND CONCERT AT THE CATHOLIC SCHOOLS, CWMBRAN.

On Thursday, 19th inst., a grand Concert and characteristic entertainment was given at the St. Dial's Board School-room, Cwmbran, in aid of the above schools.

The programme opened with a grand pianoforte solo by Mr Selby, whose performance was highly applauded; this was followed by a vocal duett, rendered by Mrs James and Miss Parry in a style which elicited the applause of the audience; the next item on the programme was a chorus, "The Soldiers March," from the celebrated opera of "Faust," by the Cwmbran Glee Party, under the able leadership of Mr. Rees, which was rendered with such musical accuracy and spirit as are rarely heard among amateurs, and we need hardly add that the rendering drew forth loud applause, as well as an encore, to which Mr Rees and his party responded in an able manner; Mr Furlow, Pontypool, next gave a recitation entitled "Shemus O'Brien; or, the Boys of Ireland in '98." This is a recitation, the rendering of which is rather difficult, the comic, pathetic, and heroic elements being curiously mingled, but we are glad to be able to state that Mr Furlow's rendering of the piece was satisfactory, and earned a good round of applause. Mr Lewis, Cwmbran, sang with becoming earnestness the popular temperance ballad "Please give me a penny, sir," and was rewarded with a good round of applause; this was followed by 'The Last Rose of Summer,' by Mrs Johnson, Cardiff, in such a feeling manner as gained for that lady loud applause and an encore. Miss Bloom, Pontypool, rendered a pianoforte solo, which was well appreciated and loudly applauded; and the first part of the programme was thus brought to a close.

The second part of the programme opened with the song, "Come into the garden, Maud," by Mr Maloney, Cardiff. This gentleman has a splendid tenor voice, and sang the piece with exquisite feeling and pathos, and we need hardly add that Mr Maloney's efforts were rewarded with loud and prolonged applause and a well-deserved encore. Mr Hannin, Cwmbran, danced an "Irish jig," to the evident delight of the audience. Miss Kate Driscoll, Cwmbran, sang "Mother, kiss me in my dreams" with much feeling, and was well applauded. "The British Lion," by Mr Lewis, Cwmbran, was given with great spirit, and evoked the patriotic feelings of those present. Mr Morgan, Cardiff, sang that good old popular nautical song, "The Bay of Biscay," in capital style, and showed that the compositions of by-gone days can be well appreciated by the present generation. "The Lost Chord" was next rendered by Mrs Johnson, who sustained her reputation as a soprano singer, as established by her efforts in the first part of the programme. "An Irish jig" was next given by Mr McCarthy, of Newport, whose agility in the Terpsichorean art astonished no less than pleased the numerous spectators. A gentleman from Newport, whose name did not transpire, sang two comic songs (original) in excellent style, and created much amusement; and so ended the second part of the programme.

The third part of the programme was sustained by Mr Thos. (Merry) Brown, of Pontypool. This gentleman's rendering of the "Law-suit," which consisted of the simulation of three distinct voices, was simply excellent. There was the Justice, in imagination, "with fat capon lined, full of wise saws and modern instances," interrupting between the contending voices of opposing advocates; and the whole was so well rendered that, in modern phrase, "the house was brought down." Some characteristic sketches in ventriloquism were received with great applause. The imitation of a number of dogs barking was so natural that a member of the canine species in the room came on to the stage to fraternise with his supposed companions, a little incident which created roars of laughter. The imitation of a saw doing its work was also quite natural. Mr Browne sang, in character, a comic English song, entitled, "Old Humphrey Hodge," which created roars of laughter; and altogether this gentleman's comic and ventriloquial delineations proved a valuable adjunct to an entertainment that will not be soon forgotten in Cwmbran.

The audience was large and respectable, and evinced their appreciation of the entertainment in an enthusiastic manner.

During the next Parliamentary Session, a Bill to enable this Company to close a portion of the Monmouthshire Canal will be brought in. During the last week, only one hour of bright sunshine was registered at the Royal Observatory, Greenwich, the sun having been above the horizon 54 hours during the week.

THE BIRDS AND THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—The statement that a gentleman had used the electric light with great effect to attract birds at night on the Lancashire moors, which went the round of the papers, turns out to be a hoax, wholly devoid of truth, the invention of Mr G. R. Mossman, clerk to the magistrates at Bradford, who had given repeated assurances of its truth to the reporter who first published it. The clever storyteller now says he wished to "tease" the gentleman referred to.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The Great Need.—The blood is the life, and on its purity depends our health, if not our existence. These Pills thoroughly cleanse this vital fluid from all contaminations, and by that power strengthen and invigorate the whole system,

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS.

We regret to state that this week a furnace has been blown out at the Race and another at the British.

A GRAND EISTEDDFOD AND CONCERT were held at the Town Hall, on Thursday. A full report next week.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday, a man named William Matthews was very badly burnt at Lower Mill. The man's work was tipping ashes, and it is supposed that having been overcome by the sulphur, he fell into the fire.

MARRIAGE OF MISS ANNIE PATERSON.—On Thursday last, an interesting ceremony took place at Trevethin Church,—the marriage of Mr. C. H. Sessions, formerly of Pontypool, to Miss Annie Paterson, youngest daughter of our esteemed townsman, Mr. Paterson, of Pontypool Park Gardens. The service was performed by the Rev. J. C. Llewellin. The bridesmaids were Miss Isabel Paterson, and the Misses Emily, Lottie, and Mina Sessions; Mr. G. Sessions being best man.

CRANE-STREET CHAPEL.—A meeting was held in this chapel, on Friday evening last, for the purpose of establishing a choral union for the improvement of psalmody, in connection with the Baptist churches in this and the neighbouring towns. The meeting consisted of the leaders and representatives of the several Baptist choirs in Blaenavon, Abersychan, and Pontypool. Officers were chosen and music selected, and it is intended to commence the practices as soon as possible. The choirs of any other churches not represented at this meeting were invited to join.

CRUMLIN STREET CHAPEL.—A Service of Song, entitled "St. Paul," was given at the above place of worship on Thursday week, when there was a very fair attendance. The accompaniments were played by Mr T. Morgan; and the connective readings were sustained by the Rev. R. T. Edwards, resident minister. The choir, some of whose members were very young, under the leadership of Mr E. G. Morgan, acquitted itself most admirably, and received the well-merited approval of the audience. At the close of the Service of Song, solos were sung by Master W. Morgan (Pontypool) and Mr W. Allsopp (Abersychan), the accompaniments being played by Mr E. G. Morgan. The usual votes of thanks were accorded the conductor and choir.

AN INQUEST was held on Monday, at the Town Hall, by E. D. Batt, Esq., coroner, touching the death of John Madden, aged 64, who died on the 21st inst. at Upper Race. Dr Essex said he had known deceased for years; death resulted from general debility and decay. Ann Keenan, daughter of deceased, said he complained of cold and tightness of the chest; he died on Saturday morning, at 5.25, but he did not get seriously ill till midnight previously; he did not want for anything in the shape of food. The jury returned a verdict of "Death from general debility and natural decay."

ANOTHER INQUEST was held on the same day, by E. D. Batt, Esq., coroner, touching the death of Mary Jones, aged 42, wife of Philip Jones. Deceased died on the 21st of December, three weeks after, confinement. Elizabeth Treverton stated she saw deceased very frequently for some months; she had been confined three weeks ago, and did well until the last week, when she complained of weakness, and had medicine from Dr Essex; she died in her chair before the fire; she had everything she wanted, and a good and kind husband. A verdict of "Death from heart disease" was returned.

PANTEG CHURCH ENLARGEMENT.—A meeting of the parishioners took place at the Pontymoil School Rooms on Thursday evening, the 19th inst., to consider the best means of relieving the church committee of their responsibility for the amount of £262, which becomes due to the West of England Bank, January 3rd, 1879. About £63 were promised, and cards were issued to all who would collect in aid of this fund. The meeting was adjourned till Friday evening, Dec. 27th, at eight o'clock, at the Schoolroom at Sebastopol, when it is hoped that all who feel interested in church matters will attend and assist the committee, who have to meet this debt on the day above-named.

"GRUMBLERS, SHIRKERS, AND WORKERS."—This was the suggestive title of a lecture delivered in Zion Chapel, Trosnant (kindly lent for the occasion), on Thursday evening, the 19th inst., by Mr A. J. Proud, town missionary, of Newport. In the absence of the gentleman expected to preside, Mr T. Wintle, of Pontymoil, took the chair. The attendance, notwithstanding the unpleasant weather, and the fact that an entertainment was being held in the town on the same evening, was very good. The lecturer acquitted himself most creditably, giving evidence of superior power and ability, and succeeded in sustaining the attention of his audience from the beginning to the close of his lecture. In fact, so pleased were the audience with the lecturer, and so loud were they in their commendations, that we understand arrangements are being made for a series of lectures by the same gentleman. The proceeds of the lecture are to be devoted to the erection of a Mission Hall at Pontymoil, by which means it is hoped to reach the spiritually destitute of that neighbourhood. We are glad to learn that the project has already received the practical approval and sympathy of several gentlemen of influence, among the subscribers being Lord Henry Somerset, J. C. Hanbury, Esq., and the Hon. F. C. Morgan.

BLAENAVON.

SEVERITY OF THE WEATHER.—The severe frost has caused much stagnation, many tradesmen not being able to work. A great number of the water taps in the town are frozen up. On Christmas-day the snow and sleet fell throughout the day, and the roads became one sheet of ice. We hear that the whole of the Coity Pits, employing a large number of men, were stopped on Saturday, but hope this will not be for long.

4TH MON. RIFLE VOLUNTEERS.—The above corps met on Friday evening, the 20th inst., at the White Horse Assembly Rooms, for the purpose of receiving the prizes won at the annual competition. Capt. Jayne occupied the chair, and distributed the prizes (to the amount of £28), to the successful competitors. The splendid brass band of the corps was present, under the leadership of Mr J. Priestwood. During the evening several songs were sung by Messrs. Jones, White, Simmonds, and Langford; and appropriate speeches were made by the officers of the corps. The usual loyal toasts were given; and Capt. Jayne's health was drunk with musical honours. The Monthly Challenge Cup was won this year by Private Isaac West.

PRESENTATION.—At the breaking-up for the Christmas holidays, on Friday, the 20th inst., the Rev John Jones, vicar, on behalf of the pupils of the Boys' National School, presented a chased gold pencil-case to Mr John Thomas, schoolmaster, as well as the following address, which was numerously signed, on the occasion of his leaving the school, of which he has been master for the past 17 years:—"Blaenavon, Dec. 20th, 1878.—To Mr John Thomas—Dear Sir: We, the undersigned pupils of the Boys' National School, respectfully beg to present you with a gold pencil-case as a small token of our high appreciation of your valuable and faithful instruction and your kindness to us as a teacher. We deeply regret your leaving, but wish you every prosperity and happiness.—We remain, dear sir, yours most obediently [here follow signatures].

CHRISTMAS-TIDE AT BLAENAVON.—The show of meat in the market and shops on Saturday was very fine, and of superior quality, the supply being much in excess of the demand, which was no doubt a good deal reduced by the badness of trade prospects. Mr Thomas Nelmes had a capital supply, consisting of 6 Radnor sheep, a fine three-year-old heifer of the Hereford breed, and a short-horn, which he sold at 8d per lb., while the other butchers were asking 9d, and some 10d. Messrs Jones, Lawrence, Butler, and Williams had fine shows of beef, pork, and geese. On Christmas Eve and morning, the bells of St. Peter's Church rang out merry peals, and the church was prettily decorated with evergreens, &c. A choir or two sang about the town to welcome in the Christmas morning, and the Blaenavon Brass Band enlivened the place on Christmas day by playing at various places. A concert was held in the White Horse Assembly Rooms on Christmas-eve, but owing to the bad state of the weather, it was not well patronised.

INQUEST.—On Saturday, E. D. Batt, Esq., coroner, held an inquest at the Railway Hotel, on the body of Samuel Rutkin, 5 months old, the child of Samuel Rutkin, a labourer, residing in Upper Hill Street. Mr Harris, Ivor House, was foreman of the jury. Doctor Ball said, that about seven o'clock in the morning of the 17th instant, he was sent for, but he found the child dead. Examined the body, but saw no marks upon it of anything likely to cause death. From what the mother of the child told him, and the appearance of the body, he was of opinion that the child died from convulsions.—Eliza Rutkin, mother of the child, said she had undressed him and put him to bed on the previous night, and he seemed then as well as usual. She got up between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, and soon afterwards the child commenced screaming and holding his breath, and went into convulsions. Witness tried to give the child something to drink, but he only breathed twice and died in her arms. The child had always been healthy.—A verdict of "Death from convulsions" was returned.

during the year. R. Greenway, Esq., was re-elected to the office of Circuit Steward; and also Hy. Bythway, Esq., in the room of the late Mr Edmonds. Mr J. Price generously provided the tea for the members of the meeting. The following is the resolution of sympathy that passed the meeting:—"The members of this Board unanimously desire, on behalf of the entire circuit, to express their great sorrow at the death of Mr John Thomas Edmonds, one of its circuit stewards, and for many years one of its most useful, influential, and energetic members; and to convey its unfeigned and profound sympathy with the bereaved widow and family. This Board deeply feels that the departure of our brother from the Church militant to the Church triumphant has left a vacancy, not only in the immediate family circle, but to an almost unlimited extent through this locality, and cannot but be regarded as one of the many great calamities that have occurred and befallen us during this eventful and memorable year of our Lord 1878; but we humbly bow to Divine Sovereignty. 'And he was not, for God took him.'—Signed (on behalf of the meeting), WILLIAM WAY, Superintendent Minister; RICHARD GREENWAY, Circuit Steward.

CWMBRAN.

CLARK'S GARDENS.—At Clark's Running Grounds, on Tuesday afternoon last, a feat was performed by a local man—W. Butter, of Nightingale Row,—who had undertaken for a wager of £10, to pick up 100 stones separately, the stones being placed one yard apart, and to perform the feat within 50 minutes. He won his wager, having one minute and a-half to spare, amid the plaudits of his backers and a numerous company of spectators.

CHRISTMAS TREES.—On Christmas-day, the usual custom of decorating Christmas trees was extensively carried out here. The Wesleyans, Congregationalists, and the Baptists at Two Locks Chapel, all doing their best in striving to attract the patronage of the public for their particular cause, the Congregationalists and Baptists being desirous of adding to their chapel funds, and the Wesleyans seeking for aid towards the funds of their new school, which would have been opened if the weather had permitted. The articles exhibited on each of the trees were so inviting, that it only required a peep at them to entice the sixpence from one's pocket for a ticket. The tree at Elim Chapel was plentifully supplied with articles of a useful character, such as handkerchiefs, scarfs, small shawls, &c., and that at the Two Locks Chapel was the same. At the Wesleyan Chapel provision had been made for the inner man as well as outward adornment, by means of a refreshment stall, presided over by Mrs. Pugh and Mrs. Jones. On the tree were to seen a varied assortment, from a penny whistle to fat geese, ducks, fowls, rabbits, and a guinea pig, besides many other articles equally useful and comforting. Mr. Hodges, Mr. Barville, Mr. Eastmore, Mr. Pugh, Mr. Knowles, Mr. Bennett, and others, were busily engaged until eleven o'clock in distributing the prizes. We are glad to learn that a good sum was realised by each of the trees.

MOUNTAIN ASH.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday evening, Edwin Jay, a fireman on a Great Western Railway locomotive, got off his engine, which stood in a siding, and was knocked down by a passing special train. His head was smashed. His body was placed in a shell and taken to his lodgings in Gloucester-street, Aberdare. The deceased was a native of Abergavenny.

BRISTOL.

FRAUD BY A SOCIETY TREASURER.—At Bristol Police Court, on Tuesday, Henry Hunt, treasurer of the Bristol Branch Operative Masons Friendly Society, was charged with embezzling £42 10s. 9d. Prisoner who was appointed to his office in October, 1877, admitted having received the money, and not paying it over. He said it was taken from him one night, after he left the secretary, and not knowing what to do, he absconded. Prisoner was sentenced to six months imprisonment.

CHURCH DESTROYED BY FIRE.—On Sunday morning, St. George's Church, Gloucestershire, near Bristol, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered at 3 o'clock in the morning, and the Bristol Police Brigade were summoned; but on their arrival it was found that the flames had spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save the building, which was completely gutted in three hours, only the bare walls remaining. The conflagration was caused by the over-heating of gas stoves which were left burning on Saturday afternoon. The registers and the communion plate were saved, but nothing else. The bells were destroyed. The vicarage was only slightly damaged. The church had recently been restored, and the loss is estimated at £6,000. The building is only partially insured. A wedding took place in the ruined porch at 9 o'clock on Sunday.

THE NEW MEMBER.—Mr Lewis Fry, of Goldney House, Clifton, near Bristol, who has lately been returned to Parliament for the city in the Liberal interest, in the place of Mr Kirkman Daniel Hodgson, resigned, is a son of Mr Joseph Fry, of Bristol, and was admitted a solicitor in Easter Term, 1854. He is, according to the Law List, senior partner in the firm of Messrs Fry, Abbot, Pope, and Brown, solicitors, of the city of Bristol, and also a Commissioner for the administration of oaths. He now enters Parliament for the first time. Mr Fry, who is a member of the Society of Friends, married in 1859 Miss Elizabeth Pease Gibson, daughter of the late Mr Francis Gibson, of Saffron Waldon, Essex.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

Dear Sir,—I should like, by the aid of your valuable local journal, to call the attention of the Local Board (or of those whom it may more immediately concern), to a dangerous nuisance existing in Lower Bridge St., caused by a large quantity of water almost daily running from a stable-yard adjacent to the Welsh Baptist Chapel, which has been the cause of a great number of falls, some of them attended with serious results, during the sharp weather we have been having lately. I feel convinced that the nuisance has only to be made known in the proper quarters to be promptly abated, as at present it is absolutely at the risk of one's neck or limbs to walk down the street. Also, while on the subject, I should like the attention of the surveyor called to the very bad state of the paving in the same street—the improvements in Park Terrace making us hope that the same privileges might be extended to us also.

Hoping you will favour me by inserting this in your next issue, and apologising for the length of the communication,

I am, sir, yours truly,

THE PARSON'S GRATE.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—On public grounds and for the good of the community, may I ask you to insert the following.

Some idea may be formed of the discontent with our present system of warming, from the fact that I have received in ten days more than 1,000 letters, complaining of insufficient warming, and requesting instructions for constructing the parson's grates. The letters still continue to come in large numbers. I would venture to suggest, that these grates are especially desirable in railway stations, board schools, and other large areas, for they can be inexpensively adapted to the agricultural labourer's cottage or to rooms of large dimensions. I speak from more than twelve months' experience of their use. For a room 30 feet by 20 feet, a grate 24 inches wide and 14 inches high would give a superabundance of heat, and its cost including the setting, need not exceed about £3. If required for richly furnished rooms the ornamentations might be costly, according to desire. At present our railway stations are cheerless in winter. Not only do we get much more heat from a like quantity of fuel, but the cost of attendance is considerably less. As at present constructed, the heat is carried up the chimney instead of being diffused in the room. The drying effect of these grates is surprising, and especially valuable in country districts during the moist cold season; instead of drawing the outside air through every crevice, as is done by the strong drawing registers, these grates heat, dry, and expand the air which is in the room, so that one feels warm all over, reminding one of summer rather than of winter. With these grates, the floor is the warmest part of the room, instead of (as at present) the coldest.

Some idea may be formed of the heat given out in the proper direction, by the fact, that kettles and saucepans will boil almost as quick on trivets in front of the fire as on the top; and toast can be very quickly made—I expect we soon shall see kitcheners made on this plan.

A lady friend of mine said to me—"I cannot make toast at any one of my strong drawing register stoves, but have to go to the kitchen grate." The heat went up the chimney instead of coming into the room. I estimate that there are nearly Ten Millions of fire grates in the United Kingdom on the wrong principle, if so, what a scope for reform!

Another advantage is, that the fire may be left without attention for 4 or 5 hours, the bottom being of fire brick, is red hot. In fact, it is not uncommon to find fire still burning in the morning—this is valuable for bed rooms.

It requires very little poking, a poker of ½ inch iron, sharp pointed, 18 inches long, weighing 5 ounces, is all-sufficient.

In these grates the smoke from the coal is converted into flaming gas, thus not only giving additional heat, but also preventing the fouling of the chimney, while increasing the up current in it—in fact, it first produces flame, then coke, and then burns the coke to an incombustible ash—this is perfect combustion. Smoky chimnies are thus abolished and chimney sweepers will be in less request.

The grate may be described as a long, deep, but narrow trough, with fire-brick ends, back, and floor, the front is an iron hurdle, having from 6 to 10 bars of round iron 7-16 of an inch thick, with intervals of 1¼ inches. A trough 16 inches deep and 14 inches wide, would heat a full-sized room, containing 450 superficial feet. The interior of the grate is only 4½ inches from back to front at its base, and 5½ inches at the level of the top bar. This thin stratum of coal permits the air, which enters only through the front bars, to circulate freely between the coals, and thus causes perfect combustion.

Except when fitted to previous register stoves, the floor of the grate is level with the floor of the room; when applied to existing stoves, the trough is fitted

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.
From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

Is the best Medicine for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pulmonary Consumption, and all Complaints of the Lungs.

It promotes free expectoration, and prevents that accumulation of phlegm which causes a sense of choking, allays irritability and tickling in the throat, relieves that sense of oppression, fulness, and difficulty of breathing, which nightly deprives the patient of rest. Public speakers will find it a most effectual preventative against Hoarseness.

SUBJOINED ARE A FEW SELECT TESTIMONIALS:—

From the Lady Georgiana Milner,

NUN-APPLETON, near York.

Mr. SCHOLEFIELD,—I find your Cough Elixir is very beneficial; I have given it amongst the poor people, who are all anxious to have it again, as it appears to remove the cough.

A. GEORGIANA MILNER.

From Colonel Grattan, Her Majesty's Royal Engineers,

COLONEL GRATTAN has much pleasure in testifying that he has found Mr. W. Schofield's Cough Mixture very efficacious on several occasions on which he has taken it for a cough.

From Mrs. Colonel Fairfax, Bilbrough Hall, near York, the seat of Colonel Fairfax, Master of the York and Ainsty Hunt, and late of the Grenadier Guards.

BILBROUGH HALL, YORK.

Mr. SCHOLEFIELD,—I can thoroughly recommend your Cough Mixture. It cured a very troublesome Cough with me more than once, and my servants think there is nothing like it. You may send me a bottle on the first opportunity, as I think it is a good thing to have by one.

Yours truly, EVELYN FAIRFAX.

From the Rev. Theophilus Clarke, B.A., the Vicarage, Tadcaster.

Mr. SCHOFIELD,—I had for some weeks been troubled with an obstinate cold on my chest, when on having resource to your excellent Cough Elixir I quickly found relief, and have ever since been free from its harrassing symptoms.

Yours truly, THEOPHILUS CLARKE.

From the Rev. CARTER BROWNE, B.D., Grammar School, Tadcaster.

The Rev. CARTER BROWNE has used Mr. Wm. Schofield's Cough Elixir for a member of his family, and found it so speedily efficacious in entirely removing the Cough that he would certainly send a long distance for it in case of a similar need. It is a medicine which ought to be made public.

HOPKINSON'S PIANOFORTES are unequalled for PURITY AND PERFECTION OF TONE, DELICATE TOUCH, GREAT DURABILITY, and ELEGANT APPEARANCE. Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS. The Advantages are obvious.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877. A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877. JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

The Rothwell Liberal Association.

PRESENTATION TO MR. DANIEL ROGERS.

On Monday last, the Liberal Association Room was the scene of no little interest. A special meeting convened for the purpose of presenting Mr. Rogers with a suitable testimonial, in appreciation of the valuable services which he has rendered in the formation of the above society. For a long time past the members determined in recognition of his ability and sterling worth, to make him a present of some kind, and eventually they decided to present him with a beautiful Silver Horizontal Watch, value £4, the watch was supplied by Mr. Rispin Scott, Leeds, and bears the following inciption:—

Presented to Mr. Daniel Rogers, by the Members in appreciation of his services, rendered in the formation of the Rothwell Liberal Association, Dec., 1877.

And after a few remarks Mr. R. Sykes then make the presentation. Mr. Sykes then made a very appropriate speech, remarking that he supposed the reason why he had been selected, was that Mr. Rogers and him had for a long time been boon companions, and besides that he had been one of the promoters in getting up the testimonial, and it gave him great pleasure. After discussing on Mr. Rogers merit and worth, and concluded by hoping that he would be long spared to wear it, and after he departed this this world, may it be handed down to his children as an heirloom representing the Liberal principles and businesstact of their ancestors (applause.) Other speeches followed from several members of the society, the watch was then presented to Mr Rogers, after which Mr. Rogers replied. Mr. Rogers then proceed to speak labouring under great emotion end spoke has follows:—

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN,—I have often seen testimonials presented to persons, and invaribly they have been overcome with emotion, I have sometimes thought that a good bit of it was hypocrisy, but now I can understand the reality of the position and I can assure you that so long as I live, I shall never forget your kindness. When I commenced along with Messrs. Harrison, Sykes, and B. Batty, the work of organising a Liberal Association in Rothwell, I little thought that we should succeed in so short a time in establishing such a formidable society, a society that will eventually, be an acknowledged power for good in the neighbourhood. It may be now that our political opponents speak disrespectfully of us, but unbiassed people can understand their motives and I have no hesitation in saying that it will do us more good, that if they recognizted us, and offered us the right hand of fellowship, although that is very desirable, because difference of opinion ought never to divide friendship. We have by our persistent ondeavours as a body in the cause of Liberalism so assisted in placing within the power of the people of Rothwell the means to unite and demand with one voice, that recognition from our rulers, which a tax-paying and civilized people are justly entitled to, and to those gentlemen that constitute the present members of the society, are due the thanks of the working-men of Rothwell because the recent struggle proved that the working-men are of liberal principles and can and will assert their principles when opportunity offers (cheers.) As long as I remain connected with the Association I shall consider it my duty to offer at all times such advice as will in my opinion be for the good of the whole people, and will ensure the stability of our cause, I cannot help remarking the pleasure I feel that we have a weekly paper in our midst, by the aid of it and through the courtsey of its Editor, all parties may in a reasonable manner express their views on matters local and national interest, I refer to the Rothwell Times a paper I hope the people will purchase, and that the people will appreciate it, for I believe the time is not far distant when the people of Rothwell will puruse its pages with more interest than one of its larger circulated contempories.

In conclusion fellow working-men we are admittdd to be the main prop to the constitution of the country, we posses excellent abilities, and are able to command the admiration of the whole world, that is the position of the working community of this country to day, yet we are denied the Franchise and ruled by the nonentities of society that we are not entitled to political en-franchisement. United we may defy such schemers, and be able to assert that respect of ourselves which will undoubtably command the respect of our opponents. I gratefully accept the present your offer me, which will unite me in the bonds of friendship with, the people of Rothwell as long as long as I live (cheers). The metting shortly after broke up.

"Jex" and the Institute Committee.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

DEAR SIR,—I am of opinion that most of the arguments set forth by your correspondent "Jex" were well answered, in anticipation, by the previous letter of the joint Secretaries, as however, I am one of the original promoters referred to by "Jex," you will, I trust, allow me to appear in print for the purpose of trying to bring this controversy to a conclusion. "Jex" asserts that "calm reflection for a moment must convince these young gentlemen that they have made a reckless statement which they must be perfectly aware they cannot substantiate." How very unkind of old and experienced "Jex," when with such very calm and deliberate perversity, he does not in any way substantiate that "letting the hall for political purposes" was not the original intention of the promoters. It was my lot to attend some scores of committee and public meetings, promoting the scheme referred to, and also to talk about the affair with hundreds of people, and I am certain that one idea brought more money out of many people's pockets than any other; and that was, also providing a large room for public purposes; some even asking for the hall to be built first. There might have been persons then who would have opposed letting the hall for Religious purposes (we had no politics then) but they must have "hid their diminished heads," feeling that it was too late then to advocate such narrow views. The remark was often made "Rothwell may grow politics when there is a common platform on which to advocate such things." Perhaps "Jex" did not live with us when the hall was first used for religious services, or there might have been a battle for religious freedom then, happily however use has now established that, and we have great pleasure in joining both Churchmen and Dissenters in their services at the hall. What would be the result now if one sect should assert that the hall should not be lent to either of the other sects? Well, if these parties so divided in many ideas can agree to allow freedom to each religious party, surely "Jex" may yet learn to apply the same fair rule to politics. If my good friend and neighbour does happen by education and training to be of different political sentiments to my own, am I justified in calling him a sympathizer with Secularists and Infidels? According to "Jex" we must not be Liberals because there are Secularists among them; then by a similar rule we must not be Conservatives, because there are Publicans and Ritualists among them, therefore a good man should not be a politician at all. Dr. Parker's advice I would also take, but act upon in a different way; by advising the religious public not to leave politics to such characters, but to be true patriots themselves; it would not suit these objectionable characters to join issue with you, and they would either alter their views by your conscientious and upright conduct, or depart from you. I would have my good friends take the maxim of another good man, "Take your religion into your politics, but don't bring your politics into your religion." "Jex" seems to wish the Mechanics' Committee to act impartially and so do most of us,—"but is it possible to act so and refuse to allow political freedom amongst us?" we are certain it is not. So our Conservative neighbours must buckle on their armour, by forming another association, and proving that they have good reasons for being what they are. Surely whilst in power they are not afraid to hold their own on the same platform. We feel certain that they are welcome to use the hall and we have also no doubt that much enthusiasm will be created by their doing so. Let us try to place the action of the Letting Committee in another light, "Jex" charges them with showing partiality towards Liberals by allowing them the use of the hall for a public lecture, well, but by refusing to do so, would they not have been fairly open to the charge of showing partiality towards Conservatives, and between the horns of such a dilemma what could they do, but that which they have done, made the hall open to both parties. But "Jex" I find makes a charge against the Mechanics' Institution of favouring the party spoken of now, he must be aware that the Committee refused to let any of their more private rooms to them, and surely too intelligent to confound transactions in the Public Hall with the Institution itself. The hall belongs to those who rent it for the time being, just the same as most of our houses belong to us. In conclusion, if anything more needs to be said we may instance the fact that numbers of neighbouring institutes, Castleford, Hunslet, Holbeck, and Leeds, let their public rooms for all the purposes previously named, and even for Liberal tion Meetings, some of them. The battle for Religious Freedom has been fought and won amongst us, and we trust that soon this Political Freedom contest will be successfully ended, and then "Jex" and all other good citizens must bury the hatchet, and let peace, joy, and contentment again shed their happy radiance over us.

THE NEW YEAR.

Again the anniversary of the Saviour's birth has gone, and the usual greetings have been exchanged and the yearly festivities are still being held. At about four o'clock on Christmas morning, the Rothwell Brass Band awakened the sleeping Rothwellians with the time honoured "Christians awake" and shortly after, the old hymns began to be sung. As in past years, the old church has been tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers, while illuminated texts adorned the walls. Service was held in the morning as usual.

On the Wednesday after, a Christmas tree was held in the Wesleyan school-room where a variety of useful and fancy articles were exposed for sale. The tree was one of the finest we have seen, and it was a pity the children had not been more plentifully remembered on its wide spreading branches. Several scientific attractions were provided through the kindness of Mr. S. Seanor, who showed his electric bells, galvanic battery, and speaking telegraph, which latter caused great amusement and interest. The Wesleyan choir sang several pieces during the evening, and thereby enlivened the proceedings.

On Thursday a fruit banquet and concert in connection with the Band of Hope were held in the Institute, which passed off very well.

Turning to the local history of the year 1877, we are pleased to record some progress in social and political matters.

Our Local Board, taunted as it sometimes is, has proved during the past year, that some work is being accomplished, and the public works so long promised are now actually in progress. The arrangements for a water supply for Rothwell are all completed, and tenders for the various works have been asked in the papers, while Stourton is and has been for some time receiving water through the Board. The drainage of Stourton is also finally settled, and will be received into the pipes as soon as the Corporation have completed their preparations, while the sewerage of Rothwell is being actively pushed on. The School Board now directs the education of some 300 children, the large majority of which had previously been quite neglected, and is now making arrangements for the supply of the deficency of school accommodation in Rothwell, so that before 1879 dawns, we may anticipate that the education of all the children in the School Board District will be provided for, and the duty enforced. New houses still continue to rise, though not in such numbers as last year, and we are pleased to note, that some of the eyesores of the place are being removed, and respectable, nay imposing buildings are being built in their place. After several efforts, and several attempts, the Postal Authorities have at last opened a Money Order and Savings' Bank Office at Rothwell, the transactions of which are highly satisfactory to the Department, and well used by the public, nearly £2,000 having passed through the office in the past 10 months, in about 1,200 transactions. Licenses of of all descriptions can now be obtained at the office, and in the course of two or three months, the Telegraph will be extended to Rothwell.

The Mechanics' Institute continues to be a means of good to many, and the Large Hall has been largely used for all sorts of respectable purposes.

There have been two elections, one for the Local Board in April (three members), and the triennial School Board Election in November, which created more interest than any previous one, through some political significance being given to it.

In September, a Liberal Association was formed, which has exerted some influence on the course of public events, and whether we agree with all its sentiments or not, is at any rate, a sign of greater life and interest on public matters.

The restoration of the church tower, the addition of a new burial ground, and the placing of a new clock in the tower have all been successfully completed and paid for by general subscriptions and other means, and in one way or another are considerable accomplishments.

In the neighbouring villages, Lofthouse and Carlton have secured their second School Board without the cost and ill-feeling engendered by a contest, while Oulton and Woodlesford hope to do the same by selecting five gentlemen to be nominated when the order for an election arrives. At Oulton a handsome present and testimonial were given to the Rev. R. H. Hamilton, on completing his 30th ministerial year, and at Woodlesford, the Rev. A. J. Irvin has been instituted to the vicarage of that church.

The health report is extremely satisfactory, the death rate being exceptionally small.

Though trade generally has been bad, we believe Rothwell has not suffered so much as might have been expected, and for the last three months, we understand the pits have been working well.

Personally, we look back with thankfulness, and forward with hope, feeling, that notwithstanding the vicissitudes of a newspaper's life, the infant Rothwell Times has outlived the fears of many, and that we may now lay claim to all the attention and patronage of a four-year old. While far from infallible, and not always so complete as we should like, we trust that any errors of judgment or inaccuracies in statement will be put down to the proper cause, and that, by the continued endeavours to represent all parties, we shall be able to merit increased support, and we would state that on receiving sufficient notice of any meeting or gathering, we shall be most happy to attend and report the same, while communications of news and letters on public questions will be welcome. Surely every ratepayer and householder is sufficiently interested in the matters of his own town, as to take a copy of the local paper. We trust to add a large number of subscribers to our list, which has nearly doubled during the last three months.

In conclusion, let us look forward hopefully, and let us again return to the resolutions suited to the season, and as for ourselves, we enter on 1878 heartily wishing our friends

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The Rothwell Mechanics' Institution and the Liberal Association

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—After reading the communication, by "Jex" in your last issue—I think that some of his statements are uncalled for, especially those remarks attacking the Liberal Association. And I think that they ought not to pass by without some comment. It is patent to any impartial reader, that "Jex" has no sympathy with the Liberal Association, or its objects, evidently from some groundless fears that it is composed of a dangerous faction, and that it is the precursor of a reign of terror in the town. Now I can assure "Jex" that its objects are as legitimate, and as peaceful as those that choose to differ from us politically. Our policy is the promulgation of a healthy tone of public opinion by having a series of public lectures of a political character, and the distribution of a variety of liberal literature, with a desire to effect mutual improvement, through the medium of a Debating Class that has been formed in connection with the Association. These are our objects, and a man that can appreciate the spirit of the age in which he lives will apprehend no danger from such a line of policy. Even our political opponents must think that the above objects are commendable, and whether they are carried out or not, remains to be seen. For is not liberalism a necessary element in the State? consult history and you will find demonstrative proof; for what are politics, but a branch of ethics; and if properly viewed they are the morals of the people;—politics consists of a knowledge and practice of the claims of rights, and the obligations of duty which belong to men as members of society. A knowledge of them enables a person to guard against the errors and the abuses of the age, and to be indifferent to such matters of importance, is to be indifferent to results, and indifferent to the character and wellbeing of the people. Because upon political action depends such results as peace or war, plenty or starvation, virtue and vice, prosperity or declension, security to person, security to property, or the jeopardy of all the principles necessary for righteous government of the people; surely "Jex" and his party do not want the people of Rothwell to neglect such vital interests. Thinking here as I do of the importance of healthy public opinion in political questions, against "Jex's" objections to the Mechanics' Institute being used for political purposes, I enter my determined protest. Because such objections can only spring from political ignorance or party feelings, but party feelings I should say, for such a feeling pervades the whole of his abstruse effusion. And I tell you, sir, that if there had been throughout the counties in the past, such Associations as ours, there would not have been that difference that exists now between the boroughs and the counties. We should have had the last Reform Bill made applicable to the counties, and not have been tabooed as we are at present, from enjoying the suffrage, and not have been insulted by being told that we were too ignorant to use such a privilege; still further look at the cowardly manner in which he gives vent to his spleen, by throwing dirt at the Association under cover of a nom de plume: for instance he, takes upon himself to warn men of professed christian principles from running alongside with the infidel and the secularists, leading people to believe that several members belonging to the Association held secular; opinions as far as I am acquainted with the views of the members, I deny the veracity of "Jex's" statements, I look upon that part of his effusion as a diabolical attempt to prejudice men of of liberal leanings from joining the Association. But I can assure "Jex" that the Association has nothing to fear from his sophistry and spleen, because history furnishes us with sufficient evidence, that one of the chief characteristics of Englishmen is—That when he finds an institution insulted and calumniated, that it enlists sympathies, from feelings that are actuated by liberty of action and freedom of speech, and my firm opinion is that if the Conservative subscribers withdraw their subscriptions from the Mechanics' that it will have the effect of drawing the working-men into closer alliance with the Institution, and by that means there will be a great and glorious future in store for the Mechanics' Institution. Then again "Jex" fancies that the fabric of England's glory is threatened by the presence of the Liberal Association, this idea was one of the antiquated ideas of the 17th century. Is the protestant religion that in the dark ages suffered every kind of prosecution that man could devise, and this all failed to stop its onward career, and now that it is the established church, supported and protected by the State, can it really be in danger from the co-operation of upwards of a hundred individuals, even if they were all the avowed enemies of christianity? I say no, and I can assure you "Mr. Jex" that if you have attempted to play on the tender susceptibilities of weak-minded people, that your letter will be a miserable failure. "Jex" accuses the Liberal Association with dragging politics into the late election. I admit the accusation, and were we the only parties that made a political question of it? Did not one of the other parties issue party-coloured posters and party-coloured cards on and before the day of election. If such a practice is contemptible, why did "Jex's" party do it, and now that the party failed to secure its object by such means, the practice must be condemned of course, but I cannot imagine why "Jex" or any one else can expect any difference in this respect, from a party which professes to be purely of a political character. In conclusion, I have never yet seen those malignant expressions of countenance complained of by "Jex," and I do not want to see them. I assure "Jex" that our party need not look daggers at its former friends, for we are quite satisfied for the present, and just to show that there is no ill-feeling on our part, I wish, in the name of the Association, that all our late opponents have enjoyed a merry Christmas, and that they will have a happy new year,—"Jex" included, of course.

I remain, Yours truly, BENJAMIN BATTY.

Yours truly,
EVELYN FAIRFAX.

From the Rev. Theophilus Clarke, B A., the Vicarage, Tadcaster.

HOPKINSON'S PIANOFORTES are unequalled for PURITY AND PERFECTION OF TONE, DELICATE TOUCH, GREAT DURABILITY, and ELEGANT APPEARANCE. Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the Paris Exhibition in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, two firms only in Great Britain were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—"For Great Britain—"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) Three Instruments were selected by the Jurors as Superior to all others, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a Prize Medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1867.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

Jewellers' Windows.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

The usual meeting of the Local Board was held on Monday evening, present J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Sanderson, Dobson, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Greenwood and the Clerk, Medical Officer and Inspector. The minutes of last meeting of last having been read and confirmed, the Medical officer presented the monthly report. A question having arisen about certain work in Wood Lane, it was proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by the chairman and carried. "That the matter be referred to the Highway Committee who shall make the best arrangements they can, with Messrs. Elliot and Sons." By reason of Oulton-cum-Woodlesford considerably reducing their Sewage scheme, the question of Rothwell going in with that Authority for a joint scheme was again mooted. Several members complained strongly that Mr. Parkinson, the engineer, was not present, to state more fully the cause of the reduction; as, however, the Board had received no written reply from Mr. Hanson as to "whether, if the Board carried out his proposal, he would bear the cost of the official enquiry, should his plan be rejected," the whole question was adjourned for a week, when it is anticipated, Mr. Hanson will have definitely replied, and Mr. Parkinson will also attend. Letters bearing on the matter were also read from the Local Government Board and from Mr. Calverly. Mr. Filleter wrote to ask whether a suitable place was near the proposed reservoir, into which the dirty water might run. A reply was to be forwarded to Mr. Filliter, making an appointment for him to meet the Public Works Committee on Saturday afternoon at the site. In reply to a request made some time ago, that Mr. Matthewman should collect the water rents for the last quarter, that gentleman stated that he found himself unable to do so; it was therefore proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Smith and carried.—"That Mr. Price be appointed temporarily as water rent collector, until the whole water scheme is complete.

Mr Burton, of Wakefield, solicitor in the matter of Briggs' property, wrote that lot 10, marked off by the Board for the proposed street improvement, must be bought by the Board previous to the sale. The Clerk had replied after consulting the Public Works Committee, offering 5s. 6d. per yard, but Mr. Burton considered he should have 7s. 6d. at the same time suggesting that the owners thought 10s. should be given.

It was proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, "That a deputation consisting of Mr. Smith, and Mr. Dobson, and the Clerk wait on Mr. Burton, and endeavour to arrange a purchase of 85 yards, at a price not exceeding 7s. 6d. per yard; the expenses of the deputation to be paid." Seconded by the chairman and carried.

The Secretary of the Midland Railway Company informed the Board that the directors had considered the memorial of the Local Board in reference to Rothwell, and that, wishing to afford every facility in their power, they could not see their way to opening a line near Rothwell.

In reply to a request from the Board, a letter was read from the Local Government Board, stating that they had recommended the Public Works' Loan Commissioners to lend the sum of £4,725 to the Local Board, at 3½ per cent. interest, repayable in 30 years, but that it rested with their Lordships.

The Clerk handed in a letter to the chairman, and after retiring, the contents were read; referring to the large increase of labour and time entailed by the prosecution of the various public works in progress, and respectfully asking the Board for an advance. Several members spoke highly of the efficient service rendered by the Clerk, and the large amount of work and responsibility devolving upon him, and it was proposed by Mr. Smith and seconded by Mr. Dobson, "That an advance of £10 per annum be granted to the Clerk," all the members except Messrs. Hargreaves voting for the motion.

On being recalled, the Clerk suitably thanked the members of the Board.

The Committee appointed to see about draining the streets and numbering the houses at Stourton reported that the tender of Mr. Hughes had been accepted for £3 15s.

The Board unanimously adopted the report, and adopted the contract.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

On Tuesday evening, a special meeting was held, present—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, (Chairmtn), Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, aud the Clerk.

The only business was the consideration of the advisability of the Board's bidding at the sale of property on Thursday, as a site fos the intended Board School. Mr. Richardson attended with the sketch of plan for schools and house. Opinions as to the eligibility of the site as a school-site were not unanimous, Mr. Seanor proposing a resolution to that effect, which was not seconded.

The conditions of the sale were then considered, and it was resolved unanimously "That the conditions of sale are such as to preclude the Board from purchasing the site.

Rothwell Mechanics' Institute.

THE EVENING CLASSES.

On Friday evening, the 4th inst., an entertainment was given by several ladies and gentlemen for tho benefit of the evening classes, and particularly in connection with the drawing class under South Kensington.

On the platform were W. Mason, Esq., president of the Institute, the Rev. George Heberden, M.A., and Messrs Livock and S. Seanor, of the Art Committee. The audience only about half filled the room, but they were evidently of the appreciative class.

Miss Middlemas very efficiently presided at the pianoforte. Miss Goodacre and Miss Cockerham sang two duets during the evening, the latter young lady also giving two songs, both warmly received. The Harmonic were also present, and agreeably and well varied the programme by the singing of glees.

Readings of a profitable character were well rendered by Mr. H. R. Livock, Mr. J. R. Seanor, and Mr. J. Batty.

During the evening, Mr. Livock read the yearly report of the Art Class.

In moving the adoption of the report, the Chairman urged the necessity for artizans, &c., having a thorough knowledge of drawing in its various branches.

Mr. Mason then presented the following prizes:

T. T. Rawling, received books from the Science and Art Department, and from the Committee, together with the Department's Certificate.

T. Stainer received a valuable box of colours, from the Department, and a certificate, and also Mr Braithwaite's special prize for second winner.

Thomas Copley, Thos. Richardson, Wm. A. Richardson, } All gained Certificates of Merit

The Rev. G. Heberden gave a short address on the Evening Classes, their object and advantages; but was sorry that those to whom his remarks would have been principally directed, were conspicuous by their absence. There was a great in Rothwell of greater intelligence, and he urged on all the need of using every means for increasing their knowledge.

Mr. S. Seanor proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Mason, the Rev. Mr. Heberden, the ladies who had sung and played, the gentlemen who had given the readings. and to the Harmonic Union.

Mr. Mason acknowledged the complement and tee meetinn broke up.

"Jex" and the Institute Committee.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,—I am moved to say a few words anent some of the arguments used by your correspondent 'Jex' in your issue of the 21st December, by your permission I shall deal only with the latter portion of his letter leaving to some other hand the duty of correcting 'Jex,' who can speak to matter of fact, officially. 'Jex' says Rothwell has been noted for the peaceful understanding and lovingkindness that existed between parties of all shades of opinion until recently. No doubt, while the Church party had the power in its hands to lead opinion, and fashion the children's education, to mould their minds and colour their thoughts—all was pleasant to the churchman, he was agreeable, even kind, but when a party of tendencies decidedly opposite to Church hinted there must be an alteration, our agreeable friend the churchman changed, and 'Jex' accurately describes his appearance when he says his features wore a 'malignant expression.' Power is yet in the hands of the Church, she wields the wand of fashion, she 'christens' us, 'confirms' us, 'marries' us, 'burries' us,—dissent in these matters 'hiding her diminished head.' But political associations are being formed all over the country, and Rothwell follows in the wake to try conclusions with the Church in these matters, hark! how the Church adherents squeak! Mr. Rogers is 'verbose,' Mr. B. Batty intoxicating because these gentlemen happen to have the courage of their opinions, and taken the lead in the new movement of emancipation, at this point will you permit me, sir, to ask the question, who and what are the peculiar people called 'Secularists,' whom 'Jex' warns us christian politicians to shun? 'Jex' asks is it the duty of christian men to contribute any measure of support to—he says Secularists—but his argument is aimed at the Liberal Association, which is composed, doubtless, of many shades of dissent. This argument of 'Jex's' suggests to my mind another question. Is it the duty of nonchurchmen to be found contributing any measure of support when a Church restoration fund is opened, and its claims pushed? Nay, this argument, if sound, will go further still, it may be made to carry the strife into the personal details of every day life, especially if preached from the pulpit, and advised privately.—We must be careful as to the furniture-broker we deal with, or we may get a toilet glass or drawing-room mirror so unorthodox as to reflect a churchman and dissenter with equal truth. Intending benedicts should be discreet, in more senses than one, where they set their affections. A dissenter may not marry a maiden nursed on the milk of the true faith, should he be hardened in his dissent or a member of the Liberal Association, the dirty slush of odium will be poured upon his suit, and the maiden frightened out of her seven senses by menaces of the 'bottomless pit.' And then as to my family's medical adviser! we must decline his hitherto useful and highly-prized services, because he holds views differing from mine on points of Theology. My near neighbour, the cobbler, a good workmen, always obliging, who has hitherto saved my soles and repaired my elastics, I may no longer employ, lest I should discover in him a member of the Liberal Association; or may be I must change my plumber, and find a fresh one to attend to my gas should it happen the one who has soldered for me hitherto so well, differs with me in politics and doctrine. It may be his putty is mixed with the rancid oil of Toryism and may refuse to set, or his resin be of an orthodoxy antedeluvian, permitting the badgers of party passion to fill my private rooms, interfering with my domestic comfort. Who can tell what may happen when we get mixed trade, politics, and religion, and men in 'Jex's' position inciting us to throw the compound into each others' faces. 'Jex' pitches the ball very neatly at the wickets when he endeavours to link churchmen with dissenters together as placing religion before all other matters, but that ball will be blocked. Dissenters are too well trained in their long struggle with a domineering Church not to understand the fact that it is through the aid of Liberal politicians the Church is to be disestablished, the Burials question settled, and some other odd anomalies rectified. 'Jex's' solemn cant on this head will impose on no one whose brain will count for service in the struggle which is near at hand, I rather expect the local Liberal Association will be used by dissenters to give practical effect to some ideas ably set forth in a tract on 'Church and Chapel' dedicated to the Rev. J. Heberden in January last. I will conclude this letter by drawing attention to the tail end of 'Jex's' letter (barring the last paragraph). I submit it will be a sufficient reply to point out that while Church party had the control of the education of the people it was doled out so indifferently that to-day the majority of the labouring population in rural districts where the Church has been all powerful can neither read nor write.

THE

OR LUNG RESTORER,

It promotes free expectoration, and prevents that accumulation of phlegm which causes a sense of choking, allays irritability and tickling in the throat, relieves that sense of oppression, fulness, and difficulty of breathing, which nightly deprives the patient of rest. Public speakers will find it a most effectual preventative against Hoarseness.

SUBJOINED ARE A FEW SELECT TESTIMONIALS:—

From the Lady Georgiana Milner, NUN-APPLETON, near York.

Mr. SCHOLEFIELD,—I find your Cough Elixir is very beneficial; I have given it amongst the poor people, who are all anxious to have it again, as it appears to remove the cough.

A. GEORGIANA MILNER.

From Colonel Grattan, Her Majesty's Royal Engineers, 51, ELBURY STREET, LONDON,

COLONEL GRATTAN has much pleasure in testifying that he has found Mr. W. Schofield's Cough Mixture very efficacious on several occasions on which he has taken it for a cough.

From Mrs. Colonel Fairfax, Bilbrough Hall, near York, the seat of Colonel Fairfax, Master of the York and Ainsty Hunt, and late of the Grenadier Guards. BILBROUGH HALL, YORK.

Mr. SCHOLEFIELD,—I can thoroughly recommend your Cough Mixture. It cured a very troublesome Cough with me more than once, and my servants think there is nothing like it. You may send me a bottle on the first opportunity, as I think it is a good thing to have by one.

Yours truly, EVELYN FAIRFAX.

From the Rev. Theophilus Clarke, B A., the Vicarage, Tadcaster.

Mr. SCHOFIELD,—I had for some weeks been troubled with an obstinate cold on my chest, when on having resource to your excellent Cough Elixir I quickly found relief, and have ever since been free from its harrassing symptoms.

Yours truly, THEOPHILUS CLARKE.

The Rev. CARTER BROWNE has used Mr. Wm. Schofield's Cough Elixir for a member of his family, and found it so speedily efficacious in entirely removing the Cough that he would certainly send a long distance for it in case of a similar need. It is a medicine which ought to be made public.

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain— "BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867

After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered, with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HISTORY OF ROTHWELL.

Partly from choice, partly from necessity, we have delayed a review of our townsman's production, till some of our contemporaries have announced their opinions on the book written by Mr. John Batty.

Having observed the various standpoints from which it is viewed, as a valuable addition to antiquarians and topographical literature, &c. &c., it seems naturally to fall to our lot, to look at the History of Rothwell, with the eye of a native, one who is well acquainted with nearly every nook and corner mentioned, with the families and persons (or descendants) of those who have lived or who are now living here, and with the many anecdotal facts related.

As to the composition of the book, we must acknowledge we have been agreeably disappointed, for fear of unnecessary or irrelevant matter being introduced, and find that Mr. Batty has, as a rule, kept out of his work superfluous verbiage, and all uninteresting matter, thereby producing a History of Rothwell, of the most readable and instructive description. To the general historical student, enconiums may appear strained, but to a Rothwellian, every page is warm with reality and truth.

Mr. Batty very properly commences with an instructive glimpse of the state which the village would present in primeval times, and draws a very striking picture of the country and people.

The name of the place is next noticed, in which the author proves conclusively that the name arose from "Rode" (a cross) and "Well" (a spring of water) probably that which we still call Church-well.

The names of certain portions of the village are examined, and some, it appears, are of very ancient origin. On page 20 and 21, the meanings of Thwaite, Royd's, Thorp, &c., are explained, and also many others.

It is rather interesting that the common Rothwell phrase "get out o' t' gate" is really the Danish word for the "road to a place" so that the "Rodell" folks are not so far wrong in using the expression when they wish some one to "get out of the way." The "Ginnel" and the "Woggan" (well known passages in Rothwell) by Mr. Batty's explanation are Celtic words with a sensible meaning.

The simply historical portion of the book is pleasingly carried forward, a few events of national importance having occurred, and several notobilities, including royalty itself having honoured ancient Rothwell.

A large amount of information is given respecting the church, the old vicarage, and the manor house, and the ruined castle, valuable alike to local and national antiquaries and students of history.

Old games, and customs are noted and described; early parsons and squires biographied, and several natives of the village mentioned, who afterwards made their mark in commerce, art, and literature.

The origin and objects of the Court-leet, the dead brief, and other institutions, as well as a copious description of the various religous, literary, and friendly societies, are given from authentic sources. The Goal and its tenants receive a considerable degree of attention, while the Alms-houses and Workhouse have traditions of their own.

A most interesting portion of the history (to natives) is the story of the difficulties and successes of the Brandlings, the Fentons, and the Charlesworth's, in founding and extending the coal trade on which we now mostly depend. The very primitive and rough instruments and engines used in sinking the pits and getting the coal, as well as the fearful dangers and long hours endured by the colliers in those days caused a feeling of thankfulness to thrill through one's heart that we live in better and less dangerous times.

Just at the present time, when Mr. De Morgan is asserting the rights of Hunslet Commoners, Mr. Brandling's advertisement in the Leeds Intelligencer, dated January 17th, 1758, is of considerable interest. He proposes to reduce the price of coal, and in order to more speedily and completely supply the wants of the people, he intended to have a waggon-way from Middleton collieries to his staith in Leeds. He offers to serve them at 4½d. per cwt. Messrs. Fenton also offer coals in the same paper. In September, of the same year, it appears the first waggon load of coals was brought from Mr. Brindling's pits, and great rejoicings were manifested.

The history of Seanor's match trade is also given from its commencement in 1840; the stone quarries are noticed also. Passing notes are made of the introduction of printing and the establishment of this journal.

Defunct trades formerly carried on in Rothwell are rescued from oblivion by their enumeration in this work, including the cloth, brush, lace, and tanning industries, while the basket makers and band spinners still remain in full swing. A short chapter is devoted to improvements under the government of the Local Board and School Board, and hopes are entertained of a brighter and more influential career in the future of Rothwell.

Taking the history as a whole, the author is to be highly applauded for his painstaking research, the general correctness of his statements, and the earnest perseverance and self denial which he has shown, and the book deserves a wide circulation among our own people especially.—We wish it every success.

"Jex" & the Institute Mechanics' Committee.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—If the erection of the Mechanics' Institution for public purposes was the object of the original promoters as maintained by myself and endorsed by your correspondent 'Justitia,' it is impossible for me to see that the Committee are justified in inferring therefrom the perfect right to allow the Institution to be used for political purposes. Surely 'Justitia' does not for one moment mean to assert that politics are included under that head, for he and all others must be well aware that politics stand most distinctly apart from all other subjects under consideration. He attempts in a short sentence to place his veto upon my statements and would fain lead us to believe that one of the chief objects in erecting the hall was that in the distant future politics might therein play no unimportant part. As a Mechanics' Institution it was raised, and therefore as a Mechanics' Institution only should it be used. There is no parallel to be drawn between the Institutions of Castleford, Hunslet, Holbeck, &c., as 'Justitia' is not in ignorance that these buildings were raised by very different methods to that of Rothwell, for in a small place like this the feelings of both parties have to be considered, and therefore the introduction of innovations by a section of Committee-men, who thereby parted with some amount of honour, as I showed in my former letter, but which 'Justitia' with perfect nonchalance passed by without comment, is much to be depreciated. It is only a short time since that the Committee remembering the munificence of Mr. Calverley thought the circumstance of that gentleman's son attaining his majority, afforded them an opportunity of showing their appreciation of his liberality by forwarding him an illuminated address of congratulation, and I still think the Committee would have shown greater wisdom if they had persevered as hitherto in steering a steady course between the two parties. Do they think gentlemen will in future be inclined to regard the Institution as pursuing an independent course, when they have already initiated a one-sided policy? It is one thing maintaining a course of action that offends no party, and another in adopting a line of conduct that pleases some, and gives offence to many. But it seems to me that 'Justitia' and those who think with him have small regard for the feelings of others, and care little about the future of such a useful Institution so long as their own personal feelings are gratified. The Institution moved along very nicely without the introduction of politics within its borders, and it is certain that their adoption will not improve matters. 'Justitia' prates about peace and good-will, when it is entirely through such as he that the peace is disturbed, and then he modestly hepes that his efforts will bring the controversy to a conclusion, a duty which I believe is generally left the Editor to perform in a summary manner. It must be observable that the remarks of 'Justitia' were entirely confined to one or two paragraphs only in my letter, he thus leaving the main and more serious portion uncommented upon simply because he knows that my position there is unassailable and that my statements cannot be gainsayed. It never occurred to me that the contents of my epistle had gone so far home in certain direction, and after all it is but natural that antiquated 'Justitia' should resent when 'old and experienced Jex' had the misfortune to tread upon his corns. That he is the essence of justice is a matter I canwell afford to leave himself to decide, but to adopt such a signature as 'Justitia' when there were accusations in my letter which he had not the courage to notice, leads me to the conclusion that his justice is confined to the tail of his communication. But let me not be led away too much by my feelings, as, although I did or did not reside in Rothwell when the Institution was not, still it is sad to reflect that my production should add any weight to the rule with my friend as with many others still to associate with the Conservatives, as a band of infamy—the Publicans. First and foremost, if 'Justitia' is a friend or supporter in any shape of the Publicans he should be the last person to use such a hackneyed expression. There is no analogy between the Publican and the Infidel. The Publican may be a Christian, but the Infidel and Secularist cannot be. The one is a lawful tradesman and a believer, but the other poor creature is simply an unbeliever, and the avowed enemy of Christianity, whose inclinations are generally towards an immoral, depraved existence. And to bring matters a little nearer home is it not highly suggestive to 'Justitia's' mind that the Liberal Association should have its rendezvous at the only beerhouse in the village. However, it is not my intention to discuss the relative merits of Conservatives and Liberals, but merely to confine myself to the object I had in view of showing the loose system of management approved by the Mechanics' Committee. I am sorry, sir, to tresspass so much upon your space, and as I have over-stepped proper bounds, I will not attempt to follow Mr. 'B. Batty' in illogical reasoning, but confine myself in reply, to a suitable quotation—

"Words so debas'd and hard, no stone
Was hard enough to touch them on,
And when with hasty noise he spoke 'em
The ignorant for current took 'em."

Yours faithfully, JEX.

'JEX'S' REPLY TO 'A PROTESTANT.'

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—Self knowledge teaches us that what is uppermost in the mind is chiefly shown in the life and actions of the individual, and as it so with myself, I feel that the rapid spread of immorality and infidelity should be the means of uniting Christians of all denominations. As one man, in opposition to the enemy, and although my first letter was written with that intention, referring to the composition of the newly-formed Liberal Association, to the policy of the Mechanics' Committee, and in no way intended for the purpose of setting Church and Dissent still more at variance, yet, I observe that 'A Protestant' deviating from the course, has thought it necessary to turn this controversy into another and widely different channel. Bestowing a little attention upon that part of his letter, where he labours hard with seductive phrases to make it appear that my sole object was an attack upon Liberalism, few will fail to note the manner in which, conscious of power, he leads us to believe that I am initiating a policy which shall place a man at variance with his plumber, his cobbler, &c., &c., and here it strikes one as a matter of no little significance, that of all the trades to which my opponent has given prominence, one of the most important to us, in our daily existence, he omits to mention; for a few words, more or less, surely would not have affected the keen susceptibilities of our friend, the grocer. Naturally, Sir, I have been puzzling my brain to find a solution of the difficulty, and, after much thought, I have arrived at the conclusion that 'A Protestant' would then have made it too much of a personal matter. Scanning his letter somewhat closely, the thought arose in my mind that it was impossible for him to be what he had represented himself, otherwise he would never have characterized the quotation of well-known bible sentences as 'solemn cant.' Such language inclines one to the belief that his utterances will be robbed of all their importances if in spite of the newly-assumed one notorious for his Anti-protestant principles. Appearing upon the scene this time, apparently in the guise of a Wesleyan Methodist, it will not be a matter of surprise if upon another occasion we find him garbing as a Churchman, unless the cloud that hides him from our view has a darker lining. It is to be supposed, Sir, that in public controversies, men should act up to their professions, and I should have been inclined to think that, but for the sentence I alluded to, he was one of the staunchest supporters of a Christian dissenting body, so fiercely does he air the grievances, and with even greater pertinacity than themselves. It falls to my lot to number amongst the Wesleyans not a few personal friends, and as you know, Sir, it has ever been my aim to increase the true Christian feelings and brotherly love that should prevail amongst us, and no bitterness that 'A Protestant' may try to infuse into this controversy will ever dissuade me from that course. It appears to be his aim to keep Church and Dissent widely apart, and it certainly will not be his fault if the elements of discord are not more deeply rooted. I feel constrained to call the attention of a real Wesleyan Methodist to the flattering allusion 'A Protestant' makes to that gentleman's production in the shape of a tract addressed to the Vicar of Rothwell, but if I form a correct estimate of the author's stern, uncompromising character, he will consider it but a pretext on the part of 'A Protestant' to enable him to aim a blow at another. Why he should show such animosity towards the Church of England, I cannot judge, but it is only too often that personal feelings, or locel circumstances, result in political or religious opposition.

Yours faithfully, JEX.

PARLIAMENT.

Last night, the Houses of Parliament were opened by Commission, and, though able addresses were given by both parties, it elicited only the knowledge that Government were waiting the terms of peace demanded by Russia, when, if they touched the "wall" of British material interests, they would be prepared to ask the "House" to oppose their consummation.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

A special meeting of the above Board took place on Monday evening, present, Messrs. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Sanderson, Lunn, Dobson, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Greenwood, and the Clerk, Engineer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Board proceeded to consider the special business for which they had been called together.

A considerable reduction in the estimated cost having been made in the joint drainage scheme, for Rothwell and Oulton-cum-Woodlesford, the Board was anxious to know the reason, as the extreme difference of £2,700 between that scheme and the one proposed by Mr. Hanson, had induced the Board to decide on the Hanson's plan.

Mr. Parkinson, C.E., being now present proceeded to explain that, guided by Mr. Fox's estimate for the large works originally contemplated by the Oulton and Woodlesford Sanitary Authority, he had calculated the Rothwell portion of the cost to be over £8,200, whereas by Hanson's process, the works would only cost £5,500. Since this estimate was made, the Sanitary Authority have very largely reduced the extent of their proposed works, the principal items being that instead of the land costing £900, it would only be about £300 and whereas £1000 was put down as the Rothwell proportion for settling tanks, now some £200 would be sufficient; these and other smaller items had reduced the estimate to about £6,500 as the Rothwell quota for the present joint scheme. In reply to a further question, Mr. Parkinson thought Hanson's system would do well for Rothwell, especially as there was no manufactoring going on. The difficulty was with the Local Government Board, who would not, he feared, accept any precipitation scheme; in fact, Mr. Harrison, had told him so, at the late Official Inquiry.

As a set-off against the present difference of £1000 in the cost of Hanson's process and the joint scheme, Mr. Parkinson pointed out that there would be a yearly expense for maintaining the Hanson process of treating which could not be less £100, while the working expenses of the joint scheme would be almost nil.

The chairman, Mr. Lunn, and other members compluined strongly of the manner in which the Board had been misled, (though the fault did not seem to be Mr. Parkinson's) as he had been guided by Mr. Fox's estimate which had not been very much reduced.

As Mr. Hanson had not yet replied as to "whether, should the Board proceed with his plan, he would stand the expense of the enquiry, should it prove unsuccessful" it was proposed by Mr. Jas. Hargreaves "That the drainage question be adjourned till Monday; in the meantime the Clerk be instructed to write Mr. Hanson, requesting his reply before next Monday, and stating that should his reply not be to hand by that day, the Board would hold itself free to consider any other plan."

Seconded by Mr. Smith and carried, Mr. Sanderson remaining neutral.

In the event of the Board finally joining Oulton-cum-Woodlesford in the joint scheme, either through Hanson's refusal to comply with the conditions, or by the failure of his proposal at the enquiry, it was resolved on the motion of Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. W. Hargreaves, "That Mr. Parkinson be instructed to take the levels from Gillet Bridge to the point at which we should join the Oulton and Woodlesford drains."

The tenders for works required in carrying out the Waterworks were next to be considered. There were a large number of highly respectable firms competed, from Middlesbro' Keighley, Bradford, Wakefield, Malton, Scotland and Wales. Messrs. Cochrane, Groves and Co., of Middlesbro' obtained the Contract for 350 tons of 8-inch 6-inch and 3-inch pipes, their tender (the lowest) being £1,785 10s. delivered at the Rothwell Haigh siding; the contract is given subject to their references being satisfactory, which will be entertained on Monday.

For Contract No. 2, laying about five miles of pipes, six persons have been selected from the applicants, whose testimonials will be considered at next meeting and decided.

The estimate of Messrs. Blakeborough and Co., of Brighouse for stop-cocks, fire-plugs, &c., at £117 was accepted for Contract No. 3, this concluding the special business of the meeting.

THE

YORKSHIRE COUGH ELIXIR,

OR LUNG RESTORER,

It promotes free expectoration, and prevents that accumulation of phlegm which causes a sense of choking, allays irritability and tickling in the throat, relieves that sense of oppression, fulness, and difficulty of breathing, which nightly deprives the patient of rest. Public speakers will find it a most effectual preventative against Hoarseness.

SUBJOINED ARE A FEW SELECT TESTIMONIALS:—

From the Lady Georgiana Milner,

NUN-APPLETON, near York.

Mr. SCHOLEFIELD,—I find your Cough Elixir is very beneficial; I have given it amongst the poor people, who are all anxious to have it again, as it appears to remove the cough.

A. GEORGIANA MILNER.

51, ELBURY STREET, LONDON,

COLONEL GRATTAN has much pleasure in testifying that he has found Mr. W. Schofield's Cough Mixture very efficacious on several occasions on which he has taken it for a cough.

From Mrs. Colonel Fairfax, Bilbrough Hall, near York, the seat of Colonel Fairfax, Master of the York and Ainsty Hunt, and late of the Grenadier Guards.

BILBROUGH HALL, YORK.

Mr. SCHOLEFIELD,—I can thoroughly recommend your Cough Mixture. It cured a very troublesome Cough with me more than once, and my servants think there is nothing like it. You may send me a bottle on the first opportunity, as I think it is a good thing to have by one.

Yours truly,

EVELYN FAIRFAX.

From the Rev. Theophilus Clarke, B A., the Vicarage, Tadcaster.

Mr. SCHOFIELD,—I had for some weeks been troubled with an obstinate cold on my chest, when on having resource to your excellent Cough Elixir I quickly found relief, and have ever since been free from its harrassing symptoms.

Yours truly,

THEOPHILUS CLARKE.

From the Rev. CARTER BROWNE, B.D., Grammar School, Tadcaster.

The Rev. CARTER BROWNE has used Mr. Wm. Schofield's Cough Elixir for a member of his family, and found it so speedily efficacious in entirely removing the Cough that he would certainly send a long distance for it in case of a similar need. It is a medicine which ought to be made public.

Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS.

The Advantages are obvious.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855 and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872, For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by

J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by

J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the truble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

The fortnightly meeting of the above Board was held on Monday evening. Present—J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman), Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Sanderson, Smith, Lunn, Dobson, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, and the Clerk, Inspector, and Treasurer.

The minutes of the previous special and ordinary meetings having been read and confirmed, the matter of Rothwell drainage was considered, and, Mr. Hanson not having agreed to the proposals of the Board as to the cost of the inquiry; it was proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves seconded by Mr. Dobson, and carried, "That the Clerk write Mr. Calverley, respecting his rights of easements for carrying the Sewage pipes through portions of his land."

It was also proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves seconded by Mr. Smith and carried.—"That the Clerk write Mr. Schofield respecting the particulars of the Oulton and Woodlesford drainage, and stating that a deputation of the Board would be glad to meet the Sanitary Authority to discuss the joint scheme."

On the same subject, it was further resolved, on the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn,—"That the requisite three months notice be given, that the Board purposes laying drainage pipes through certain properties."

In conformity of last weeks resolutions, the Clerk had attained the references of Messrs. Cochrane, Grove and Co., who mentioned the names of Messrs. Hawksley, Bateman, Filleter, and other eminent engineers; Mr. Filleter, on being written to, returned a report that the firm is highly respectable and had done work for him in Leeds, and other large waterworks. It was therefore proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves seconded by the chairman, and carried.—"That the appointment of Messrs. Cochrane, Grove & Co., to supply the necessary cast iron pipes be now confirmed, and the contract finally accepted."

As directed last week, the Clerk had written to the six parties who had applied for the pipe-laying, but as he had not yet received replies from all the referees who had been mentioned by the intending contractors, the Board was unable to decide till next Monday.

The quarter's account for water from the Leeds Corporation Waterworks, was among other bills, laid on table, shewing a consumption at Stourton of 691,000 gallons.

In reference to the Board's application to borrow money, the Public Works Loan Commissioners submitted a long list of queries, which were read over and the Clerk directed to reply to them.

The Surveyor reported the condition of the roads, and mentioned categorically a number of objectionable and bad places, the general state being most unsatisfactory throughout the district.

The members of the Board generally felt greatly dissatisfied with the way in which the contractors are doing their work, some holding that the contract was broken. After considerable conversation, it was unanimously resolved.—"That Messrs. Elliott and their bondsmen be written to on the state of the roads and requested to attend the meeting next Monday.

A letter was read from Mr. H. Newsome, respecting the intended establishment of a police station in the district, and asked the assistance of the Board, to secure it being placed at Rothwell, as the most central and convenient locality, and suggested as a suitable site the corner of Church Lane and Town Street, where such an erection would be a great improvement to the town.

Mr. J. Hargreaves strongly pressed the subject, he believed that Superintendent Hall was very anxious that it should be at Rothwell as the largest and most central place. The other members concurred in the propriety of the station being at Rothwell.

It was rroposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. Greenwood. and carried.—"That a letter be written to the Magistrates, urging the claims and advantages of Rothwell as the most central and important place in the district, and praying that, in event of a police station being erected in the district, that Rothwell may be fixed on for that purpose."

The Committee appointed to confer with Mr. Burton, for the purchase for a strip of land near the Black Bull, for widening and improving the street, repsrted that the same had been bought by them for £30. A resolution confirming the purchase was carried, also directing Mr. Turner to prepare the conveyance, &c.

It appearing advisable that some efficient plumber should do what work is required for connecting the water-mains with the houses at Stourton, and so secure the work being done in a proper manner, it was resolved that Mr. Joseph Wright, be appointed to do this when required. This resolution does not affect the Board financially, but is simply a security against inexperienced men being employed by occupiers to connect their water pipes, and thereby possibly entail a considerable loss and leakage of the Board's water; the occupier nevertheless, bears the cost of the work.

The Public Works Committee were to meet during the week, for the purpose of drawing up a code of Bye-laws respecting the water supply, rents, &c.

A letter was read from Mr. D Rogers about the footpath across Mr. Jordan's field, and asking what steps the Board purposed taking on the subject. A resolution was passed (Mr. Greenwood not voting) adjourning the matter for six months.

Several accounts and salaries were ordered to be paid, including £4 for roadmen's wages and £10 for Mr. A. Nickols.

The meeting was then adjourned till next Monday.

Rothwell School Board Meeting.

The usual monthly meeting of the Board took place on Friday evening. Present—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, (chairman), Seanor, Jas. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk, Treasurer, and Attendance Officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Clerk informed the Board that he had received a letter from the Department, stating that their Lordship's will not further object to the Board building a school capable of holding 250 children.

The applications for advance of salary to the mistresses of Rothwell Haigh Schools, after being duly considered, could not be entertained at present.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Jewison, it was resolved that Miss Helen Hay, of Oakworth, be transferred to Rothwell Haigh Girl's School.

A letter was read from the Birmingham School Board, enclosing certain suggestions respecting the "Child's School Book" in order to diminish the labour and expense at present entailed on teachers and parents The suggestions were heartily agreed to and a suitable reply ordered.

Several parents attended to obtain the remission of their children's fees, some of which were agreed to, while others were refused. A second notice were also ordered to be served on James and Robson for the attendance of their children.

In conformity with a notice given by him last meeting, Mr. Jas. Hargreaves proposed "That the Clerk write to the Trustees of the Rothwell Primitive School, asking their permission to open the school as a temporary day school, and enquiring on what terms they would let it to the Board.

Seconded by Mr. Batty and carried.

One of the houses in Carr Lane being found in a filthy condition, as well as the children living in it, the Clerk was instructed to ask the Local Board to draw the attention of their Inspector to the matter.

The teachers' salaries were ordered to be paid.

The meeting was adjourned for the consideration of the Bye-laws and a site for the proposed school.

ROTHWELL GAS-LIGHT.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—By your permission, I wish to call the attention of the Shareholders, Committee, and the Manager of the Rothwell Gas Company to the need of a more plentiful supply of gas by day and night. It is a common experience of an afternoon, just when the shades of evening begin to fall, and semi-darkness prevails in the interior of business premises, to be unable to get a light, save by having recourse to candles. In the early morning, too, the respectable householder stands a better chance of being suffocated than he cares about, by the fumes of gas in his bedroom. Wife may desire to keep a small light burning all night as a precaution against burglars, or cramp, or sudden emergencies, but what avails her forethought if the manager's tap at the gas-works is turned so low at midnight as not to afford pressure sufficient to keep even a small light burning? Precaution against one set of dangers opens the door to another risk not less alarming in its character. The gas being turned low at the works, the small light in the bedroom dies out, leaving the tap turned partly on, so that when the pressure is increased in the morning, say at six o'clock, the consequence is the poisonous fluid escapes through the partly turned tap, and the prudent house-wife sleeping with one eye open, starts up to realize an escape of gas, and rouses her drowsy partner from his deep, sonorous sleep, and possibly happy dreams of bygone times, to the immediate danger of being stifled.—Then we have equally disagreeable experience of the gas management at business in the morning. I need not distress your readers by reminding you, Sir, that some of the mornings this winter have been particularly dark and dismal, making fire and gas, but more particularly gas, in business places indispensable to convenience and comfort. But no matter how dark or dismal the morning, out goes the gas at that particular hour when Sol may be expected to project his attenuated rays across by Methley and Royds' Green upon the village. Our worthy manager at the gas-works is too busily engaged with his retorts to note the fact that Apollo is quite unequal to the task of piercing with his golden shafts the dense leaden atmosphere these humid mornings, and the gas being turned off, we are left in gloom to grope our way about the dull details we are engaged upon. The ancient Britons, we are told, lived in caves, and during winter time, before candles were invented, had to feel each others cheeks to "find the smile responsive to the humorous tale." Happily, we are now better off, we have candles, and lamps, and gas sometimes, some of us, who are apt to depend too much on gas, are occasionally irresistably reminded of the early Britons, because our case, like theirs, is want of light; we smile, our smiles cannot be seen, but only felt? Decidedly, Rothwell is behind the age as regards its gas supply. Plumbers say the quality is not so good as it might be, which brings them some discredit as workmen; those who need it late and soon, and at odd times, say they cannot get it, very often when they most need it. Everybody says the price is high. Shareholders say they get but moderate interest for their money invested in it. Where shall we find an explanation for a state of things so uncomfortable? Replies may be sent to the Editor, I presume as usual.

From Rev. J. STONEHOUSE, St. Saviour's Vicarage, Nottingham. AUGUST 1874.

DEAR SIR,—I can strongly recommend your Pectorine as an invaluable Cough Remedy. I have given it a fair trial in my own family, and have also supplied it to persons suffering from Cough in my parish, and in every instance it has given immediate relief. In some cases, after passing sleepless nights, one or two doses of the Pectorine have had such a good effect that persons have got a good night's rest, and the Cough has speedily disappeared.

Mr. A. ROLFE, St. Ann's Square, Manchester, Says: "Your Pectorine is superior to any Medicine I have ever tried for Coughs or Colds."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor Holloway's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, two firms only in Great Britain were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— "BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855.

After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) Three Instruments were selected by the Jurors as Superior to all others, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a Prize Medal were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877. A Novel Safe.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877. Jewellers' Windows.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 1, 1878

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Board was held on Monday, present—Messrs. W. Hargreaves (chairman) Dobson, Lunn, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, the Clerk and Inspector. The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Board proceeded to consider the various applications for laying the various water pipes, &c. The references of Mr. S. Jowitt, of Brighouse, being the only satisfactory ones, it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Dobson, and carried.—"That the tender of Mr. S. Jowitt, of Brighouse, to lay the water according to the specification for the sum of £736 10s. 8d. be accepted."

The Clerk having informed the Board that an engineer from the Leeds Post Office had been to Rothwell and "chained" the road along which he wished to bring the Telegraph wire; he had also received a letter from Telegraph Engineer's Office asking permission to erect telegraph poles on the road from the Leeds and Barnsdale turnpike above the vicarage down Woodlesford lane, and along the Town Street. It was accordingly proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Dobson and carried.—"That permission be given to the Postal Telegraph Department to erect poles on the above named road, the road to be made good to the satisfaction of the Surveyor."

Mr. Nickol's term for ashpit cleansing, having nearly expired. It was proposed by Mr. Jas. Hargreaves seconded by Mr. Lunn, and carried.—"That the Board ask for tenders, for twelve months, for cleansing of ashpits, to be advertised in the Rothwell Times."

As the Leeds Corporation is now laying drain pipes on the Wakefield Road, the Inspector was directed to draw Mr. Parkinson's attention to the advantage which should be taken, by arranging for the branches and gulleys.

Mr. Elliot having been introduced, several questions were put to him respecting the unsatisfactory state of the roads. While admitting the charge in some degree, Mr. Elliot pleaded the bad weather which had lately prevailed, but promised at once to get a considerable quantity of metal on the roads, and to endeavour to attend better to their repair. He was assured that while the Board wish to make every allowance on account of the weather &c., Mr. Elliot must really be more attentive, or other steps would have to be taken.

The chairman gave notice that at next meeting he would move—"That water connections be laid to Upper and Lower Goslam."

Messrs. Charlesworth's Employes and the Charities.

We have pleasure in announcing that Mr. James Hargreaves has just paid to the Treasurer of the Leeds Infirmary £40 7s. 9d. being the past year's subcriptions given by the managers and workmen engaged at Rothwell Haigh Colliery.

Some short time ago, the employës at Robin Hood and Newmarket Collieries paid nearly £50 to the Wakefield Clayton Hospital and the Leeds Infirmary, making altogether something like £90 as the annual donation to medical charities from the workpeople under Messrs. Charlesworth's Rothwell district Collieries.

The Police Station.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—I was pleased to note, that, prompted by Mr. Newsome's letter, the Local Board has taken up the matter of a district police station. While I am proud to note that very few cases from Rothwell find their way to the Court, and rejoice in the moral improvement thus typified, yet, if it is deemed necessary that a station should be put down in the district, there can be no doubt that Rothwell is by far the most suitable place. The natural centre of the district, surrounded at every distance by Oulton, Woodlesford, Waterloo, Stourton, Carlton, Robin Hood, Royds' Green, and Ouzlewell Green, the largest village, the focus of business, the residence of the sergeant and two constables, all considerations point to Rothwell as the most eligible and convenient place for the station. As to the site, the one mentioned at the meeting is a very good one, and a good building would be a great improvement to the street, but should that not be obtainable, there are several other plots quite as good, and at reasonable sums. Trusting this scheme will prove successful, and that our improvement will be further increased by the establishment of a district police station.

I remain, Sir,
Yours respectfully,
ADVANCE.

THE

VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

(A Tale of Old Rothwell.)

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

When far from the scenes of my youth,
My mind ever pleasantly dwells;
With the quaint village church on the hill,
With its merry harmonious bells.
Sweet emotions enraptur'd my breast;
As I heard them with love and delight,
When the sun had gone down in the west.

Long years have roll'd silently by,
Still the old stately pile rears its head;
And many are they whom I've known,
That around and within it lie dead
I'll never forget thee "old church,"
Should I wander the universe o'er;
I will sleep my last sleep by thy side,

Rothwell, at the period represented to the reader was a different locality from what it is now.

The cottage houses that were inhabited then were of a very primitive, character, and the builders must have had very dwarfish ideas indeed.

Not one half of these mean habitations had one room above the other, and there is not a stone or brick, or even a splinter of wood that once belonged to them left, they have all disappeared with their occupants to the dust that they were composed of, long before the oldest house that can be found in Rothwell at the present day was a new one, the old Manor House excepted.

They contained three or four rooms, the front room or house as it was then called, was the largest, the two or three back rooms being used as sleeping apartments; the foundations were laid in with rough stones and ill-shapen bricks, the walls were built of rough oak beams framed together upright and horizontal; some were roughly plastered over and others partly showing the oak beams, the roofs were thatched with straw, and the roofs of many houses that have been built since are covered with the same material.

The greatest number of houses stood on each side of the main street, and a few were under the shadow (as it were) of the old, old Parish Church.

The farm-houses (three in number) were built in a better style; they contained six or eight rooms, the bed-rooms had floors of oak joists and roughly wrought oak boards, the floors below were formed of bricks or plaster, and the fire-places were capacious affairs having seats on each side, a small room in fact, with a large open chimney in the centre, and the fire raised from the floor with a few bricks and a rough iron grating.

Wood made into fagots was the principal material that was burnt, the thousands of tons of a very superior material was under the feet of the poor villagers, lying unknown and undisturbed to the people. They then, for the most part, were farm labourers, a few workers at their respective trades managed to obtain a living, which was not very luxurious, but still they lived in their own simple way, and perhaps enjoyed as much happiness almost in that way, as we do in ours at the present day.

They certainly did not have so many homely comforts, nor the advantages of education that we have now, an individual at that remote period who could read or write was looked up to as a very superior person in a village.

The Reverend Daniel Thornwood was the Vicar of Rothwell Church at the time and lived with his wife and three children at the "Old Vicarage" that once stood on a piece of land now partly occupied by the new church schools, it was a fine old Gothic building very superior indeed to the rest of the houses that clustered around it.) There is a portion of it left even yet, and the old market cross that once stood at the top of the village was no doubt a contemporaneous structure, the remaining part of it was accidentally knocked down some years ago.

Vicar Thornwood, as the villagers termed him, was a quiet unassuming man, and an early riser; he was a lover of Nature in her gayest moods, and in the summer-time he loved to roam at will, through the green lanes, and meadows in and around Rothwell, and it was his special delight in his morning walks to stand and listen to the wild melody of the thrush and blackbird, or watch the lark soar up to the clear blue sky, or to gather the sweet wild flowers that grew in rich profusion on the wayside.

In one of these morning rambles he met Willie Wandhurst, the village basket-maker, (and also singer in the humble church choir) returning from the Manor House.

"Good morning to you, Willie," was the Vicar's first salutation.

"And a good morning to you, Sir," returned the basket-maker.

"You are outvery early this morning, some pressing business at the Manor House I suppose has caused you to be an early riser."

"Ye are right, answered Willie, Farmer Underwood wants some new baskets made by next Saturday, so I thowt I'd begin an' mak 'em at once."

"A good resolution, "said the Vicar," soon to begin and soon to finish, Willie, but hark! what is that bird that trills its morning song so sweetly on yonder projecting buttress," enquired the Vicar, pointing towards the old castlet that stood near to the Churchwell.

"It's a thrush, I think, and varry likely it hes a nest not far away," said Willie.

"I think it must be the same songster that I heard in the meadow at the back of the church yesterday morning."

"That may be true, Sir."

"You have a sweet singer at home with a voice almost as melodious," continued the Vicar.

"I hev, Sir, an' he seems ta like that new cage I hev just made him."

"I am speaking of your daughter Bessie that sings so sweet in the church.

Willie was pleased to hear the Vicar thus appreciate his daughter's voice, and said

She hes a nice voice, but she does not awllus keep good time.

Well, well, we have all our faults, Willie, pray tell me who was the writer of that new hymn you all sung last Sunday morning just, before the sermon.

I doant knaw exactly, answered Willie, but I believe it is by some great musician e that famous place where the king lives, Lunnon, I think they call it.

That is indeed a famous place, said the Vicar, who now resumed his walk, and the basket-maker hastened home to execute the order he had just received from Farmer Underwood.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This Invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instruction affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor Holloway's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by

J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

SAML. HARGREAVES,
Rothwell, Clerk to the Board.
Jan. 31st, 1878.

PURSUANT to the Provisions of an Act of Parliament made and passed in the Thirty-first and Thirty-second Years of the Reign of Her present Majesty Queen Victoria, entitled "The Telegraph Act, 1868:"

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, having obtained the consent of the persons whose consent is required by the above Act, intends to construct a line of Telegraph along the Woodlesford Road leading from the Post Office at Rothwell to the junction with the Leeds and Barnsdale Turnpike Road, and for that purpose to set up and erect poles and other apparatus connected therewith, by the side of the said road or highway, in accordance with the powers granted by the said Act.

Rothwell Times,

Woodlesford, Oulton, Carlton, Lofthouse, Sherburn, Garforth, Milford, and Kippax Chronicle.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 8, 1878

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

On Monday evening the above Board met as usual, present—J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. Sanderson, Lunn, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, the Clerk and Inspector. The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the question was considered of joining the Woodlesford and Oulton Authority in their drainage scheme, and it was eventually resolved—"That a deputation wait on the Rural Authority to further discuss the matter." The Authority suggest that they should take and treat the Rothwell sewage at a certain rate, in a similar agreement to that entered into with the Corporation. It was also resolved on the motion of Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr Lunn.—"That the Clerk give 3 months' notice, according to Act of Parliament, to the parties concerned, intimating the intention of the Board to drain through their properties; also, that Mr. Parkinson be instructed to prepare plans for the joint sewage scheme, so far as relates to Rothwell."

A code of bye-laws had been roughly prepared, for regulating the charges for water, but not yet being fit for the Board's consideration, were again referred to the Committee for further revision.

Tenders were opened and read for making the reservoir, the contractor finding only 90 cwt. girders and other iron fittings, while the Board supply bricks, cement, &c. The following had been received—

Mr. H. Burrows, Barnsley ...	521	13	9
Messrs. Smith & Donald, Leeds	654	13	4
Mr. Jas. Freeman, Pontefract...	628	15	0

As only one of the contractors had sent references, the Clerk was directed to obtain testimonials from the other two.

A long standing nuisance being again complained of, the Sanitary Committee were requested to examine some property of Mr. Whitworth's, near the cross.

The agreement with Mr. Smith was read over, for land at Rothwell Haigh, in which the reservoir is about to be built, and it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried,—"That the agreement conveying 3,327 yards of land to the Board, at the rate of 2s. 6d. per yard be now signed and sealed on behalf of the Board."

The Meeting was then adjourned to next Monday.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

An adjourned meeting of the School Board was held on Friday. Present—Messrs. W. Hargreaves (chairman) Seanor, J Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk.

The previous minutes having been read, the Clerk expressed his pleasure in informing the Board that very favourable reports had been received from the department on the Rothwell Haigh Schools, especially the Girls' department, and also a very satisfactory report in the Waterloo School, considering the ignorance and want of dicipline evinced by the children there.

The grant to Waterloo is for three months,

The indenture for John William Wright was also enclosed for completion.

The chairman reported that Mr. Jewison and himself had visited the Rothwell Haigh Schools since the last meeting.

Draft copies of the Bye laws approved by the department having been previously supplied to the members, the Board further considered the provisions, and after mature deliberation completed a code, which was signed and sealed on behalf of the Board, subject to the approval of the Department.

In reply to the Clerk's enquiry, the Trustees of the Primitive Methodist School offered the use of their rooms at a certain rate, for the use of the Board as a temporary Day School, the Board to find fuel, cleaning, &c. The Clerk was directed to obtain the dimensions, &c., of the school-room.

It was also proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. Seanor—"That the Trustees of the Wesleyan School be written to, in like manner." For the motion the chairman, Mr. Seanor and Mr. Jewison; neutral Mr. J. Hargreaves, and Mr. Batty.

As soon as the reply of the Wesleyan Trustees was obtained, the Clerk was instructed to ask Mr. Legard, H. M. Inspector to visit the school-room and report on their suitability, &c. Proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Seanor and carried, Mr. Jewison being neutral.

It was proposed by Mr. Seanor, seconded by Mr. Lunn, and carried—"That a deputation, consisting of Mr. J. Hargreaves and Mr. Seanor, wait on Mr. Mawson to ascertain the terms on which he would sell a piece of land at the top of Butcher Lane, for the purpose of erecting a school thereon."

THE

VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

(A Tale of Old Rothwell.)

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

CHAPTER II.

We will now leave the worthy Vicar to enjoy his morning rambles, and introduce a very different character, no less a personage than Dick Pinder, who lived in a small house near the Cross. He was a shoemaker, and a very inquisitive sort of a man; he could see thro' his old horn-framed spectacles everybody that passed his door, he was acquainted with almost everybody's business, who they were, and all about them, there wasn't a stir of any sort but he would be there, invited or not invited, and he could dance a hornpipe, or sing a good song he was almost sure to be welcome, especially if it was at a wedding party.

Now Christmas was drawing near, snow was on the ground, all the ponds and still water were frozen over and there was every appearance of a hard winter.

The weaving and other trades that were at that time in vogue in Rothwell, were well employed, and Dick had more than he could do, he was hammering and sewing from morn till night with the exception of Monday, and on that particular day, I believe he would not have sewn a buckle on the king's shoe.

One Friday night he was very busy with the lapstone on his knees, hammering away at a piece of leather and singing at the same time.

"Of awl the trades that's under the sun,
Theer's nowt like a cobbler's for frolie and fun;
He can awllus hev ... ..y, noa matter what weather,
Hurrah for t'owd lapstone, theer's nothing like leather.
If he hasn't any money, he's plenty a strap
Hurrah for t'owd lapstun theer's nowt ta beat leather."

He had just finished singing the last line of his lively song, when his house door suddenly flew open, and in walked a handsome looking young man in a military dress, he closed the door and sat down in the only chair that was in the whole establishment and while so doing said, "Thou art right my friend cobbler, there is nothing like leather, and to my thinking the present state of affairs are as hard as thy lapstone."

Dick looked over the top of his spectacles, and did not seem to appreciate this soldier-looking young man's bold intrusion.

"Well, said Dick, (after staring at him for half a minute) ye seem to hev made yersen at hoam varry sooin, as fort' leather wha its as toff ar iver it wor, an fort' state of affairs been like my lapstun, I doant know sa much abart that, for I've hammered leather on it for thirty year an nivver made it a bit softer, an I am suar trade is good at present, et owd place I believe for ivverybody at lives in it, I can answer for mysen, I hev moar than I can do by Christmas I knaw."

Having delivered this little oration, Dick put a bristle in a wax end and began to sew away at a shoe he was mending.

"Enjoy thy own opinion, my friend, but I have a job that I wish thee to do, which shall pay thee better than mending fifty pairs of shoes, I think thou art a shrewd fellow, and can be of good service to me."

Now Dick was always ready to do a job that had nothing to do with shoe mending, so he said, "if its owt at's reight an will stand dayleet I'll do it if I can."

"So thou shall, my bold son of St. Crispin, said the young soldier, with a swaggering air, and I will meet thee here at twelve to-morrow night, the villagers will be fast asleep by that time, so be ready and alone."

He walked out of the house as fast as he had come in and left Dick in a very unsettled state of mind.

CHAPTER III.

The Sunday morning before meeting with Dick and the young soldier, Vicar Thornwood preached a very nice sermon, he took his text from the hundred and thirty-third Psalm "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is brethren to dwell together in unity."

The worthy Vicar was at home with this text, his own family were a good example of living together in unity, and the good man told his congregation that it was their bounden duty to help and assist each other in every thing that was good and just, and how much better it was to be agreeable and loving towards one another, than quarrelling and backbiting no good could ever come of such ways, he compared one way of living to a beautiful piece of music where all the parts blended together in harmony, and the other way of living to the same piece of music sung backwards way, which no one would care to hear. The good old man preached for more than an hour and closed his book with repeating the text, and let us hope that his attentive listeners appreciated his good and excellent sermon.

Another character will now appear, who rejoices in the name of Timothy Tintack. One Monday morning he first saw daylight, we may there truly say that he lived and breathed in an old thatched house that stood at the bottom of the village.

Timothy in his very early lifetime was a squaller, he had not been in the world five minutes before he tested the strength of his lungs and proved to his happy mother that they were sound and in good condition.

Now Tim resembled to a certain degree (Adam and Eve excepted) all the rest of mankind, he was obliged to cling to his mother's breast for support until old Dame Nature supplied him with teeth, then his maternal parent would not allow him to cling there any longer. The two or three teeth he had were very sharp, and one day he used them too freely upon that sweet (to all babies) prominence from which flows the milk of human kindness, so Mrs. T. thought it high time for young Timothy to shift for himself in the eating line, and try his little white ivories upon a hard crust. As Father Time kept jogging on, Tim jogged on with him, he made the usual amount of mud pies in the gutter, tore his clothes, pulled the cat's tail, and got scratched for his trouble, reduced the number of Farmer Skinflint's apples that grew on a tree on a tree which overhung the garden wall not a hundred yards from his mother's humble domicile, and went through all the rest of the mischief peculiar to boys until he grew old enough to know better, (it is an inherent part of a boy's nature to be mischievous, and they can no more avoid being so, more or less, than a kitten can help playing with a ball of string, or a cat can help teasing a poor mouse before she puts it to death.)

In due time Tim became an apprentice to that oldest of all trades, that of a tailor, now didn't our first parents sew leaves together and make two very useful articles, where they procured the needles and thread, we cannot say (excuse the allusion dear reader, I merely used it to prove that tailoring is a very old, old, occupation). Tim learnt to thread a needle without biting too much of the thread away, and soon knew how to make a knot at one end of it with one hand. He soon acquired the system of basting, felling, backstitching, and hotting the venerable goose to a certain temperature, and all the mysteries of that useful trade, and ... he arrived at the manly age of twenty-one years of age, he was an accomplished country village tailor.

I have given you a short sketch of Tim's early career because he will play a by no means unimportant part in this story.

We left Dick in a very unsettled state of mind. Now as soon as he thought his late visitor, the young soldier had proceeded far enough out of the way, he threw down his pocket and ran down the street, and who should he meet but the very man he was in search of, and that was Timothy Tintack.

Dick related the interview between himself and the soldier and Tim saw very quick what was to be done; so it was settled how the whole affair was to be carried out. Tim was to play the part of eavesdropper in the little chamber over Dick's workshop and when the young military hero had explained to Dick what he wanted him to do, the two worthy tradesmen would carry out the affair, which Dick did not think he was able to do by himself.

CHAPTER IV.

Miss Nelly was the youngest daughter of Vicar Thornwood, she was eighteen years of age and as pretty a young lady as ever walked up or down Rothwell, and that is saying a good deal, for Rothwell is noted at the present day for its good-looking daughters.

Now Miss Nelly had a kind word and a sweet smile for everybody, and all the people in the village at that remote period were very fond of her. But she had something on her mind that troubled her, and that was the too familiar advances of Melville Seaton, a young officer in the King's army, and he (Melville) at that time was stationed at Pontefract Castle.

Vicar Thornwood and Melville's father were old friends, and the two families often visited each other and young Melville dearly loved Miss Nelly and had spoke of his affections towards her, but she had always refused to give him any hopes of her ever returning that affection

But he was a soldier and would not surrender, he resolved within himself to break through the ranks of Miss Nelly's cold receptions and either take her prisoner or beat an ignominious retreat.

He had once more declared his love and had been refused. Now he did not think it wise to try to take Miss Nelly prisoner by himself so he hit upon the idea of procuring the village cobbler's assistance who he thought a shrewd fellow, and for a purseful of money would assist him in this unlawful undertaking, but he had reckoned without his host as we shall see.

Dick and Tim worked away at their respective trades all that day and the time seemed to pass very slowly away, each were on the "tiptoe of expectation" as to what the young soldier had in hand.

At last the hour of twelve at night was fast approaching for the meeting at Dick's house, opposite the old cross, and Tim was in his place of concealment, he had made a small hole through the floor boards, there was no lath or plaster underneath, so he could both hear and see what was going on down below.

Dick was mending a pair of Miss Nelly's shoes when the old church clock struck twelve, and with the last stroke in walked the gay young soldier.

True to my promise, friend cobbler, were his first words, there is nothing like punctuality, I am here at the time appointed.

"Soa ye are, an soa am I," said Dick.

Tim was laid flat down on the floor with his best eye peering through the hole in the floor.

I trust thou art alone, my friend, spoke again the soldier, and at the same time looking round the apartment.

"Ye may tak that for granted, responded Dick, I hev nayther chick nor child, I am an owd bachelor."

"I believe thee and will now explain some of my business to thee."

Tim's best eye could now see clearer than ever and his ear could almost hear the ticking of the old church clock, so intent was he on catching every word that passed between the two individuals below.

"I am desperately in love (began the young officer who the reader will recognise as Melville Seaton) with a sweet maiden that lives in this village."

"Are ye, said Dick lifting up his eyebrows, and whoa may shoo be."

"The worthy Vicar Thornwood's daughter, Nelly, answered Melville."

"Ye doant say it, said Dick," (and he was just on the point of informing him that he had one of her pretty shoes on his knee).

"But I do, returned Melville, and she has refused to accept my loving proposals, and that is the reason why I am here again to night."

"What ivver e the world do ye want me for, I am an owd bachelor an does'nt knaw abart love an courtship its art a my line a business, I'm suar."

'Perhaps thou wilt assist me in this matter; there is an old saying which says that all is fair in love and war, now I am both a lover and a warrior, and to come to the point at once, Miss Nelly has again and again refused my love, so I mean with thy assistance to carry her away by stratagem."

Now just at this moment Tim was convulsed with suppressed laughter at Dick's remark on the word "stratagem" and nearly betrayed himself.

Melville turned round very uneasily on his seat, and enquired if anyone was in the house. The cobbler hammered away at a piece of leather to hide his confusion and Melville continued "if thou proves a spy, or a traitor, or a deserter, by the oath of a soldier thou shall taste the point of this sword,' and he flourished that awful weapon over his head.

Tim was now in a very critical position, so he laid breathlessly still.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867

After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is now in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 15, 1878

Grand Concert at the Rothwell Mechanic's Institute.

The Committee of the above institute offered a splended musical treat on Monday evening, which richly merited a crowded room, and financial success. Although neither of these objects were attained, the concert gratuitously provided by the kindness and talent of the Leeds Amateur Orchestral Society, assisted by Miss Winkworth (in place of Miss Mann, as announced) and under the guidance of the well known Mr. J. Sidney Jones, was a thorough pleasure to those who listened and the Society deserve very hearty thanks for their entertainment.

By the courtesy of Mr. Jeffreys, the Hon. Sec., we are enabled to state that the Society has been in existance since 1874, and is managed by a committee and officers, of which Mr. W. Flockton is president. Within the last few months Mr. J. Sidney Jones (late conductor of the Band of the 5th Dragoon Guards) has been appointed professional conductor, and a new impetus has been thereby given to the Society. The object of the Society is to gather together gentlemen amateurs with a talent for vocal and instrumental music and by rehearsals and private concerts, to gratify themselves and their friends.

The following constitutes the Band, (Mr. Tetley and Mr. Mann also taking part in the vocal portion of the programme) 1st Violin, Messrs. Flockton and Holey; 2nd Violin, Messrs. Waithman and Kirkby; Viola, Mr. Stirk; Violincellos, Messrs. Tetley and Johnson; Double Bass, Mr. Mann; Clarionettes, Messrs. Jones, junr., and Whewell; Flute, Mr. W. E. Hartley; Cornet, Mr. Mann, junr.; Pianoforte, Mr. Mr. Lockwood; Conductor, Mr. J. Sidney Jones.

Miss Jones accompanied in most of the songs, and by her beilliant execution promises well as a successful pianist. Mr. W. Lockwood also presided at the pianoforte during the instrumental performances, with his usual ability, notwithstanding the difficulties he had to encounter in the inefficient piano.

Turning to the programme, the Band opened wtth Mozart's Overture 'Figaro,' by the rendering of which the members gave an idea of what they were able to accomplish. Miss Winkworth followed with 'When the heart is young,' for the singing of which she was warmly applauded. One of Haydn's trios was now essayed by Mr. Tetley (Violincello), Mr. Jones (1st Violin), and Mr Jones, junr. (piano), and certainly every point was tastefully and perfectly taken up, the second portion of the piece being most brilliant, showing out not only the only exquisite sounds producible by the Violin, but the mellowness of Mr. Tetley's instrument, and the superb execution of Mr. Jones, junr. The well-known and much-admired duet, 'Home to our Mountains' lost none of its beauty in the hands of Miss Winkworth and Mr. Tetley.

A novelty was rendered by Mr. Higgins in Gounod's bass song 'Nazareth,' with Band accompaniments; being in capital tune, Mr. Higgins's fine deep voice rang out nobly amid the chorus of instruments accompanying him. Miss Jones and Mr. Jones Junr. gave a difficult but well-played duet for Clarionett and Piano, in which the powers of the two young people were taxed to the utmost, the manipulation being extraordinarily quick. Mr. Tetley followed with Bishop's "My Pretty Jane" in which his previous reputation as a tenor singer was fully maintained, and an encore demanded, in reply to which, he sang "Then you'll remember me." Hayden's Farewell Symphony concluded the first part of the programme, and those who were privileged to hear the performance will not so soon forget its peculiarity. Composed by the eminent composer for the purpose of convincing Prince Esterhazy of his error in reducing his band, the novelty of the piece is not in the music itself, but the gradual withdrawal, one by one of the several players, first of the wind instruments, then the intermediate strings, then the bass, the tenor, and finally the first violins, with the exception of the leader himself, who is left 'to fiddle the time out alone' his music growing fainter by degrees and beautifully less, till the sound entirely dies away, and Mr. Jones hastily takes his flight from the lonely position he occupies on the platform, amid the amusement which had been gradually increasing, now culminating in a general burst of laughter.

After the interval the band again occupied the platform, and performed the Gasino-tauze Waltz, a piece of music, full of music and elegance, and calculated to show off the individual qualities of the orchestra. Miss Winkworth highly delighted the audience with her sweet rendering of 'The Sailor's Grave' which was loudly encored, and another song given in a jaunty easy manner, which inclines one to the belief that the young lady is more at home in the humorous than the sad style of song. Her voice was in excellent condition, and is specially good in the higher portion of the stave. Messrs. Tetley and Higgins sang the duet 'The Moon hath raised her Lamp above,' and while each vocalist did their separate parts well, the voices hardly mingled as evenly and melodiously as might have been with a lighter bass or a stronger tenor. Haydn's Surprise Symony, beginning with simple crotchets of one note, and swelling out into most glorious harmony was splendidly managed, and its grand outbursts of music perfectly rendered. Mr. Tetley was well at home in his next song 'Good Night, Sweet Love,' and being encored, his 'Come into the Garden, Maud,' was very heartily cheered. Mr. Wood Higgins did 'The Mariner' in his best style, his well-sustained deep notes suiting this song admirably, as also was he up to the mark in 'Simon the Cellarer,' as an encore. Another novelty was introduced here 'The Magic Wove Scarf' by Miss Winkworth, Mr. Tetley, and Mr. Higgins. Herman's 'La Couronne d'Or' concluded the programme, but not the evening's pleasure. Mr. Flockton announced that Mr Mann had kindly consented to sing the funny song 'The little, fair, grey man' which was done to perfection, rousing the risibilities of the audience to the cracking pitch, and filling the hall with laughter. Called again to the front, Mr. Mann sang a humorous parody on 'My Pretty Jane' bringing forth uncontrollable laughter and amusement.

The National Anthem closed the evening.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Board was held on Monday evening, present—J. Charlesworth, Esq. (chairman). Messrs. Wm. Hargreaves, Dobson, Lun..., J. Hargreaves, Smith, and the Clerk.

The minutes of last meeting being read and confirmed, the tenders for making the reservoir were opened and considered, and resolutions were passed requesting the parties applying to amend their tenders, some being very wide of the mark, also that the amended tenders be referred to Mr. Filleter, and brought up at the next meeting.

A large number of persons applied for the Stourton Drainage laying, and after discussion five firms were selected, who should be written to for references.

Tenders were also considered for the supply of sanitary tubes required in the Stourton Drainage, and the offer of the Wortley Fire Clay Company was accepted.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Parrish.

The Primitive Methodists of Rothwell and neighbourhood will be sorry to hear that the wife of the Rev. F. F. Parrish, who lately laboured in this circuit with great acceptability, was visiting some friends in Leeds, and about three o'clock was walking up Briggate in her ordinary health, when she was suddenly taken ill, and died within an hour.

Sudden Death at Rothwell.

Yesterday afternoon a very, sudden death occurred in Rothwell. About half-past four, the son of Geo. Nichols, miner, came home from school, and on going into the house, near the Black Bull Inn, found his mother stretched on the hearth, apparently dead. He immediately ran out into a neighbour's house and fetched his father, who was in his garden near, and having sent for the doctor, it was found that though not quite dead, life was fast ebbing out, and she died about five. Mrs. Nichols has suffered from heart disease several years, and Dr. Heaps attended her only last week. This week, however, she appeared to be better than usual, and was going about her ordinary work in the house, when death suddenly overtook her. She is thirty-nine years of age, and leaves one child.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

(A Tale of Old Rothwell.)

By C. GIBSON, LONDON.

"Its a mouse ats nibbling a bit a cheese e that cubboard, said Dick, surely a mouse suddant freeten a soldier."

'Forgive my haste,' said Melville, smiling, 'I beg thy pardon, and as to the word stratagem which thou cannot comprehend, it means a scheme or a trick by which some advantage is to be obtained.'

"Now I intend to have Miss Nelly at Pontefract Castle, and she won't go with me by fair means, so we must use (as I said before) stratagem and compel her."

"Not with my help" thought Dick.

"An ye weant hev her at Pomfret Castle, I knaw, said Tim to himself, though ye are a sowdjer, I think me and my owd friend at ye are talking to will give ye a bit a trubble befoar ye can manidge that little job."

'I have a plan,' continued Melville, 'that I am sure will be successful if thou will play thy part rightly in it, but as the hour is late or rather very early, I will leave thee to study how we may capture and take prisoner pretty, although a stubborn, young lady."

He then threw into Dick's apron a pyrse full of silver, and at the same time with a menacing look, said, "do not thou betray me, but be here at the same hour next Saturday evening."

Melville now departed as quickly as he had done before, and left Dick and his listening friend Tim to think over what they had heard.

Tim could scarcely believe his best eye or trust to his sense of hearing, when the purse full of money dropped into the cobbler's leather apron, the chink of it was very sweet music to him.

Dick now danced and capered about like a madman, and Tim was soon with him, ecstasy knew no bounds.

"Worrent ye freetened when he swung his sword round his heead, said Tim? That mouse nibbled that bit a mouldy cheese just e reight time my owd friend, or else there wod a been two good tradesmen short e Rodill, I think."

"Nay, he didn't mean to do owt so bad as that, answered Dick, and if he wor the king, he suddent harm Miss Nelly; hevn't I made an mended her shoos ivver sin shoo cud walk, an I am suar her bonny feet, an the shoos that I mak ta fit 'em shall nivver be run away with wi that sweggering sowdjer."

"Hear, hear, said Tim, an doant I mak an mend Vicar Thornwood's cloathes, an didn't he preich that bewtiful sarmon last Sunday e that black cloath coit et ivverybody says fits him so weel at I made him, he sed it wor our baanden duty ta help an assist wun another e ivverything that wor good an just, an I it will be a good job for Miss Nelly if we can help her to disappoint that sowdjer, and a just cause it bargain."

Both were mutual and agreed that each should keep his own counsel until they should hear the plans of Melville at their next meeting.

CHAPTER V.

Oh, Father Time at different periods of our existence appears to fly very quickly, he is like the ever rolling, restless sea, always moving, but altering his speed for no one. Time again at different stages of our lifetime appears to travel very slowly, an hour seems a day, a day seems a week, he appears to have left something behind him and returned again to fetch it, and then starting again from the place where he left, he doesn't seem to have made any progress. Now, if each individual could have their own management of time, what a world this would be; how the venerable old man would be turned and twisted about, some would have it day, others would have it night, some summer, some winter, in fact the patient old gentleman would be at his wits end, it would be impossible for him to please everybody, therefore let us all make the most of him in his own good way, and exclaim with a very old and eminent writer, 'while we have time let us do good unto men, especially unto them that are of the household of faith.'

We will now return to our two quondam companions Dick and Tim with whom, could they have had their wish, it would soon have been Saturday at twelve o'clock; the time never appeared to be so long in bringing that desirable hour.

On the Monday, they very busy "cutting out" neither leather nor cloth; but everything that is mortal must come to a close, and so did the end of the week; they were then very busy, Dick had finished Miss Nelly's shoes, Tim had made Squire Underwood's hunting suit, and had taken it home to the old "Manor House" close to the church on Saturday evening, he then took his way by the old spring well and so on to the cobbler's residence, to be in readiness for the interview that was to take place in that worthy's establishment at twelve p.m.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually ... penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial ... from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humors from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints :—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—
"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855
after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by
J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by

IN THE
WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT,
OF

From the "Leeds Mercury." March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post." March 3rd 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 22, 1878

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

An ordinary meeting of the School Board was held on Friday.—Present—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, the Clerk, Treasurer, and Attendance Officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Clerk read the offer of the Trustees of the Wesleyan Sunday School as temporary day school, and also gave the dimensions of the Primitive Sunday School premises.

The question was adjourned till after Mr. Legard had inspected the two sites, which will take place on Monday, the 25th, a Committee of the Board being appointed to meet him.

The Chairman reported a visit he had paid at eight o'clock on Monday morning, and Mr. Jewison also stated he had called in at the Waterloo School during the week.

Mr. Seanor stated that the Chairman and himself had waited on Mr Mawson respecting the price of his land at the top of Butcher Lane, and after a long discussion, it was resolved that the Board do advertise in the Rothwell Times for suitable plots as a school site.

A number of salaries and accounts were then ordered to be paid, including £78 12s. 11d., interest and yearly repayment of the second instalment of Loan on Rothwell Haigh Schools.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

A meeting of the above Board was held on Monday evening.—Present—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs Sanderson, Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Dobson, Smith, Greenwood, the Clerk and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed. The various tenders for Stourton Lodge Drainage were again considered, and it was proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Dobson and carried—That the tender of Mr. Fisher be accepted for the construction of the Stourton Lodge Drainage.

The letting of the reservoir making was again adjourned for further enquiry.

It was proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves and carried—That the tender of Messrs. Claborough & Crossley be accepted for the castings and galvanized iron-work required for Stourton Sewage.

In reply to the Clerk's enquiry, Mr. Farrer asked to be supplied with a plan shewing the line through which the pipes were to be laid.

A letter was read from the Clerk to the Sanitary Authority making certain propositions in regard to the intended joint sewage scheme with Oulton and Woodlesford.

1.—The Authority proposes that they take and treat the Rothwell Sewage for a yearly payment by the Board of £200, entirely freeing the Board from any further expense.

2—Or to leave the question of payment till the works are completed, when the cost shall be ascertained by the two engineers and an umpire.

3—Or that the Board pay half the cost of main-sewer treatment, &c., for the whole of the joint scheme.

Provided that in each of these proposals the Board shall be at the whole expense of supplying, laying and maintaining the drain as far as St. John's Parsonage, Oulton.

It was finally agreed on the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Dobson—That the Board offer a yearly sum of £150 to the Rural Sanitary Authority, for the entire cost of taking and treating the Rothwell Sewage from St. John's Parsonage.

Tenders were received for Cleansing Ashpits from

Mr. W. Bulmer	... ...	£138	0
Mr. A. Nickols	... ...	£130	10
Mr. S. Wilkinson	... ...	£125	0

for one year.

The Medical Officer reported that he was generally speaking, well pleased with the way Mr. Nickols had done his work, and the healthy state of the village was considered to be partly attributable to the fact. Several members also spoke of Mr. Nichols as being a tried man, although it was quite likely that Mr. Wilkinson might be as good.

It was then proposed by Mr. Dobson, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves—That the tender of Mr. A. Nickols be accepted, for the cleansing of ashpits for the ensuing year at £130 10s.

Mr. Greenwood proposed-That Mr. Wilkinson's tender for £125 be accepted, but not finding a seconder, the original motion was carried, Mr. Greenwood not voting.

Mr. Sanderson complained of the state of Royds' Green-roads; the Chairman also spoke strongly on their dangerous condition.

The Inspector stated that he had already reported the case.

It was afterwards resolved—That the Inspector deliver a letter to Messrs. Elliott's, requesting them at once to put Royds' Green roads into a proper state of repair, and again urging them to better attention to the roads.

According to a notice given at a former meeting, the Chairman now proposed that the necessary means be taken to supply, the houses at Low Goslam with water.—Seconded by Mr. Smith and carried.

Mr. G. Armitage's plan of Marshall's Steam Printing Works was passed, and Mr. Sykes, alteration of plan was returned as not being in conformity with the Bye-laws.

Accounts were ordered to be paid, and cheques also granted for £15 to Mr. Nickols for ash-pit cleansing and £4 to Mr. F. B. Worth for roadmen's wages.

A letter was read from the Postmaster, again urging on the Board the desirability of naming the streets and numbering the houses in Rothwell, and it was proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried—That Messrs. Sanderson, Dobson, Greenwood and Smith be a committee for the above purpose, and that they report to the Board at the monthly meeting.

Mr. Greenwood's Housewarming.

On Tuesday evening the completion of Mr. Greenwood's New Building was celebrated by a tea for the tenants, numbering about 20, and a substantial supper for the workmen and others employed in the erection of the block, numbering about 30 men.

The building consists of two shops, below which are commodious cellars, and at the back, are good roomey kitchens; above these are a sitting room, and bedroom, and higher still are two good atties fitted with grates &c.

The original plan was made by our townsman, Mr. W. Richardson, and although considerably altered reflects great credit on his abilities. Standing on the site of the old tumbledown shanties at the corner of Church Lanes and Cross Street, the erection is a prominent object, from whatever road you approach, and is certainly unique in its imposing appearance as a place of business.

The idea is originally gothic, with, we understand, a tower rising from the corner; the tower has, however, been abandoned at present and certain alterations have been made, giving it a "classic" touch here and there, the principal door and windows, however, retain their intended character, and no one can look upon the building without feeling that the town is largely indebted to Mr. Greenwood for his addition to the improvements of the town. The materials used are brick and stone dressings, the door of the corner shop being of pure gothic architecture; the roof is of the Mansard class, blue slated. From the corner window, an extensive view is obtained of the village.

The supper on Tuesday evening was followed by toasts, music and singing, in the course of the evening the pluck and perseverance of Mr. Greenwood were highly applauded, and also the labour which he has himself bestowed, having done hard work at the building, from the laying of the first stone up to the last.

The encomiums heaped on the owner were certainly not overstretched, and the greatest credit is due to Mr. Greenwood for his indomitable courage in commencing such a work, and his dogged perseverance in continuing and completing it, notwithstanding many and various difficulties. The principal people engaged in the erection are Samuel Taylor, bricklayer; Samuel Greenwood, stone mason; Paul Tate, of Woodhouse plasterer; W. Lancaster, Joiner; Atkinson Bros. Whitehall Road, slaters; J. Wright, plumber; Abm. Paling, painter.

The side shop has been taken by Mr. Vero, hat and cap maker, of Batley, and will be managed by Mr. Belcher, Jun.

THE

VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

"Do ye think he will come," said Tim.

"As suar as I am snuffing this cannul, answered Dick, suiting the action to the word, it nobbut wants twenty minutes to slip up stairs, and as Tim was very nimble on his legs it did not take him long to do so, it was the longest twenty minutes he ever passed in his whole lifetime.

The midnight hour arrived, and so did Melville,

"Ha, ha, my worthy ally, thou art still at work" began our military hero.

"Thear's nowt else e this world but wark for me, answered Dick, I hev been working ivver sin my poor fayther deed an then I wor nobbut ten years owd."

"Well, well, we must all work; my trade is to put an end to life, thine to help to preserve it, but to business," and Melville cast an anxious look around the honest son of St Crispin's domicile, which did not contain a very elaborate specimen of household furniture.

The only chair there was, Melville sat on it, and the rushes that formed the bottom of it were all the worse for wear, a three legged table, a corner cupboard, and a few pots and pans, &c., a ricketty bed, which was up stairs (which Tim was now laid under) comprised all Dick's goods and chattles, not forgetting the seat he sat on, and the few tools he worked with.

"Yes, to business, interrupted Dick, looking up to the hole in the boards over his head. I sud like ta knaw how yeare going ta run away with Miss Nelly; shoo's a strong young woman and I am suar shoo'l scrat yer face and scream murder, and kick yer legs wal ye cannot walk."

"Hey, that shoo will," said Tim, but nobody heard him, Tim did not like the look of that awful long sword that hung by the side of the young soldier, so you may be sure he kept very quiet and he scarcely dared to breathe.

"Well, my plan is this," continued Melville lowering is voice.

"Vicar Thornwood has requested that I and the rest of my family should pay him a visit on Christmas Eve, and we have accepted his invitation, it is a custom the good man keeps in honour of yuletide."

"I knaw all abart it," again interrupted Dick, I hev been mumming a at owd house many a time, an Vicar Thornwood cud awllus tell who I wor, an he wod hev me ta dance him a hornpipe an I sing him a nice song."

"Thou wilt be absent, my friend cobbler, this year, the use of thy legs I shall require, but to explain without any more interruption."

"I will for the last time, very late on that night, strive to win the good graces of the bright eyed maiden thou knowest, and if she is still averse to my amorous yet honourable feelings towards her, I will feign a sudden indisposition, and ask her to accompany me to the old garden gate, and if she complies with my request (which I doubt not she will) I will throw my camp cloak over her and stifle her screams and carry her in my strong arms to the bottom of the village, it will be dark and there are but few houses, and the rustics that dwell in them will be hard and fast asleep. Beneath the old oak tree that stands at the begining of the road that leads to Pontefract thou will find two swift horses belonging to Farmer Underwood, who I suppose thou art acquainted with."

Dick nodded assent.

"Thou must be there," continued Melville, at the last hour of Christmas Eve and wait for my coming. If I come empty handed thou may rest assured that Miss Nelly has at last listened to my oft repeated vows of love and affections in a manner very pleasing to my mind, now, if I do come alone, thou can then return with the horses to Farmer Underwood's. But if I come with that precious girl in my arms, we will mount our horses, and ride for dear life to Pontefract Castle, and when once there Miss Nelly is mine."

"That will nivver come to pass" thought Tim.

"What a stupid ass" thought Dick.

"Now, what is thy opinion of my plan" asked Melville, and at the same time looking our old friend straight in the face.

"Nah, ye say under t,owd oak tree, I sal find two swift horses, et first place do ye think they'll kick, for if they do, I sal tummal off my horse, ye can please yer sen, for I nivver drave nowt onny faster then Billy Tupshin's donkey, an he hed a lame leg; an second thing is, can yer get Miss Nelly ta go art at house wi ye and go ta't garden gate, it will be a queer job I think," and Dick shook his head very doubtfully.

"Leave that to me and be at thy post, at the time appointed, guard thy tongue, and I'll promise thee all will be well."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need ... earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. ... DEAR SIR,—I can strongly recommend your Pectorine as an invaluable Cough Remedy. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by

J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by

J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

SUDDEN DEATH AT ROTHWELL.

It is our painful duty to record another sudden death in our town. On Friday last, Mrs. Palframan, wife of Joseph Palframan, residing near the Cross, was in her usual health, except a sickly oppressed feeling which she had had for some weeks. About five o'clock she sent for Mr. Jewison, her doctor, as she was expecting to be confined. From this time till nearly nine o'clock in the evening. she complained of pain and sickness, but nothing serious was anticipated. However, while a neighbour was talking with her in the house, Mrs. Palframan suddenly fell from her chair, and groaned heavily. The doctor was at once sent for again, and was present in five minutes, but life was nearly ebbed out, and without further sign or word death ensued. The poor woman was 34 years of age, and leaves a husband and three children. The doctor said it was an apoplectic fit, which caused the death.

DEATH OF MR. WEBSTER.

The memory of the late Mr. William Webster, farmer, Rothwell Haigh, cannot be allowed to pass without a slight notice of his death

Though of a retiring nature, Mr. Webster was a man whom most people highly respected, as an honest straightforward gentleman, and one to be trusted. Mr. Webster was for many years, and at the time of his death, a churchwarden and regular attender at church. He also sat on the Local Board for two or three years, but had to retire through failing health. For several months Mr. Webster has been confined to his house, and died on Thursday week, aged 58 years.

The funeral took place at twelve o'clock on Monday last, when the hearse was preceded by a number of gentlemen and tradesmen, while five mourning coaches followed conveying the members of his family and numerous friends. The funeral arrangements were under the management of Mr. Copley, and Mr. Green.

CHANGE IN EXCISE OFFICER.

We are pleased to announce that Mr. H. R. Livock, our present Inland Revenue officer, has just been promoted to Yoker distillery, near Glasgow, a very considerable and honorable advancement in the civil service, and we are sure the information will be highly gratifying to the many friends he has made during his three years stay at Rothwell.

We heartily wish him every success, while we deplore the loss which will be sustained by the Art Class, the Church, and the public in his removal.

It will also be interesting to many to know that the officer now appointed to Rothwell, is Mr. Albert E. Long, youngest son of the late Mr. John Long, school master, Wakefield, and nephew of the deeply lamented Mr. E. B. Long, of Rothwell.

OULTON-CUM-WOODLESFORD SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION.

The list of nominations for the Oulton-cum-Woodlesford School Board were issued last Saturday, and as there are only the requisite number of Candidates, the expense and trouble of a contest will be avoided, and the final declaration will be made on the 6th instant.

The following are the nominations—

Irvin, Arthur J., E. Woodlesford, Clerk in Holy Orders,

Jackson, John, Oulton, Corn Miller,

Mason, Wm. Oulton, Corn Miller,

Holloway's Pills.—Stomach, Liver, and Bowels.—There is nothing hurtful in the composition of these purifying Pills.—Nothing that can injure the most delicate constitutions. They improve the appetite quicken the nergiese of the stomach and livor, and regulate the bowels. They thus become the surest safeguards against indigestion, and the surest promoters of the body's growth and the mind's devolopement. Holloway's Pills exert a wholesome alterative and tonic action on every internal organ, and they regulate every disordered or debilitated function. They are natural, and thereforere flicent purifiers and correctives. Few unhealthy conditions of the stomach or digestive apparatus can withstand the accumulative healthy influence obtained over the whole frame when these pills are judicously and perseveringly taken by invalids.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

(A Tale of Old Rothwell.)

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

Tim now crept very cautiously down stairs for fear that the sharp-pointed sword might be coming back clattering on the ground behind the young soldier's boot-spurred heels, but as it did not return, Tim gained confidence and bolted the door.

"Did onnybody iver hear tell a sich a base trick e all t'days e their life, began Dick, if that fellow is'nt a wolf e sheep's clothing, I'll eit my lapstun."

Well, I've heeard say at it taks nine tailors ta mak a man "I nobbut wish I'd hed tother eight beside mysen, I suddent a been sa freetened a that girt sword, I knaw, but what do ye think hes popt intomy heead," said Tim.

They now conversed in a low tone with each other, till Dick jumped up from his seat and began capering about and singing

"Of awl the trades that's under the sun,
He can awllus hev Monday, &c."

Well done, Tim, its a capital idea, its just what we mun do, we'll hev a scratagim job on hand as well as that cunning sowjer.

CHAPTER VI.

I will now attempt to give a description (as far as my imaginative powers will allow me) of the 'Old Vicarage.' The front part of it was in a line with the main street and the back part looked towards the 'Marsh.' The front door was made of oak black with age and studded with large square-headed nails. There were four large windows in front and a smaller one over the door, they measured more in width than in height, each of the four had two upright moulded mullions, thus making three openings, they were glazed with small square and diamond-shaped panes, those in the back and the two gable ends were something similar, and the boardings that over-hung the gables was very ornamental, though rudely carved. The walls were built of rough stone up to about six feet high, then wooden frame-work, which consisted of strong oak, upright and cross beams the interstices were filled in with lath and plaster, &c. The two large cross-beams that extended over the bed-room windows at each gable-end, were rudely carved with a curious device something similar to the old and picturesque house at the end of Oulton Lane, but much more elaborate. When you entered in at the front door you were in the hall or entrance-room. On each side were the two front rooms and further on were smaller rooms and the large kitchen with its huge fire-place. The grand old oak staircase (to any joiner or carpenter especially) was worth a ten miles walk to see it. It was about six feet wide, and the steps were two inches in thickness (though very much worn in Vicar Thornwood's time) the balusters were three inches thick at the top and bottom ends, and in the middle part they were turned a beautiful twist that would puzzle a good many wood-turners of the present day. The hand-rail was seven inches wide and beautifully moulded, the newel post was very massive and pannelled, framing that was on one side fixed to the walls and resting on the steps was full of carved work. The ceiling in all the front rooms was divided into squares and diamonds with oak mouldings, and the plaster-work when new must have been very gratifying to an artistic eye. We will now return to the kitchen where many a Christmas log has roared up the chimney and many a fine piece of beef has no doubt tickled the nose of many a hungry man, and caused his mouth to water. Our old forefathers delighted in a good dinner just the same as we do at the present day, but I doubt whether they had to dive so deep into their pockets to pay for the good things they so delighted in. By the (perhaps) inadequate description of the 'Old Vicarage' I have attempted to give him, the reader will be able to form some idea of the house that once adorned the country village of Rothwell

To return to our story, it wanted a week to the 'happiest season of the year' and the old Vicarage internally, had put on a very gay appearance. The old walls were decked out in all the brightness of green holly, laurel, and the time-honoured miseltoe, &c. (although the jolly plant is never found in the Christmas decorations of a church or any other place of worship, yet a large bunch of it hung in the worthy Vicar's house). It is a very ancient custom to decorate our churches, chapels, and private abodes at Christmas-time, and Tommy Rosebush (who was the Vicar's gardener and general man-servant) took a special delight in that particular kind of work, he could do almost anything, but his chief pride was digging, sowing, and planting in the garden. A certain portion of it was devoted to supply the daily wants of the kitchen and the rest to the cultivation of plants and flowers. Had 'Flower Shows' been prevalent in the village at that time Tommy would certainly have carried of a good many prizes, but as these excellent institutions were then not even dreamt off, he was well rewarded by the adulatory conversation of Miss Nelly, who took great delight in the art of horticulture.

Now Tommy and his wife lived in a small house that once stood near the church well, it was a very oddly shaped house, it was neither square nor oblong, nor yet three cornered, one could imagine that it had been lifted bodily up and then dropped down again, and the four walls had parted asunder in various places with the sudden stoppage, and then had been clumsily built up again, inside nothing at all would hang straight down on the walls, it was all corners and angles, the floors were higher on one side than the other, and Tommy's wife had not the reputation of having the the sweetest temper in the world, so the poor man would always have it that the peculiar shape of the old house had soured it. The old gardener was in the habit of patronising the workmanship of Dick Pinder, in fact they were old gossips, and as gardener's generally finish their daily labour before shoemakers, Tommy would often sit in the old cobbler's shop during the the evening and talk about everbody's business but his own. So one night in the latter part of the week, Dick as usual was very busy, and Tommy was with him listening very attentively, for Dick was telling him something that made him lift his hands in astonishment.

"What! do ye mean ta say at onnybody e this world could do such a thing as run away with a good creatur like Miss Nelly," said Tommy.

"I am suar he means what he says," answered Dick, but if ye'll tell her at I sud like ta speik a word or two in her ear ta morn at neet, it will save her a deal a trubble, an happen her life."

"I am suar I will," responded Tommy, but I mun be goin its ten o'clock, and after bestowing on his gossip, his usual words at parting, he took his way to the old house that had the credit of spoiling his wife's temper.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language.

DEAR SIR,—I can strongly recommend your Pectorine as an invaluable Cough Remedy. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually eradicated by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the general … but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of many years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has … powers over chest complaints as a blister … without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855 and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867

After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by

J. & J. HOPKINSON.

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his numerous friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in the first instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that is being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are placed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of a powerful hydraulic ram, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1878

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

A meeting of the above Board was held on Monday evening.—Present—J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman) Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Sanderson, Lunn, Dobson, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, the Clerk Medical Officer, Engineer, and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the matter of Rothwell Sewage was again considered, Mr. Parkinson, C. E., having prepared a complete estimate of the cost of the joint scheme so far as Rothwell is concerned. Since the last meeting some communication, had taken place with the Sanitary Authority for Woodlesford-cum-Oulton, and it was resolved—That the Board pay £160 per annum, to the Sanitary Authority, for taking and treating the Rothwell Sewage, from St. John's Parsonage, Oulton, the Board undertaking the Rothwell end of the drains; should this proposal not be accepted, the Board would return to the third suggestion, leaving the cost to be settled by the two Engineers.

The Medical Officer reported the district as healthy, only six adults having died, (two of whom were sudden deaths, apoplexy; the other three being aged persons) and two infants, altogether 8 deaths in the 4 weeks ending March 2nd. The average for the year is 20.8 per thousand. There have been 17 births, 7 males and 10 females. Four cases of typhoid fever have arisen in the district, the necessary precautions being taken to prevent its spread.

While on the health question, attention was drawn by one of the members, to the miserable condition of the Woodcocks, whose children appeared to be starving, and the Clerk was directed to write the Guardians of the Poor on the subject. The Inspector was also instructed to see Mrs. Garland, and warn her to keep her house and children more cleanly, under pain of legal proceedings.

Resolutions were passed granting cheques to Messrs. Elliot and Sons or £252 8s. their quarterly payment, and to Mr. Parkinson £40 on account of professional assistance.

Several members expressed their satisfaction with the improvement now being made in the repair of the roads by Messrs. Elliot.

The Committee appointed to name the street, &c., of Rothwell handed in their report. Some amusement was provoked by the difference of opinion as to the name of the principal street of the town. It was eventually resolved on the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Greenwood—That the street from the Cross to the Working Men's Club Room, shall be called Commercial Street. Mr. Dobson and Mr. Lunn, holding to Town Street. Several other streets were considered, and complete list will be again brought up, and finally agreed to.

The dilapidated condition of Cinder Ovens Bridge on the Leeds and Barnsdale Road was reported, and the Clerk instructed to write the Commissioners in relation to its repair.

Mr. Sanderson moved, and Mr. W. Hargreaves seconded a resolution to order 20 tons of flags; a price for which should first be obtained from two or three firms.

The Rev. R. F. Cape on "Talking and Talkers."

On Wednesday evening a lecture was delivered in the Wesleyan Chapel, on the above subject, by the Rev. R. F. Cape. There was a good attendance, and those present were highly entertained. The Rev W. G. Dawson having opened the meeting, he introduced Mr. G. Lister, who in a few well chosen remarks, expressed his great pleasure in seeing his Rothwell friends, and hoped they would soon accomplish their object in erecting a larger, more handsome, and comfortable chapel then the present one in which he had spent many happy hours. The Rev. R. F. Cape then commenced his lecture by remarking on the valuable gift of speaking, placing next to reason. Several amusing ideas were quoted on the origin of language. The present might very properly be called "the talking age" enumerating the countless host of ministers, lecturers, lawyers, auctioneers, quack doctors, mob orators, and others, whose calling consisted largely of talking; some of these people coming in for a share of "hot" though life-like caricature.

Proceeding to the faults of talkers, the lecturer drew pictures from every-day life of certain people who more or less fell into these excesses of the tongue, which, while humorously shown, were kindly denunciated.

The voluminous talker first came under scrutiny of the lecturer, in contrast to whom Dr. Abernethy's story was told, of the woman who, having sustained a burn went to the doctor, and holding out her hand, exclaimed, 'a burn' to which he replied 'a poultice.' At the second interview, the woman said 'better' to which the doctor answered 'continue the poultice; at the last meeting the woman said 'well your fee' receiving the reply 'nothing' and the assurance that she was the most sensible woman he had met with (owing to her brevity) The 'straightforward' man was then shown up in his true character, as blunt, unkind, hypocritical; and the victims of this man's blurting outunpleasant things in a disagreeable way, were recommended to try a dose of the same kind on the 'straightforward man' himself.

The exaggerating talker was drawn to perfection, and a most ludicrous story was told, of an exaggerated description, of a visit to a country cottage with 50 square yards of grass before it, as my friend's country house, with the far stretching lawn, &c. The religious exaggerator also came in for a smart 'lash' or two, and those present will recollect the butcher who, praying in the words of the Saviour, declared that instead of being a house of prayer 'we have made it a den of thieves.'

The shocking use of the tongue in 'profane language' was strongly denounced, and its uselessness and absurdity displayed by the story of the general who, after hearing his companions relate their stories largely interspersed with oaths, told his adventures with an occasional 'bottles and corks' instead of an oath. The anecdote by which the viewer at a colliery cured his men of swearing by getting them, when hurt or vexed to call out 'God Save the Queen' instead of an oath, was very capitally told. The 'dubious' and 'grumbling' talkers came in for a proper share of examination and sarcasm.

The lecture was brought to a close by eulogising the use which good and great men make of their power of talk. A collection was taken up for the new chapel fund, and votes of thanks passed to the Chairman, and Lecturer for their kind services.

STREET NAMING.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR.—With your kind permission, I should like to make a few remarks on the above subject. I would observe that Rothwell, though far from having attained the full proportions of a modern town, is evidently shaking off some of its rustic aspects. Its dimensions have much increased of late by the rapid building of houses, &c. more especially in the outskirts. So that we seem to have arrived at a point of progress, when it becomes necessary for postal purposes and public convenience that the members of the Local Board should see that the old names of the main thoroughfares and general division of the place should be fixed, and well understood. Also, that the new streets and congregation of buildings should have distinctive names given to them by their respective owners, and in populous districts the houses numbered.

I would recommend (in order to avoid confusion and annoyance) the maintainance of the 'old land-marks,' and not to alter for the sake of change, the names which have been in existence for ages. Our forefathers designated places according to their appearances and the circumstances transpiring at the time. These names, therefore, when retained, are expressive of part history and the early modes of life of the inhabitants, and are so far interesting and possibly instinctive. But our friend Mr. Westmoreland (of course wiser than they) seems to wish to do away with such foolish notions, and to ignore the past, and to introduce some fanciful ideal names of his own, and these without even suggesting a reason. As a native of 'Old Rowell' I consider this extremely unpatriotic on his part.

The main arteries of the town have already (long before he was born) been suitably named. Take for instance the 'Town Street' by which it has been known from time immemorial, as it is the old road through the ancient village, and seems likely to remain as such even in prospect of future developements. This street might extend from the Cross to the Whitehall Road; why then have a 'Cross' Street from Church Lane head to the Cross? if, however, this is needed, keep to the old and beautifully suggestive name of 'May Pole Hill,' or if this does not please christen this part 'Old Market Place.' This would be indicative of olden and busy times. Again 'Pottery' Fold calls to mind the manufacture of earthenware, once an industry of the village. 'Butcher' Lane points to where the shambles used to be, no doubt much frequented by the male people. Are these employments anything to be ashamed of? Why try to flatter our vanity by naming the latter 'Berlin Street' which would be a mere caricature, as bringing the name of one of the most beautiful cities of Europe into comparison with a narrow and somewhat dismal lane. To proceed 'Shaw Ditch' forsooth, seems to be distasteful to the refined ears of 'J.W.' and it needs must receive the appelation of 'Watergate,' pray what is the advantage aimed at? No doubt 'Shaw,' signifies a tuft of trees, or a small wood,—and so pictures to the imaginative that at a remote period, this now—not very aristocratic quarter was probably more pleasant and attractive—Ditch, meaning a trench, is not so disgraceful after all, for I would draw our friend's attention to the great metropolis, where the municipal authorities there allow of the ancient 'Shoreditch,' and I may add are only too proud to retain the ancient place, names suggestive of the early appearance of the great and wonderful city. It is only in the suburbs that the new Frenchified titles are adopted. Again why resource to foreign countries for the names of bloody battles which have little in them to interest English people—and thus perpetuate deeds thoroughly disgraceful to humanity, especially in this 19th century. Surely we have the peaceful names pertaining to industry and agriculture, and of men and women good and true, sufficiently varied enough from which to select, in order to distinguish a small yard or court or a humble village.

Why alter 'Church Lane' to 'Kirkgate? both being nearly equivalent—but the gate generally presupposes a bar or entrance, as well as a way, and this has not been known to exist here I submit there is no necessity

Why drop the old name of 'Marsh' one describing (the former marshy condition of the district) for Worship Street, as if Primitive Methodist chapel was the only place in the village designed for this sacred purpose. I confess that the limits of the Marsh have always appeared indefinite to my mind, but this can soon be rectified by calling from Mr. Braime's house to Mr. O. Browne's butcher's shop 'Marsh Road.' In passing, it must be observed that a 'street' is a flagged way with a continuous line line of buildings on both sides.

The road from the Pinfold up Bunker's Hill past Mr. Richardson's to the turn of Royd's Lane, might with great propriety be termed 'Society Street' wherein are situated the 'Old Society's Houses'—from the Marsh-well to Swithin's Lane—'Smithson Street' being so named in old deeds, in memory of an ancient and honored family, formerly extesive property owners.

Past Gillett Bridge to the Vicarage and onwards to the commencement of Woodlesford Lane might justly be designated 'Factory Lane' in commemoration of the fact that once a Cloth Mill flourished in that neighbourhood, if however this was objected to it might be known as 'Soring Head Lane' or by its more ancient one of 'Broomhill's Lane' as mentioned in 'Old Surveys.'

The fine name of Parade as suggested by 'J.W.' in this part, at all events, is simply absurd, for it refers to a show or assemblage of people, or a broad-way for promenade, and this is nor a very frequented part and the causeway scarcely admits of two people passing each other comfortably.

Other names, such as Whitehall Road, Mechanics' Street, Swithin's Street, I fully coincide with. Of course this does not pretend to be an exhaustive list, as there are a many private properties yet undefined but I leave others to suggest.

In conclusion, I would impress upon those who will be called upon to do this work to make as few changes as possible, where names have become established—let them be guided by common sense in their choice—and the names be appropriate—and by all means incur as little expense as possible in these minor points—in the face of the great and expensive improvements about to be entered upon.

Yours truly,

Rothwell, March 5, 1878. "A RATEPAYER."

CARLTON WESLEYAN CHAPEL.

On Shrove Tuesday, a public tea was held in the above place, after which the teachers and scholars (assisted by the choir) rendered very creditably a service of sacred song, entitled, "Spring Morning." Mr. Joshua Marland, of Stanley, occupied the chair, and the customary votes of thanks were returned.

COLLEGIATE SUCCESS OF A ROTHWELL LAD.

All lovers of our dear old town will rejoice to hear of the success of one of our Rothwell lads. By the list latey published of the York College examinations, we are pleased to see first on the list of first-class passes the name of Mr. Wm. Brears, late of the Rothwell National Schools, where he received his entire education, under Mr. Nicholson, now master of the Rothwell Haigh Board Schools.

ROTHWELL PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHAPEL ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary of the above Chapel has been celebrated during the week. Sermons were preached on Sunday by the Rev. G. Warren, (late of this circuit) and collection taken towards the Building Fund. On Shrove Tuesday, there was a Public Tea, to which a goodly number sat down, after which a Public-meeting was held in the Chapel, Mr. James Hargreaves having kindly consented to preside. The usual devotional exercises having been gone through by the Rev. J. Bootland, Mr. Hargreaves took the chair expressing his pleasure in being present. Mr. S. Bramley read the financial report for the year, from which it appears £137 5s. 8d. has been raised for chapel purposes during the year—while the Expenses have been serious, including £173 10s. for building chapel-keeper's house and the boundary wall, besides £35 for legal expenses. On the whole, however the report was considered satisfactory, and continued efforts will be put forth. Mr. Denton followed in a useful comparison of the past and present condition of chapels in the circuit, and showed considerable advancement in all the places of worship on the plan. The Rev. G. Warren delivered an excellent and effective speech on the 'signs of the time' in the gradual drawing together of all men, the brotherhood of nations as manifested in the international gatherings and congresses, and pointing to the fall of the Mussulman power as fulfilling the declaration of the bible "that they that live by the sword, shall also die by the sword." He felt that stumbling blocks were being removed that hedges of prejudice were being broken down, and that by and bye the angel of peace and brotherliness would join the whole world in one great family. He further touched on the improved habits, tastes, and intelligence of peoples, and on the pleasing fact that the the several Churches were being drawn more closely together.

During the evening the choir gave several somewhat difficult choruses very creditably, and well deserved the vote of thanks passed to them in a charateristic speech by Mr. Lunn.

Thanks to the Chairman, and to Mr. Warren concluded the meeting, which was throughout of a pleasing nature.

SAD FATALITY IN A ROTHWELL FAMILY.

On Tuesday Mr T. Taylor, of Wakefield, held an inquest at Mrs. Coggill's the Stourton Hotel, Rothwell, on the body of Jarvis Gibson, a tailor's foreman, living at 58, Belgrave Street Leeds. The deceased, who was 57 years of age, had been in the employ of Mr. J. Parkin, of Leeds for 27 years. In consequence of bad trade he received notice to leave, and left Mr. Parkin's about 13 months ago. He then became depressed in spirits, but worked regularly, although he had no permanent situation until last Saturday, when he became foreman at 21, Briggate, and he appeared very much pleased with his new post. On Sunday afternoon, whilst out for a walk with his wife, he became unwell, and in the evening he said he did not that he could sit at church, and he requested his wife to go alone. She did so, and he then appears to have walked towards Rothwell and drowned himself in the river. Verdict, "Drowned himself when of unsound mind." Mr. Gibson was well-known in Rothwell, and highly respected. His funeral took place yesterday at Rothwell. Additional trouble came upon the family yesterday, in the death of a sister of Mr. Gibson's at Rothwell. For the past three years Mrs. Elizabeth Verity, living in the principal thoroughfare of the town (Commercial Street) has been in failing health, and for the last year has not been able to leave the house, and seldom her bed. She has been medically attended lately and has appeared to get gradually worse. On Wednesday evening, her daughter, Mrs. Dixon, left her about as usual, and at ten o'clock, Mrs Verity's grand daughter, a girl about, came to bed to her grandmother, and fell asleep. Nothing further transpired, till the girl awoke about eight o'clock, when she found herself unable to wake her grandmother, and an alarm was raised, but she had evidently been dead some hours. This is the third week, the little town has been shocked by 'sudden deaths' occuring in our midst. Mrs. Verity was 68 years of age, and is an old resident in the town.

Holloway's Pills.—Stomach, Liver, and Bowels.—There is nothing hurtful in the composition of these purifying Pills.—Nothing that can injure the most delicate constitutions. They improve the appetite quicken the nergiese of the stomach and livor, and regulate the bowels. They thus become the surest safeguards against indigestion, and the surest promoters of the body's growth and the mind's devolopement. Holloway's Pills exert a wholesome alterative and tonic action on every internal organ, and they regulate every disordered or debilitated function. They are natural, and therefore efficent purifiers and correctives. Few unhealthy conditions of the stomach or digestive apparatus can withstand the accumulative healthy influence of these … over the whole frame when these pills are judiciously and perseveringly taken by invalids.

World Known—World Tried!

For strengthening a debilitated constitution, these Pills are most efficacious … Their general … health has become deranged … a trial; their action … safe, beneficial, and lasting, restoring order, health, and vigour every case.

For Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

These purifying Pills are confidently recommended as the most … remedy for Indigestion, Flatulency, Acidity, … and all Disorders resulting from disordered Stomach … they act as purifiers, purifiers and strengtheners. … Though powerfully tonic and satisfactory aperient, they are mild in their operation and beneficial to the whole system.

Weakness and Debility—Nervous Irritability and Low Spirits.

The wholesome effect exercised by these admirable Pills over the Blood and Fluids generally, is like a charm in dispelling low spirits and restoring cheerfulness. Their general aperient qualities well fit them for a domestic medicine, particularly for females of all ages and periods of life. They quickly eject all impurities from the system, and regulate every function of the body, giving wonderful tone and energy to weak and debilitated constitutions.

Old Coughs, Colds and Asthmatic Affections.

These Pills, assisted in their action by rubbing Holloway's Ointment very effectually twice a day on the Throat and Chest, and keeping those parts covered with the preparation, will be found the most effective remedy for Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Influenza. They tranquillize the hurried breathing, … the irritated air-tubes, and assist in dislodging the phlegm which stops up the air passages. This treatment has proved wonderfully efficient, in not only curing old settled coughs and colds, but even asthma of many years' standing.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arising from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1855 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his numerous friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is now in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alteration and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

Rothwell School Board Meeting.

A special meeting of the above Board was held on Friday evening last.—Present—Messrs. W. Hargreaves (chairman), Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk

The Clerk reported the visit of H.M. Inspector, A. G. Legard, Esq., on Monday, Feb. 25th, when the Wesleyan and Primitive School-rooms were inspected, either of which would be accepted as a temporary school.

The Wesleyan school-room would hold 185 children, class rooms 41,—total 226. The Primitive school-room would accommodate 93, class rooms 12,—total 105.

The letters from the Trustees of the two rooms were again read and considered, and after a lengthy conversation it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Batty—That the Primitive school-room be accepted at 10s. per week, the Board to find fuel, gas, and cleaning, and be responsible for any damage.

An amendment was moved by Mr Jewison, seconded by Mr. Seanor,—That the Wesleyan school-room be opened as a temporary day school, at a rent of 17s. per week, including gas, fuel and cleaning, the Board being responsible for any damage

The amendment was supported by the Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Mr. Jewison

The resolution was maintained by Mr. Hargreaves and Mr. Batty.

The Wesleyan school-room is, therefore, accepted, and the Clerk was instructed to ask the approval of the Department.

The tenders for sites for the new schools occupied the remainder of the meeting, but, the decision was again adjourned till the members had visited the plots together.

The First Wedding in Rothwell Chapel.

It is only within the last few months that the marriage ceremony could be performed in any place of worship, save the churches in the locality, since the residency of a Wesleyan Minister in Rothwell, the chapels at Rothwell, Oulton, and Stanley have all been registered for the solemnization of matrimony.

Last Saturday, was celebrated the first marriage at the Wesleyan Chapel, Rothwell, by the Rev. W. G. Dawson, between Mr. J. Blackburn and Miss Mary Ellen Idle, both of Rothwell, and teachers in the Sunday School.

Before eight o'clock a large number of people had assembled in the chapel, the body of which was nearly filled.

The wording of the ordinance is slightly varied from the form in the Book of Common Prayer, and is very expressive.

The bride and bridegroom were only accompanied by another couple, and the important rite was soon completed. Before leaving the Communion Rails, Mr. Seanor on behalf of the Trustees, presented a handsome bible and hymn book to the newly married pair, accompanying the gift with a few suitable words. Adverting to the fact, that, although the chapel had been built over 100 years, this was the first marriage solemnized in it, Mr. Seanor complimented the couple on the courage they had displayed in breaking through the prejudice largely felt by the people in favour of the Church of England as the only place of worship in which a marriage can be legally performed, and hoped that these prejudices would soon all disappear. He felt the more pleasure in presenting the books, having been acquainted with them from their childhood, and knowing also, that they were members of society and trying to live as Christians. He wished the happy pair every blessing for this life and for that which is to come.

After retiring to the vestry, the newly married couple returned to a carriage in waiting, amid showers of rice and good wishes.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

On Monday evening, a meeting of the Local Board was held.—Present,—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, (chairman), Sanderson, Lunn, Dobson, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, and the Clerk.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the General District Rate of 1s. 9d. in the £ was aid on the table for confirmation.

A long and somewhat warm conversation ensued through the objections raised by Mr. Sanderson, who contended that as Royds' Green were not likely to benefit either by the Drainage or Waterworks, the hamlet should be rated separately. The Chairman thought Mr. Sanderson ought not to complain of a District Rate, when the farmers are only rated at one-fourth, and the Board were quite agreed that Royds' Green should be properly supplied with water. He, however, felt that the Board could not do anything at present in that respect, and did not doubt that when Rothwell was supplied and they had completed their present public works, the Board would be quite ready to assist Royds' Green. The discussion continued for some time longer, and eventually it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves and seconded by Mr. Lunn—That the General District Rate of 1s. 9d. in the £ be now confirmed.

Mr. Sanderson proposed an amendment—That it be not confirmed.

Mr. Greenwood in seconding the amendment, would like more information on the subject.

Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Greenwood voted for the amendment.

The resolution was carried by the other five members.

Several tenders for making the reservoir were read, the highest being over £800. It was unanimously resolved that Messrs. Pickshall and Co.'s tender be accepted for £438 1s. 5d., they having handed in an excellent reference in Mr. Brearley, C.E., of Blackburn, for whom they are just completing a larger reservoir. This tender was the lowest with the exception of Mr. W. Sykes, and was the only firm giving references.

When the resolution was just about to be put, the gas suddenly jumped out, and every attemot to re-light it proved unavailing,—so that the remainder of the business was transacted in darkness, or amid the semi-darkness of a single candle-light.

A resolution was proposed by Mr. Dobson, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried (Mr. Smith not voting)—That a cheque be granted to Mr. Smith for £408 14s., being the price of land purchased of him for the water reservoir.

A letter had been received from Mr. Scholefield, stating the Sanitary Authority declined to accept less than £200 per annum for treating the Rothwell Sewage—and the Board will therefore recur to the second suggestion, that the cost shall be decided by the two engineers and an umpire.

ROTHWELL PUBLIC WORKS.

Last Monday the excavating for Stourton Drainage was commenced on the Pontefract Road.—We also observe that the Corporation is laying water pipes for the supply to Rothwell Local Board on the road between Pepper Lane end, and Thwaite Gate.—A large quantity of pipes for water supply are also laid up the Wakefield Road.

ROTHWELL TELEGRAPHS.

During the last two weeks, the poles for the telegraph to Rothwell have been set up, and the completion of the work will not be delayed beyond the end of this week, it is anticipated the "wire" communication between Rothwell and the wide world of telegraphy will be opened during the next week.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

THE

VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

(A Tale of Old Rothwell.)

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

CHAPTER VII.

When the first opportunity presented itself the next morning for seeing Miss Nelly, Tommy took the advantage of it, and acquainted that fair young lady, with what he had heard the night before.

She could scarcely believe, that a man like Melville, who used such fair words, could even think of using such foul means, but the old gardener assured her that such was the young officer's intentions, but if she would see and speak to his old friend and gossip, Richard Pinder, the shoemaker, who lived opposite the market-cross, to night she would probably hear the full account of that handsome young soldier's late proceedings.

Poor Miss Nelly was now very disconsolate, old Father Time (as I mentioned in a foregoing chapter) had surely lost his wings, and was moving very slow, an hour seemed a day to her, she could not employ the slowly passing hours in anything that would tend to relieve her mind of the bare intentions of Melville.

The evening had slowly but surely come, and with it our shoemending hero to the vicarage, whom Tommy Rosebush announced to Miss Nelly.

Dick was ushered into a little back room, where he found our heroine ready waiting to receive him, without waiting to be asked he sat down in the first seat that presented itself put his hat underneath it, and put on a very important, but respectable visage.

'I am pleased to see thee (were her first words) because I have heard to day that thou hast very important news to tell me.'

'Well I hev some news ta tell ye Miss Nelly' said Dick stroking his hair straight down his forehead.

'One neet while I wor at me wark singing an owd favorite song, a young soldier cam inta my house or shop, (for it answers boath purposes) an after a bit a tawk he ax'd me if I wod help him in a little job he hed on hand, soa I teld him if it wor fair an square I wod, then he promised ta come ageen an tell me what it wor, an did soa, an partly explained his plans, as he calls em, he threw a purse full a silver e my leather apron an sed he wod come ageen, he kept his word, (and that made it three times) an tell'd me all he intended ta do. Nah, I doant like his plans, an I am suar ye weant when I tell ye what they are.'

Dick now explained in his own peculiar manner, all that had been communicated to him by Melville, (which is already known to the reader) then he explained to Miss Nelly his own plans of frustrating Melville's evil purposes.

When Dick had finished his somewhat lengthy discourse, Miss Nelly fully agreed to his arrangements and said, 'Thou art indeed a friend in need, and shall be well rewaaded, play thy part well and thou shalt never regret putting thy life in peril for one who will never forget thee.'

Dick thanked the young lady, and took up his hat, which was anything but a new one, and walked out of the room, not straight towards the back door, but straight into the kitchen, where he found a large horn of ale waiting for him, (and not being a teetotaler) and feeling very thirsty, he soon discovered the bottom of the inside of it.

The day at last arrived, whose eve always was, is, and perhaps always will be, a favourite time for the telling of a Christmas or ghost story.

Vicar Thornwood's guests arrived in the afternoon, which was a very seasonable one, the snow fell in large flakes, and the cold north wind blew it around the old weather beaten house, and in the bare and open streets.

At five o'clock the night was dark, that is as dark as the reflection of the snow would allow it to be, the old 'vicarage' was lit up with oil lamps that were suspended from the ceilings.

The front and back room to the left (as you entered the front door) had been made into one, by throwing open the folding doors, and a long table had been formed so that the Vicars guests could be comfortably seated around it.

At six o'clock the company took their seats, and the Vicar invoked a blessing on all the the excellent viands that was before him

The 'Seatons' were on one Side of the table, and the 'Thornwood's on the other, and a few of the Vicar's private friends filled up the rest of the table, the repast occupied at least an hour, and everyone seemed to enjoy the good gifts of Nature so bountifully placed before them, by the good and generous Vicar Thornwood.

The conversation was very lively betwixt the two families, Melville was very loquacious, he cast many a sidelong glance at Miss Nelly who scarcely appeared to take the least notice of him, how could she after the late conversation with the honest son of St. Crispin? Melville often attempted during the evening to whisper the promptings of his heart in her ear, but she generally contrived to avoid him.

As the night wore out, (and it seemed a very long one to Melville) the differtnt entertainments of the period took place, first came the church choir, who sung and played (not 'Christians Awake' for the individual who composed that admirable Yorkshire Christmas Tune, was not then born) before the front of the house, the music that was most appropriate for the occasion, after that they sung a few madrigals in the hall or entrance room, and were regaled with the Vicar's strong ale.

Then the mummers who were very numerous, presented themselves, but only a few were admitted by the old gardener, they were shewn into the kitchen, where they went through several performances that gave great satisfaction to the admiring beholders.

Vicar Thornwood exacted his usual song and dance from one of the mummers, whom he seemed to know, and by the different antics that he displayed gained the hearty applause of all present, especially Melville who threw him a bright silver coin, and which the mummer dexterously caught between his teeth. After the usual refreshments had been served round, the mummers took their departure (?)

Supper was announced, but was sparingly partaken of, after which seasonable stories were told until the night was far advanced.

Melville now prepared himself for action, he at last succeeded in obtaining a hearing from Miss Nelly about little things that had occurred during the evening, of how the singers had sung that sweet hymn, and how that fantastically dressed mummer had made himself so conspicuous, by his inimitable gestures, &c., and Miss Nelly seemed to favour his attention and even smiled at his humerous remarks, which gave him confidence.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

World Known—World Tried!!

For strengthening a debilitated constitution, these Pills are more efficacious than any other medicine. Persons of a nervous habit of body, and all who are suffering from weak digestive organs, or whose health has become deranged from whatever cause, should lose no time in giving these Pills a fair trial; their action is immediate, beneficial, and lasting, restoring order, health, and vigor in every case.

For Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

These purifying Pills are confidently recommended as the most simple and certain remedy for Indigestion, Flatulency, Acidity, Constipation, and all Disorders resulting from disordered Stomach or Bowels. They act as purifiers, alteratives, and strengtheners of the stomach. Though powerfully tonic and satisfactorily aperient, they are mild in their operation and beneficial to the whole system.

Weakness and Debility—Nervous Irritability and Low Spirits.

The wholesome effect exercised by these admirable Pills over the Blood and Fluids generally, is like a charm in dispelling low spirits and restoring cheerfulness. Their general aperient qualities well fit them for a domestic medicine, particularly for females of all ages and periods of life. They quickly eject all impurities from the system, and regulate every function of the body, giving wonderful tone and energy to weak and debilitated constitutions.

Old Coughs, Colds and Asthmatic Affections.

These Pills, assisted in their action by rubbing Holloway's Ointment very effectually twice a day on the Throat and Chest, and keeping those parts covered with the preparation, will be found the most effective remedy for Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Influenza. They tranquillize the hurried breathing, soothe the irritated air-tubes, and assist in dislodging the phlegm which stops up the air passages. This treatment has proved wonderfully efficient, in not only curing old settled coughs and colds, but even asthma of many years' standing.

Complaints of Women and Children.

Any mother, nurse, or young person guided by the directions which accompany each box of Holloway's Pills, has at once available means for checking disease, purifying the blood, and expelling from the system all gross humours.

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s. and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Box and Pot, and can be had in any language.

N.B.—Advice can be obtained, free of charge, by applying at the above address, daily, between the hours of 11 and 4, or by letter.

Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR. THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Great Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known.

YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watch-maker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of daily removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are placed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the windows exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

Rothwell School Board Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the School Board was held on Friday the 15 inst.—Present—Messrs. W. Hargreave, (chairman) Batty, Jewion and the Clerk, Treasurer and Attendance Officer.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Clerk read a letter from H. M. Inspector, C. Legard, Esq. stating the evening school will be examined on Friday the 22nd inst., at the Rothwell Haigh School.

It was proposed by the chairman and seconded by Mr. Jewison—That 3500 yards in Windmill Lane, be purchased of Messrs. Mawson Bros. of Leeds at 3s per yard, under the conditions offered to the deputation. Mr. J. Hargreaves voted against it, the other four carrying the motion.

The various salaries and accounts were passed, and orders on the Treasurer signed. Also £5 for Petty Cash expenses.

It was proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. Batty, and carried unaminously—That Mr. Richardson of Rothwell, be appointed architect for the new schools.

The Clerk was instructed to ascertain what papering was required at Mr. Nickolson's house and report further.

The Rev. A. J. Irvin, vicar of Woodlesford, having applied for the use of Waterloo School on one week evening for public worship, the Clerk was directed to make such enquiries as might guide the Board in deciding.

ROTHWELL TELEGRAPHS.

We are happy to inform the public, that the Rothwell Telegraph Office is open to day for business, and have no doubt full advantage will be taken of the event.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

The ordinary meeting of the Local Board was held on Monday last.—Present—J. Charlesworth Esq., (chairman) Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn Dobson, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood and the Clerk, Collector, Treasurer and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, considerable time was spent over plans of buildings, belonging to S. Ward and J. Haigh, which were eventually passed, subject to certain conditions.

The appointment of Messrs. Pickshall and Co., as contractors for the reservoir was finally confirmed, so that all is now ready for carrying out the supply of water to Rothwell.

The tender of A. G. Barker, for the painting of the names of streets and numbering of honses in Rothwell for £9 15s. was agreed to. Mr. Lunn, however, dissented from the houses being numbered, thinking that might either be done by the owners, or dispensed with. The Committee will decide as to the position of the different names.

In reply to enquiries from several quarry owners, it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn, and carried—That the tender of Messrs. Armitage Bros for a quantity of flags at 4s. 2d., per yard be accepted.

The consideration of Mr. Calverley's conditions for allowing drain pipes to be laid in his land, was deferred till the draft itself is before the Board.

An application by the Rothwell Model Brass Band having been made to the Board for the use of the field near Gillet Bridge, on Easter Monday, it was resolved that the request be granted on payment of 5s.

A resolution was passed authorising the Clerk to seal the contracts with Mr. Fisher, for the supply of water pipes, and Mr. Jowitt for pipe laying.

Cheques were granted for several accounts and salaries, also for Mr. A. Nickols, and for the Surveyor.

A slight typographical error occured in the report of last Board meeting, there being only "two" cases of fever and not "four" as printed.

STREET NAMING.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—The person who signs himself 'Ratepayer' must be labouring under a mistake or he has been visited with some horrid nightmare, when he says that I had a desire to do away with the old names of places in this village, and as for my wisdom and our forefather's toolishness I will leave that forhim to try in another direction. But his letter is an enigma to me altogether, but I think in his archives he must have somestrange historical records of the primeval age and aboriginal inhabitants of ancient Rodel, when he says Town Gate was called Town Street long before I was born, he makes me smile to think he has no more knowledge of Old Rodel than that, if he had asked any of the colliers for the Town Street when the Old Mill Pit was in operation, they would have shown him the way to Hunslet, or else Briggate, in Leeds. I think Ratepayer does not, know as much about this place as I do or he would not talk about the Shambles in Butcher Lane being much frequented by market-people, as Rodellers cannot be palmed off in that way, not in the 78th year of the 19th century. My opinion is this about Butcher Lane In the 11th century, when a cow was sold for 4s., and a man at £3, there has not been much need for butchers, the cattle would be all slaughtered at the Estate Farms, but after an elapse of time the men have escaped from slavery and shook of the tyrant's yoke, they would begin to get money for their labour, then no doubt the butchers in the neighbouring towns could see a prospect and would come and kill and sell meat to the 'villians' as they were called then, and he no doubt fixed his shop in the lane, hence the appellation of Butcher Lane. 'Ratepayer' comes with vizor down, and Robert of Normandy unhorsed his dear old sire through the very act, but I think I know him and have been in his company many a time and I have felt for him when I have seen him striving to aspire to something great. Then 'Ratepayer' says Maypole Hill or Old Market Place, the Maypole may have been there in the carnival days of the Romans, but I do not see anything to lead me to think there ever was a Market, I believe the Cross is like the relic of the Druids in Somersetshire it is emblematical of their religion, when the present Cross was erected by Henry Saivor and his son Thomas, poor blind Joseph Sykes made a few remarks as a sort of opening ceremony and I was of that opinion. And as to Pottery Fold I never disputed the probability of it having been one of the industries Ratepayer' speaks of. The he says Shaw Ditch seems distasteful to my ear, right he is, and if 'Ratepayer' had lived among the quagmire as long as me, it would not have felt so pleasant to him. I have known the drift that has come down with the dam floods after the water has subsided be unbearable. And what Ditch is so well-known but I fail to see the analogy of it with the place where Alban Shore's wife perished when her husband was assisting Caxton in printing a paltry for the King. And 'Ratepayer' being a le icog apher will not be puzzled to find a meaning to a word. Then we find Bunker's Hill, that reminds of great battles fought, and this Bunker's Hill at Rodel is a puzzler, and as for Parade, I know it means a pompous exhibition or military manœuvreing place, but they do not all come to that fine point, when houses in Rothwell are called such as London and Leeds houses

'Tis hard to say, if greater want of skill
Appear in writing, or in judging ill;
But of the two, less dangerous is the offence
To tire our patience, than mislead our sense,
Some few in that, but numbers err in this
Ten censure wrong for one who writes amiss.

Yours, &c., JOHN WESTMORELAND.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than can be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language.

N.B.—Advice can be obtained, free of charge, by applying at the above address, daily, between the hours of 11 and 4, or by letter.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

World Known—World Tried !!

For strengthening a debilitated constitution, these Pills are more efficacious than any other medicine. Persons of a nervous habit of body, and all who are suffering from weak digestive organs, or whose health has become deranged from whatever cause, should lose no time in giving these Pills a fair trial; their action is immediate, beneficial, and lasting, restoring order, health, and vigor in every case.

For Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

These purifying Pills are confidently recommended as the most simple and certain remedy for Indigestion, Flatulency, Acidity, Constipation and all Disorders resulting from disordered Stomach or Bowels. They act as purifiers, alteratives, and strengtheners of the stomach. Though powerfully tonic and satisfactorily aperient, they are mild in their operation and beneficial to the whole system.

Weakness and Debility—Nervous Irritability and Low Spirits.

The wholesome effect exercised by these admirable Pills over the Blood and Fluids generally, is like a charm in dispelling low spirits and restoring cheerfulness. Their general aperient qualities well fit them for a domestic medicine, particularly for females of all ages and periods of life. They quickly eject all impurities from the system, and regulate every function of the body, giving wonderful tone and energy to weak and debilitated constitutions.

Old Coughs, Colds and Asthmatic Affections.

These Pills, assisted in their action by rubbing Holloway's Ointment very effectually twice a day on the Throat and Chest, and keeping those parts covered with the preparation, will be found the most effective remedy for Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Influenza. They tranquillize the hurried breathing, soothe the irritated air-tubes, and assist in dislodging the phlegm which stops up the air passages. This treatment has proved wonderfully efficient, in not only curing old settled coughs and colds, but even asthma of many years' standing.

Complaints of Women and Children.

Any mother, nurse, or young person guided by the directions which accompany each box of Holloway's Pills, has at once available means for checking disease, purifying the blood, and expelling from the system all gross humours.

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

HOPKINSON'S PIANOFORTES are unequalled for PURITY AND PERFECTION OF TONE, DELICATE TOUCH, GREAT DURABILITY, and ELEGANT APPEARANCE. Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from. PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS The Advantages are obvious.

Messrs. HOPKINSON are the only makers in GREAT BRITAIN who obtained PRIZE MEDALS for their Pianofortes at all the following Exhibitions:—THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851. THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855 and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Great Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872, For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arising from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—"For Great Britain—"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. H. did not exhibit at Paris in 1867. PRICES FROM 30 TO 250 GUINEAS. ILLUSTRATED PRICE LISTS FORWARDED ON APPLICATION CASH CUSTOMERS LIBERALLY DEALT WITH. SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES AT TEMPTING PRICES. A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT. IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of burning oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving both a VIGOROUS and a BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering its PRICE & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTEEN PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

Of a series of experiments made by Dr. STEVENSON MACADAM, F.R.S.E., F.C.S., in reference to the Photogenic power of various illuminating agents:

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877. ... WINDOW SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom of Jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subject the articles to damage from frequent removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very ... with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security ... from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adopted a ... to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being ... to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently ...

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd 1877. JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is ... in glass cases with framework of iron. ... exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the work-shop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

Rothwell Local Board Election.

The time for the annual election of three persons to serve on the Local Board having again arrived, it may be advatageous to make a few remarks for the better information of our readers.

The retiring members are Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Dobson, there being also the seat rendered vacant by the resignation of Mr. Richardson. None of these gentlemen having been nominated again, a considerable influx of 'new blood' will be imported into the Board, though a valuable amount of experience and earnestness will be lost in the gentlemen now retiring into private life.

The following gentlemen are nominated:—Squire Bramley, Marsh Side, Rothwell, General Dealer. James Batty, Rothwell Benjamin Clarke, Church Field, Rothwell, Groder. James Batty, Rothwell.

Joseph Holmes, Haigh Villa, Stourton, Gentleman. William Lawton, Rothwell Haigh.

William Sykes, Carlton Lane, Rothwell, Builder and Contractor. Wm. Bulmer, Rothwell.

Should there be no withdrawals the voting papers will be distributed on Tuesday next, bearing the names of the above mentioned candidates, and it will be the duty of the ratepayer, himself to affix his initials opposite the name of the gentleman for whom he wishes to vote. Let him take care however, not to vote for more than three persons, or his vote will become worthless; he may vote for one, two or three candidates, but not more. The full name of the voter ought then to be written at the bottom of the paper on the line prepared for that purpose.

Should the voter be unable to write, he must affix his mark at the foot of the voting paper in the presence of a witness, who shall attest and write the name of the voter against the mark, as well as the initals of the voter, against the name of the Candidates for whom the voter wishes to vote.

These papers when completed should be folded and placed in the special envelopes, and securely fastened up by the voter himself. They will then be collected on Friday the fifth of April. On Saturday the sixth, the Returning Officer will proceed to count the votes, and the result will probably be known on the evening of that day.

It is not in our province to make any remarks on the several candidates, but we may state that it seems very advisable that the important and increasing hamlet of Stourton should be represented, and no one will grudge the ratepayers their one or even two members on the Board.

As a considerable time will elapse between the nominating and the date when the papers will be collected, every ratepayer will have an opportunity of judging fairly and thoughtfully, who will best represent his own views, and improve the general character and wisdom of the collective Board.

At a time when large public works are in hand, and thousands of pounds involved, it is all important that intelligent, business men should constitute our local authority, and we trust year by year, the Board will increase in wisdom and in influence.

ROTHWELL TELEGRAPHS.

From some cause or other the opening of the Rothwell Telegraph Office has been delayed, and our announcement last week proved incorrect. The Postmaster has now, however, received written instructions from the Authorities, to open the Office for public business on Monday, the first of April. Messages will be received or delivered every day (except Sunday) from 8 in the morning till 8 o'clock in the evening.

Rothwell Liberal Association.

On Monday evening, a lecture was delivered under the auspices of the above Association, in the large room, of the Mechanics' Institute, by Mr. Joseph Howes, President of the Leeds Labour Representation League. The subject of the lecture was "A page from English History," and was attentively listened to by his audience. Mr. J. Belcher occupied the chair.

STREET NAMING.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR,—My object in a former communication was simply to put in a protest against unnecessary or uncalled for inovation. The suggestions contained in my letter, were given it seems too late to be of service; as the names of the main streets had already been fixed upon by our local authorities. So that a prolonged discussion of this subject is now of very little use. I would therefore willingly have kept silence. But Mr. Westmoreland from the tone of his remarks, seems to look upon my letter as a premeditated attack upon himself, this was merely accidental, I wished to deal with principles not individuals, and was only too glad to agree to, or adopt any new names where required. Seeing however that his letter of last Friday, exhibits personal spleen foreign to the purpose, is full of historical jumble, and wilful and presumptuous ignoring of established truths, I decline to enter into any further controversy.

Yours truly,

Rothwell, A RATEPAYER.

March 26th, 1878.

"Remarkable Phenomenon."

About half-past Ten o'clock on Monday morning, March 25th, Mr. Jas. Steel, of the "Coach and Horses," Rothwell, was in his garden, near to the Stye Bank, and observed a meteor in the heavens, of a brilliant red in the lower part. It was elongated in shape, and rather of a greenish hue at the small upper end. It appeared to fall to the earth in a slanting direction from the north-east towards the south; at an angle of about 45 degrees. The meteor appeared to be backed by a cloud, though not very dense or dark in its aspect. Instantly the horizon hid it from urther view.

THE

VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

(A Tale of Old Rothwell.)

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

The guests are now preparing for departure, 'may I still hope to win your sweet affection and call you mine,' urged Melville.

'On any other topic I will converse with with you, but let me implore not to renew the same subject again,' answered Miss Nelly

'My heart yet feels that at some future time you will relent and accept my suit,' returned Melville.

'Not in this world,' answered Miss Nelly respectfully, 'my resolutions is already taken, I will always regard you as a friend, but to link my fate with yours that may not be.'

Melville now assumed a very woeful countenance and said in a plaintive manner, 'this room is oppressively hot, would Miss Nelly then as a friend take a walk with me to the garden gate and back again.'

'I see no harm and fear no evil in complying with such a request, but the night is cold, wait but a moment and I will put on more clothing. so saying she ran up the old staircase, and Melville stood waiting near the front door.'

'Now Miss Nelly we will see what a strong arm and a swift horse can do towards softening that obduiate heart of yours,' thought Melville.

She now came tripping down the old, yet substantial staircase and joined Melville who had already opened the door, they walked out together and took a circuitous path that led to the garden gate, neither spoke a word until they arrived within a few feet of it, when Melville said, 'once more I ask thee sweet maiden, wilt thou be mine?'

A soft, low voice replied 'no never.'

'I now swear by sword thou shall, and Melville quickly threw his camp cloak round her and lifted her up in his arms, then ran as fast as the kicking and scratching that he received would allow him, until he arrived at the old oak tree where he found Dick shivering and shaking beside the two horses.'

'Mount thy horse and ride after me for thy life,' said Melville excitedly and in a hoarse whisper, who was already in the saddle with his struggling companion.

'That's sooner sed then done,' replied Dick, who now put his foot in the stirrup and somehow scrambled on to the horse's back but as he was very timid, and the horse thinking perhaps that he had a queer rider on his back, started kicking and nearly threw Dick over on the other side, but his good fortune saved him, and when he sat upright he found himself grasping the hinder part of the saddle, and looking towards the horse's tail.

'Thou fool,' said Melville, in a rage, turn round in the saddle, if we loiter here we shall soon have the whole village upon us.'

'An sarve yer reight too' muttered Dick, who now sat the right way in the saddle, and taking the reins in his hands followed the soldier, and his somewhat calmer burden on the road towards Pontefract.

The snow that was on the ground was hard and crisp, so that our midnight travellers could not ride very fast, the moon shone at intervals through the driving black clouds, Miss Nelly maintained a sullen silence, and would not speak, although Melville used the most soothing language at his command, and Dick rode at a respectful distance, now a little before, he enjoyed his ride, it was a much easier seat than the one he had left in the house, at the top of the village he was now leaving behind him.

CHAPTER VIII.

Close to that most interesting old and ivy covered church at Methley, with its beautifully recumbent marble (or alabaster) figures at one end of a side a sle, there once stood a roadside inn of a very peculiar construction.

On a beam that jutted out, over the low front door, that was studded with large headed nails, swung a sign board, with a rude painting on it, representing a crusader on horseback clad in a coat of mail, and a battle axe in his hand, it was nearly obliterated by the ever destroying hand of Time, but still sufficently distinct for any one to see what it reprssented.

The walls were made up of wood, rough bricks, and plaster, and the roof overhung the front, and under the eaves were fixed fantastically carved oak brackets, which was a refuge for many chirping sparrow.

The interior was divided into several rooms, large and small, the largest was to the right hand, it was furnished with two strong oak tables, that bore many an indention, received from the brawling drinkers with the pewter pots, and many rudely carved initials adorned or disfigured the tops of them, and the seats that were fixed close to them, showed many signs of rough usuage.

Mine host, was a fat and merry looking little man, who had a jovial word for everybody, those he favoured the most who kept the shortest reckonings, and he had to deal with some boisterous boon companionsr.

It was an hour past midnight, and our two horsemen were well on the road towards Methley.

Melville rode on until he was by side of Dick, (who was considerably ahead) and said. 'Knowest thou the inn by the side of Methley Church.'

'I sud think I did,' answered his companion, (not the one in arms, but the other on horseback) 'I've hed monny a spree e't'owd house, Phillip Tempest is a good landlord an he knaws me varry weel, an soa does—

'Well, well,' interrupted Melville, 'There we will stay a few hours, and then start on our journey again, before the good people in the village are all awake.'

'Soa ye say, an soa ye may, responded Dick, for I feel varry sleepy, and a drop a summat hoat wod do me good.'

'Thou art right my worthy companion, we will have a few hours rest, and a tankard of the landlod's best wine, what sayest thou my sweet charmer' adressing Miss Nelly. who to all appearence was fast asleep.

Shoo's fast asleep poor thing,' said Dick, 'An hour or two in a nice soft bed, wod do her a lot a good, after being so long e that saddle.'

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

The Universal Remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the above ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the friction of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand, rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This Invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

World Known—World Tried!!

For strengthening a debilitated constitution, these Pills are more efficacious than any other medicine. Persons of a nervous habit of body, and all who are suffering from weak digestive organs, or whose health has become deranged from whatever cause, should lose no time in giving these Pills a fair trial; their action is immediate, beneficial, and lasting, restoring order, health, and vigor in every case.

For Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels.

These purifying Pills are confidently recommended as the most simple and certain remedy for Indigestion, Flatulency, Acidity, Constipation, and all Disorders resulting from disordered Stomach or Bowels. They act as purifiers, alteratives, and strengtheners of the stomach. Though powerfully tonic and satisfactorily aperient, they are mild in their operation and beneficial to the whole system.

Weakness and Debility—Nervous Irritability and Low Spirits.

The wholesome effect exercised by these admirable Pills over the Blood and Fluids generally, is like a charm in dispelling low spirits and restoring cheerfulness. Their general aperient qualities well fit them for a domestic medicine, particularly for females of all ages and periods of life. They quickly eject all impurities from the system, and regulate every function of the body, giving wonderful tone and energy to weak and debilitated constitutions.

Old Coughs, Colds and Asthmatic Affections.

These Pills, assisted in their action by rubbing Holloway's Ointment very effectually twice a day on the Throat and Chest, and keeping those parts covered with the preparation, will be found the most effective remedy for Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and influenza. They tranquilize the hurried breathing, soothe the irritated air-tubes, and assist in dislodging the phlegm which stops up the air passages. This treatment has proved wonderfully efficient, in not only curing old settled coughs and colds, but even asthma of many years' standing.

Complaints of Women and Children.

Any mother, nurse, or young person guided by the directions which accompany each box of Holloway's Pills, has at once available means for checking disease, purifying the blood, and expelling from the system all gross humours.

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London: also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s. and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Box and Pot, and can be had in any language.

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arising from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—

"For Great Britain—

"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

A SAFE, BRILLIANT, AND ECONOMICAL LIGHT.

IN CONTRAST to the numerous and fatal accidents which arise from the use of Petroleum, YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL has been extensively burned IN ALL CLIMATES for TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS without a SINGLE ACCIDENT. ITS FLASH POINT is invariably 30 DEGREES Fahrenheit ABOVE the British Government's standard of Safety, whereby all COST, TROUBLE, and DANGER in regard to a License for its storage or sale are entirely avoided. Being richer in Carbon than any other description of ... Oil, it is unequalled as an ILLUMINANT, giving a GOOD ... BEAUTIFUL FLAME. Considering the PRICE, & that it BURNS LONGER by THIRTY PER CENT than American Petroleum, it is unquestionably the most economical light known. YOUNG'S PARAFFIN OIL is thus distinguished for SAFETY, BRILLIANCY and ECONOMY.

SUMMARY

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

"... SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom with jewellers has been to remove the valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. There valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows ... with much trouble, subject the articles to damage from ... removal to and from the windows, and is said to ... It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted a contrivance to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this ... costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being able to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently recompensed."

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd 1877.

"... WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are placed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the windows exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes."

Rothwell School Board Meeting

A special meeting of the School Board took place on Friday, the 29th ult. In reply to the Clerk's letter to the Department, asking permission to open the Wesleyan School-room as a temporary Board School, a list of queries had been received to which suitable answers were now given, and a sketch of the school-room, drawn on the same sheet.

It was proposed by Mr. Batty, seconded by Mr Jewison and carried—That the list of queries and answers, relative to the opening of the temporary school, be now signed by the Clerk and returned to the Department.

Mr. Richardson having laid on the table the sites plan for the proposed school. It was proposed by the Chairman, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves and carried—That a tracing of the sites plan now submitted be sent to the Department, together with a section of the ordnance map for their Lordship's approval.

It was also proposed by Mr J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Seanor and carried—That Mr. J. G. Turner be instructed to prepare conveyance, &c., of land intended to be purchased from Messrs. Mawson's.

It was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Seanor and carried—That the furniture for the Rothwell School be purchased of Messrs. Illingworth, Ingham and Co., of Leeds.

The Chairman moved—That Messrs. J. Hargreaves and J. Batty with the Clerk, be authorized to purchase such furniture, books, apparatus, &c., as is necessary for properly fitting up the Rothwell School.

Seconded by Mr. Seanor and carried

A long conversation ensued on a general re-arrangement of teachers in the various schools under the Board, but the whole question was eventually adjourned till Tuesday

ROTHWELL BAND OF HOPE.

The annual festival of the Rothwell Band of Hope has just been held. On Sunday, March 24th, two addresses were given by Mr. W. Bell, of Bradford, in the Mechanic's Institute, and the following Sunday a Temperance Sermon was preached in the Primitive Chapel, by the Rev. J. Bootland. Last Wednesday, a Public Tea and Meeting took place in the Institute, the chair being taken by the Rev. Mr. Myers, of Normanton, and addresses delivered by Mr Matson, and other friends.

During the various meetings, selections of music were sung.

Rothwell Harmonic Union Concert.

On Monday evening, the members of the Rothwell Harmonic Union, gave a concert in the Mechanics Institute. Unfortunately the attendance was only small.

The principal vocalists were, Miss Jenny Wilkworth, (who gave with her usual good effect 'Whose tapping' and 'I'm a merry Zingara') and Mr. W. Foster, of Thorner, mightily delighted his audience by singing two or three comic ditties. Besides these special attractions. Mr Brown sang 'Sweethearts' and 'The Lost Chord;' Mr. Shires gave 'Four Jolly Smiths' and 'The Yeoman's Wedding Song' and Mr. Harrison 'The Vicar of Bray.'

A quartette was well rendered by Messrs. Lambert, Brown, Hammill and Harrison, entitled 'Stars of the Summer's Night.' The second part also contained the quartette 'Absence' by Messrs. Goldthope, Blackburn, Newton and Harrison.

The Harmonic Union contributed the glees 'Come Bounteous May' 'Wanton Gales' 'Queen of the Valley' and the Part Song 'April Showers.'

Rothwell Local Board Election.

The last meeting of the present Board was held on Monday last.—Present—J. Charlesworth, Esq., (chairman), Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, Dobson, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood and the Clerk, Collector, and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Medical Officer reported 10 deaths, none of which had arisen from fever or zymotic disease. The births numbered 22, 12 males and 10 females. He considered the health of the district satisfactory, and said the ashpits were being well kept in order.

A letter from Mr. Midgley complained of the position of a certain drain at Stourton, but Mr. Parkinson said he could not see way to alter it, nor did he see his any need to alter his arrangements, and that it would not run under the footpath as Mr. Midgley feared.

A letter to this effect, and stating that the plan had been passed by the Local Government Board, was agreed to on the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn.

Some remarks having been made respecting Mr Clayton's accident, by reason of the narrowness of the road left by Mr. Fisher in laying the pipes, the Inspector was directed to see that he kept the road sufficiently clear for passing conveyances.

Mr. W. Hargreaves proposed in reference to the Water Supply—That Mr. Filleter be asked when reservoir will be commencing, and if he can recommend a person as Clerk of Works. Also, that if he has not such a person in view, that one be advertised for. Mr. Lunn seconded the resolution which was carried.

Messrs. Pickthall and Co., notified their thanks for appointing them to make the reservoir.

A conversation was held about conveying water to Low Goslam, and Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed that the Clerk write to Messrs. Cochrane, Grove and Co., and to Mr. Jowitt to ascertain the cost of carrying the water forward to a tap for the use of the people at Low Goslam. The Chairman seconded the motion which was carried.

The Inspector reported that 490 pipes had been delivered, and laid, amounting to 87 tons 15 cwt. There were also two trucks waiting to go on with, so that the contractors would soon be near Fatkin's farm. Mr. Lunn thought the Inspector was paying a deal of attention to the work; and Mr. Worth stated that they were being laid very satisfactorily.

Mr. Price having discontinued his school, the question came up as to what should be done with the buildings.

It appears that the land was awarded to the township of Rothwell, and that the school was built as a Sunday school for the education of the poor, the money being raised by subscription

Mr. J. Hargreaves suggested that the further end of the buildings be made into a cottage for caretaker and his wife, and that the remainder be fitted up as waiting-room, &c., in connection with the Board-room.

A somewhat amusing struggle took place as to whether the Local Board ought to take the keys as the representatives of the ratepayers, or the School Board for the education of the poor children, or the Overseers to relieve the poor rates.

The Chairman, however, proposed—That the Clerk take possession of the keys, which was seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves.

Mr. Smith moved as an amendment—That the Overseers take the keys. There being no seconder, Mr. Smith was over-matched, and the buildings were claimed by the Board.

Mr. Crutchley's charges for professional aid in preparing plans, levels, &c., for the proposed local supply of water, and other items, were passed and a cheque for the amount £13 19s. 5d. granted.

The Clerk had received a letter from the Authorities stating that the question of a Police Station for this district was now about to be considered.

The Chairman suggested that the Board pay over to Mr. Smith the amount of fine which he had paid on the old alms-houses and then offer the land as a site for the Police Station. The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Schofield on the subject.

Mr. Sykes having converted a slaughter-house into a dwelling-house without previously taking the proper course, a resolution was passed (Mr. Dobson and the Chairman not voting)—That Mr. Sykes be summoned before the magistrates to compel him to pull down or alter the buildings so as to conform to the Bye-laws.

Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed—That the best thanks of the Board be given to Mr. Charlesworth for the able manner in which he had presided.

Mr. Lunn cordially seconddd the motion, which was carried.

The Chairman in replying, was greatly obliged for the kind vote of thanks which had been given. He congratulated the Board on the satisfactory state of health in the District. He trusted that the water scheme would soon be complete, and expected the drainage would be finished by and bye. He heartily thanked the Board for their kindness. The meeting then closed.

STREET NAMING.

(By C. Gibson, of London.)

Two weeks agoa (it is noa moar)
I stood artside ar kitchen doar,
Awl t'taan but me hed goan ta bed
For "Roddil Times" reight thro', I'd read.
I'm suar that paper pleases me
Its t'best at ivver I do see;
Six pages full of reight good news,
Theear's fact and fiction, read which ye chuse.
Nah t'neet wor really varry dark,
An t'wind wor blawing hard, but Hark!
Whativver is that noise, says I,
Its summat dropping art at sky;
Nay now't at soart, that is'nt true,
T'wor a heavy gust a wind at blew,
I thowt I heeard some curious walking,
But bless my life, awl t'streets wor talking.
"Just listen to me began "Taan Gate"
I'm t'owdest soa I'm t'first ta prate;
I'm t'longest street, whoo can say nay,
Hey up or down or onny way;
That day when I wor first began,
Noa book can tell, nor living man;
But I wor awllus meant ta be
T'main street et t'taan, an doant ye see,
I am soa still, but I've heeard of late,
My name it is'nt ta be "Taan Gate."
"Whativver is that for said "Church Lane"
Ta alter it wod be insane,
It's a good owd name, and proper tew,
We'll hev t'owd name, we weant hev t'new."
"Hurrah said "Butcher Loin," that's reight,
An long we awl sal live ta say it,
Nah doant ye think t'wod be a sin,
Ta call me by the name "Berlin"
I'm narrow at first, and raythe hilly,
An a Garman name wod sound soa silly."
"Then "Maypole Hill" began ta jaw
My name's a reight'un that ye knaw,
I'm suar I am a reight good soart,
I am not long but raythe short,
Long years agoa I form'd a pairt,
Of thee my true owd friend "Taan Gate;"
But when t'owd church they did begin,
An awl faandations wor laid in,
They made a rough an' ready road,
An daan it browt they many a load;
They used ta call it then "Church Lane"
An soa it ivver will remain.
What moar it said I'm at a loss,
But it mutter'd summat abart a "Cross"
In a lowd tone said "Pottery Fowd"
As thee "Taan Gate" I'm not soa owd.
Ta change my name I nivver will,
I'm "Pottery Fowd" an I'll be soa still:
Why bless my life I'm noan ashamed,
While Roddil stands ta be soa named,
I awllus did speik art my mind
For me another name doant find."
With croaking voice and varry harsh
A word or two sed t'street called "Marsh"
Another voice I plainly heard
"An t'owd "Jail Fowd" put in a word,
I am in danger I've heard say
My original name's ta be thrawn away."
"It's getting leet, said "Factory Loin"
I'm suar it's time we wor going
But doant when awl t'new names is made
Call me that fooilish name "Parade."
(Nah "Whitehall Road" I will agree
With that J. W, pleases me)
Tho' it wor varry windy weather,
Awl streets they shouted art together;
"Nah let 'em name us what they will
We sal goa be awl wer owd names still"
The wind nah dropped noa more wor said
I then shut t'door an went ta bed.

THE

VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

BY C. GIBSON, LONDON.

They now stopped right in front of the inn, and Dick alighted from his horse in a very careful manner, Melville, with his sleeping beauty, sprung lightly from his saddle, and threw the reins of his horse's bridle to his humble squire.

Melville gave three low distinct raps on the inn door, which was soon opened, by the ruddy faced landlord, who appeared to have been waiting for him, and no sooner was Melvill with his fair burden in his arms in the house, than the landlord opened a side door, and shouted, 'Betty, Betty, thou sleepy drone, here is a sweet young lady awaiting thy presence, wake up and bestir thyself, the sweet young creature is nearly frozen with the cold.'

Betty now appeared rubbing her eyes, and saying at the same time, 'follow me my sweet damsel, and thou shalt have something warm and comforting after thy weary journey.'

Melville now gently set down his fair burden, and left her with a few soothing words, in charge of the landlord's better half, to look after his faithful squire and the two horses.

The landlord now led the way with a large lantern in his hand, to the rear of the house which faced the back part of the church, towards some low built stables; he opened the door of one of them, and admitted Melville, Dick and the two horses, after unloosing their saddle girths and filling the manger with corn, Melville, Dick and the landlord then left the stables.

Just over a low wall was the churchyard, Dick gave a look behind him, and said in a tremulous voice, 'Phillip, do ye ivver see onny ghoasts e't' churchyard this time at yeear.'

'Well, answered the landlord, I have heard say that Sir Tristram Wenlock, leaves his grave, that is just opposite the porch door, every Christmas Eve just about twelve o'clock, and stalks very slow and stately, until he reaches the east end of the church, he there stops and leans on his sword, and appears to be waiting for some one for about two minutes, who I suppose arrives, he then fights a duel with an imaginary opponent, until he receives a thrust in his breast, a piercing shriek is heard, and Sir Tristram darts back into his grave again, whether this is true or not I cannot tell, I never yet saw him, nor have I any desire to see him.'

'Na more hev I, said Dick, lets get inta t'house, for I am varry near starved ta deeath.'

'Thou art a timid fellow, said Melville, why Sir Tristram has fought his duel and is, in his tomb again, this is now Christmas morning.'

They now entered the inn again, and the landlord bolted the door, and Melville ordered a tankard of the best wine Phillip Tempest could find in his cellar, he soon procured the sparkling liquid and set it before them.

A large oak log was hissing and cracking in the great fireplace, and it gave a ruddy glow all over the room, the landlord crept up stairs to bed, and our two midnight adventurers made themselves quite comfortable.

We will now leave them awhile to drink the rosy wine, and talk over the affair they were now engaged in.

When Melville left his fair captive in the care of the landlady, she (Miss Nelly) appeared to be in great distress, and Betty who seemed to know the cause of it said, 'why does my little lady take it so to heart? surely the handsome young officer will take care of and protect you, drink of this sweet beverage it will cheer thy little heart.'

'But he wont, and he shan't,' sobbed the young lady, drawing her cloak more closely around her, and hiding her face in a pocket handkerchief.

'Come along with me, and thou shalt have a nice soft bed to sleep on, continued Betty in a persuasive manner, thou will be taken care of I warrant thee.'

Miss Nelly was cold and tired, and certainly required some rest, she still sobbed and cried as if her heart would break, and the landlady led her up the old stairs into a small back room, where a candle was burning on a table, there was only a bed and a few chairs.

Miss Nelly sat down on one of them, but all the entreaties that Betty could utter, was of no avail to induce the young lady to lay down and go to sleep, her sobs, and long drawn sighs were painful to hear. so after a few more unsuccessful attempts to persuade her youthful, but distrustful companion to take rest, Betty lost her temper, and bounced out of the room, and locked the door after her, muttering something not very complimentary to that young lady's character.

'Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise' wrote a great writer, and Betty retired to rest in blissful ignorance of the sorrowful individual she had left in the little back bedroom, had she put her eye to the hole from where she had removed the key, a short time afterwards, she would probably have seen and heard something that would have disputed the veracity of that popular proverb.

The sobs and sighs were turned to suppressed laughter, and our old friend Tim (for it was he) quickly divested himself of the real Miss Nelly's outer clothing, and hid them under the bed, after drinking the 'sweet beverage' just offered to him by the landlady before she went out, Tim took a survey of the room, and muttered to himself. 'I've acted my pairt weel enough up to just now, but I'm locked in, but theear's this window at I can get art on, an I can drop daan inta t' back yard without making much noise, or ivver hurting mesen.'

Tim no sooner bethought himself of this mode of escaping from his temporary place of confinement, than he put it into execution, and was soon in the cold open air.

We will now return to the two worthies in the tap-room, they were laid at full length on the seat nearest the fire-place and both apparently fast asleep, the smouldering embers of the oak log now gave a dull red appearance to all around, and the room smelt very strong of alcoholic liquors, the tankard was empty and the greater part of the contents of it had got firm hold of Melville's sleeping propensities, for he snored very audibly

Mr. Holmes' Candidature Meeting at Rothwell.

A very numerously attended meeting of Ratepayers of Rothwell Haigh and the Stourton District was held at the Stourton Hotel, Pontefract-road, on Monday evening, April 1st, for the purpose of furthering the election of Mr. Joseph Holmes, who had been nominated as a candidate for election on the Local Board. Mr. John Swales presided, and in his opening remarks, said, that they had met together to give the ratepayers at large an opportunity of meeting Mr. Holmes, and any ratepayer would be at liberty to ask Mr. Holmes any question they thought proper, he said they did not want to do anything in an underhand way, but the Committee are anxious to bring their candidate before the ratepayers so as they could ask questions and satisfy themselves as to the qualification of Mr. Holmes to represent them, he said Mr. Holmes had filled similar offices before, such as Guardian, Overseer of the Poor, and Highway Surveyor of a large township, the general business of the Board would be familiar to him, he had known him for a great number of years and he had no doubt if Mr. Holmes was returned he would be able to give us satisfaction. Mr. J. Newbould then asked Mr. Holmes if he was returned if he would be willing to pay particular attention to the Building Bye-laws, and see to them being properly carried out and enforced to all persons alike, and also to proper inspection of plans at the time they are submitted, and not to pass plans of buildings as accepted, and when the buildings get half finished, for the Inspector to come and order them to be altered. Mr. Holmes replied and said that he would pay particular attention to the carrying out of the Building Bye-laws, and said that he himself had noticed that there was much room for amendment, and especially as to the levels, he said that it was not very pleasing for a person to build property on a certain level and then another person to come and build on a higher level and shut him out as it were altogether, but if they would honour him by returning him, he would do his utmost to have these things better looked after, and as he lived at Stourton, and his time was his own he thought he would be better able to look after these things than persons who lived a distance off. The Chairmen then asked if any other person wished to ask Mr. Holmes any questions, there being no response Mr. J. Newbould then rose and moved a resolution, which was seconded by Mr. J. Kirby, and supported in a able speech by Mr. Jas. Simpson, and which was unanimously carried—That in the opinion of this meeting Mr. Joseph Holmes is a fit and proper person to represent us on the Rothwell Local Board, and it was then proposed by Mr. J. Simpson, and seconded by Mr. Chas. Midgley, and unanimously carried—That this meeting pledges itself to use every means to secure the election of Mr. Holmes. The Chairman then asked if any person had any resolution to move or anything to say, if so, they were at liberty to do so, and after several able speeches from Mr. J. Kirby, Mr. J. Simpson, and others; A vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman amid acclamations, when he replied in his usual laconic and humorous style, which brought the proceedings to a close.

A meeting was held in the Black Bull on Tuesday evening, to hear Mr. Holmes, and to secure support, for his election as a member of the Local Board.

Mr. J. Swales took the chair, and introduced Mr. Holmes as the candidate chosen by the Stourton ratepayers as their representive.

Mr. Holmes then proceeded to give his views on certain matters of interest, especially the making and repairing of roads, and referred to his long experience in public business, as surveyor, overseer and guardian. He had his time at his own disposal and was prepared to devote himself to the duties devolving upon a member of the Local Board.

In reply to a question, Mr. Holmes gave it as his opinion and experience, that it was more economical and work was better done, by engaging a contractor to do the road repairing, than by a public body.

The chairman said, that the main question they wished the Rothwell people to answer was—Do the ratepayers consider it a fair thing to have one member on the Board, who shall represent Stourton, as well as Rothwell and Rothwell Haigh. They wanted every one to lend a helping hand, and to give one vote to Mr. Holmes, whoever else they voted for besides.

After waiting a considerable time, Mr. W. Hargreaves said he quite agreed with Mr. Swales, that Stourton ought to have a representative on the Board; it was an important place, and a member down there would always have an eye on things going on down there, and report to the meeting. He thought there ought to be a representative both on the School Board and the Local Board. He had pleasure in proposing Mr. Holmes as a proper person to be a member of the Local Board.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any sore, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen. Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS—in order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Great Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS.

By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.

"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—"For Great Britain—"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

Before the Hon. H. C. Maxwell-Stuart and B. E. Wilkinson, Esqrs.

Only two defendants were summoned to answer charges at these Sessions. The first defendant was James Atkinson, of Sherburn, who was summoned for non-payment of rates. The magistrates made an order requiring him at once to pay the amount due.

The other defendant was James Hubie, a shoemaker, residing at South Milford, who was charged with having refused to quit the Swan Inn, at South Milford, when requested so to do both by the laudlady and by a constable; and also with having been found drunk and riotous at South Milford.—The defendant pleaded guilty to both charges, and a penalty of £1 and costs was inflicted in each case.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

Not so with Dick, he had drunk very sparingly of the landlord's best wine, he could trust to Tim to make his escape, even if he (Tim) could not get out of the room, he knew very well that Tim had only to hide Miss Nelly's clothes, and to appear in his own, and by that he would escape suspicion, for Melville had never seen Tim, and therefore would not know him.

Dick was now certain that Melville was hard and fast asleep, so he got up from his seat, and while so doing, he heard a low knock at the door.

'That's Tim I'm suar' thought the wide awake Dick, and gently unbolting the door and pulling it open, he saw standing before him Timothy Tintack, the late representative of a forlorn maiden.

'Well done Tim' said Dick smiling 'soa far soa good,' and at the same time closing the door.

'Let's be off back agean,' said Tim 'for I am freetened a that sowdger's girt long sword, weear is he.'

'He's all reight for an hour or two' answered Dick in a whisper 'follow me.'

They now proceeded very cautiously to the stable, and slowly led out Farmer Underwood's two horses, the morning air was very been, and neither of them being very clever in the art of riding on horseback, they made very slow progress, but as the distance from Methley to Rothwell is not very great, they arrived at the latter place without any further adventure, Dick returned the horses to one of the stables that adjoined the Manor House, before any of the quiet villagers were fairly awake, and both he and Tim were each in his own house, while Melville was snoring on the tap-room seat at the roadside inn close to Methley Church.

CHAPTER IX.

A short account of Methley Church may not be out of place here. It was in the existence at the time of the Doomsday owney and it is in the patronage of the Duchy of Lancaster.

The recumbent figures mentioned in the begining of the toregoing chapter which are in the Chantry are of exquisite workmanship, they represent a male and female, there is no inscription, but the armorial bearings show that they cover the grave of Lionel Lord Welles, who fell at the memorable battle of Towton field, on Palm Sunday, 1461.

There is likewise a tew more beautiful monuments, one in particular that of 'Robert Waterton and Cicely his wife,' and some that commemorate the 'Savile' family.

But there is a statute over one of the doors of the patron Saint King Oswald that is by far the most antiquated bit about the the whole place, except the foundation of the Church, and no doubt it is contemporary with it, and the parish, which dates back to a very remote period. But to resume our story.

What a curious and also a delusive piece old Dame Nature handiwork is a dream, what a human being can appear to do in an incredible short space of time, when under the influence of a dream, he can overcome the most impossible difficulties, he can find for the digging of it countless heaps of treasure, and Oh! how disappointing to wake up in the morning and perhaps find a solitary sixpence in his pocket, then again he can fly up into the air without wings and in his descent to the earth again, he may tumble out of bed, and find himself on the bare boards, he can build houses, knock down churches, make long speeches, and by just waving his hand the strongest castle that ever was built will tumble down, and all the stones that it was built of will crumble away instantly, he can go to the seaside for a week and see all the sights that are to be seen at such delightful places, he can travel by rail and go hundreds of miles, he can do all these things and hundreds more while in his dreams, and may not have been asleep more than ten minutes, what sport we mortals are to old Dame Nature sometimes in our sleep.

While Melville slept he was in an ecstacy of delight, he dreamt that he was at Rothwell in the old 'Vicarage' talking sweet converse to Miss Nelly, then he was at the alter with his blushing bride, surrounded by a gay and bright company of youthful admirers, the good Vicar pronounced a loving blessing on his youngest daughter, and himself (Melville), the singers sung their sweetest hymns, and the whole company that were assembled in the old church shouted with delight, when the marriage service was concluded, the three bells that were in the church tower rung their merriest peal, the streets was lined with an enthusiastic crowd waving their hats and pocket handkerchiefs in honour of the sweet maiden they so much loved, all this Melville dreamt, and much more in the same delightful state of happiness while laid at full length on the hard seat of the roadside inn, at Methley, while Dick and Tim were on the road to Rothwell.

There is no telling what more he might have dreamt, and how long he might have slept, had not honest Phillip Tempest awoke and come down stairs.

He might have dreamt that Dick was running away with the dearest object of his heart and that Miss Nelly was screaming for help, but he did not, for the landlord gave him a rough shake and awoke him.

Melville's five senses were jumbled up together, and he did not know where he was for a moment, but the last night's adventure rushed into his mind, and he eargely enquired if the young lady was yet asleep, and looking round, said fiercely,—'Where is my male companion!

'I cannot tell' said the landlord, 'I have never seen him since you were here together, very early this morning, perhaps he is preparing the horses for your journey to Pontefract.'

'I will go and ascertain, do thou in the meantime tell thy wife to awake the young maiden, and keep her here, while I go to the stable.'

Melville accordingly went out, and found the two horses gone, and likewise his male companion, he now entered the inn, and going up stairs found Betty and her husband searching high and low, but no young lady could be found.

Melville was now in a terrible rage, he stamped abont the old house like a madman, he asked all sorts of questions, and did not wait for any answer, at last Betty found the clothes that Tim had disguised himself with at the 'Vicarage' and it now dawned on the young soldier's mind that he had been duped and that his clever stratagem, had been as cleverly frustrated.

'That vile cobbler hath outwitted me,' he said fiercely, 'but he shall be punished, or I am not a soldier of the King.'

'But where is he' exclaimed the landlord.

'You will have to find him first' said Betty.

Melville took no heed of these remarks, but walked about the room with wild disappointment, what if is brother officers should get news of his miserable failure? and what would they think of him being the dupe of a village cobbler? the thought was maddening.

He desired to be left alone, that he might devise some means by which he might be revenged on that deceitful plebian.

When the landlord and his wife had left him to ruminate on his late lamentable failure, in carrying off Miss Nelly, he sat down on a chair, and gazed out of the very window that Tim had made his escape from.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment three or four times a day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depravity from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen. Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877. A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877. JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

HOPKINSON'S PIANOFORTES are unequalled for PURITY AND PERFECTION OF TONE, DELICATE TOUCH, GREAT DURABILITY, and ELEGANT APPEARANCE. Intending purchasers should see these beautiful instruments before deciding to have one by any other maker. One of the largest and best stocks in the Kingdom to select from.

PURCHASE DIRECT FROM THE MAKERS The Advantages are obvious.

Messrs. HOPKINSON are the only makers in GREAT BRITAIN who obtained PRIZE MEDALS for their Pianofortes at all the following Exhibitions:— THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1851. THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Great Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872. For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."

JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— "BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 After a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON.

At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

The first meeting of the New Board took place on Monday last. Present—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, Smith, J. Hargreaves, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Inspector and Treasurer.

The new members having signed the usual declaration, the Clerk took the chair, and asked some gentleman to name a member to be chairman of the Board for the present year.

Mr. W. Hargreaves proposed, and Mr. Lunn seconded—That Mr. Charlesworth, be the chairman for the year. Carried.

Mr. Lunn proposed, and Mr. Smith seconded—That Mr. W. Hargreaves be the vice-chairman for the year, and that he take the chair at this meeting Carried.

Mr. Hargreaves, having taken the chair, expressed his pleasure in presiding at this meeting; and thanked the members of the Board for again electing him as vice-chairman, which position he had occupied during the past four years.

The Clerk proceeded to read the minutes of last meeting, which were agreed to, until the resolution authorising the Clerk to take possession of the school buildings, when Mr. Smith, rose to object to the Board taking possession, and stated that the overseers would agree to it, if the Board paid a rent as Mr. Price had done. The reading of the minutes was then concluded, after which the chairman explained to the new members the proceedings of last meeting, in regard to the school buildings.

Mr. Holmes then proposed—That the minutes be confirmed, with the exception of the resolution; to which Mr. Smith took objection. Mr. Hawden seconded.

Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed an amendment 'That the minutes be confirmed in their entirety. Mr. Lunn seconded.

On the amendment being put, the Chairman, Messrs. J. Hargreaves, Lunn, Smith, Greenwood and Bramley, voted in favour of it. Messrs. Holmes and Hawden, upholding their resolution in favour of Mr. Smith alone.

SLAUGHTER-HOUSE.—Mr. Bramley, (chairman), Messrs. Smith, Greenwood, and Hawden.

The present Treasurer to the Board, Mr. Marshall, was again appointed to that office, for which he returned thanks to the members of the Board. Mr. Lunn proposed and Mr. Smith seconded the payment of the election expenses amounting to £15 2s. 6d. Carried.

The Draft Mortgage was next considered for the borrowing of £6,725 form the Public Works Loan Commissioners for Drainage and Water Works at 3½ per cent interest, repayable by annual instalments in 30 years

It was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried—That the Draft Mortgage for £6,725 be signed on behalf of the Board and forwarded to the Department.

The chairman remarked on the great scarcity of water at present in Rothwell, and urged the necessity for pushing forward with the reservoir. A letter was read from Mr. Filleter, recommending a Clerk of Works, who was now at liberty, having just successfully completed a reservoir. Mr. Filleter doubted if the Board could get a suitable man at 38s. The person he referred had had £2 10s. Several members felt that a great deal depended on having a thoroughly good man as Clerk of works.

Mr. J. Hargreaves thought all depended on the Clerk of Works, for the work being well done.

Mr. Holmes felt it highly necessary that they should have a good man.

Mr. Hawden said if they could get a good man at 38s. of course he should have him, but if not, it was very important they should have it well done.

Mr. Bramley enquired if there was not time to advertise for one.

The Chairman pointed out Mr. Filleter's observation, that a man like this would be re-engaged directly.

Mr. Bramley then proposed—That the Clerk of Works recommended by Mr. Filleter be appointed by the Board at 50s. per week.

Mr. Hawden asked whether the reservoir was not to be finished in ten weeks, to which the Clerk replied in the affirmative; also that the appointment commences from the date of agreement,

Mr. J. Hargeaves then seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

It was proposed by Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. Hawden, and carried—That Messrs. Ford and Warren be instructed to prepare agreement for construction of reservoir.

On the motion of Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. Greenwood, it was resolved—That Mr. Smith, assisted by the Inspector, collect the stallage, &c., on Easter Monday.

Mr. Bramley thought some precautions ought to be taken to protect the flags, &c., belonging to the Board in the Gillett Field on Easter Monday. The matter would be remembered.

Mr. Lunn reported that the Butcher-lane pump is out of order, and the Inspector was instructed to have it repaired.

The Chairman moved—That the meeting be adjourned to Thursday evening.

Mr. Bramley seconded the motion, which was carried.

Wesleyan Concert.

On Monday evening, the Choir (slightly augmented) of the Wesleyan Chapel, Rothwell, gave a Miscellaneous Concert in the School-room, which was listened to by a large audience with undisguised delight. We feel the more pleasure in reporting the great success of the effort, because, unlike the last concerts the members of the above choir have relied on their own resources, and have thoroughly demonstrated that they can provide a rich treat without the aid of outsiders. We heartily congratulate Mr. Ward, the untiring conductor, on having tried and so completely succeeded in the employment of native talent only. The only exception being Mr. J. Liversedge, the teacher of our young violinists, Messrs. J. R. Seanor, Junr., W. Ellis, and S. Morton, who contributed considerably to the pleasures of the evening.

The young ladies and gentlemen having seated themselves, the Rev. W. G. Dawson stated that as Mr. Hargreaves was present he had great pleasure in calling upon him to take the chair.

On rising, Mr. Wm. Hargreaves was very warmly received, and in a few words expressed his pleasure at being present and his anticipation of an agreeable evening. Referring to the ordinary services at the Wesleyan Chapel he made some remarks highly flattering to the choir, and especially to Mr. C. Ward, the leader and he considered there was very great credit due to him and them for the important services they rendered in maintaining and improving the singing at chapel. In token of his appreciation of Mr. Ward's services as leading singer for about 23 years, Mr. Hargreaves had pleasure in presenting Mr. Ward with a beautiful silver-mounted baton, and said he was sure they all felt indebted to Mr. Ward for the faithfulness and earnestness with which he had conducted the Sunday services for so many years, and that there are not many places with a better choir.

Although the presentation was only known to Mr. Hargreaves and two or three friends, it was evident by the applause which followed that Mr. Hargreaves' kind and suitable gift was heartily approved by the audience.

Mr. Ward replied in suitable terms, and under considerable emotion, expressing his sincere thanks to Mr. Hargreaves for his very kind and quite unexpected present, and assuring him that he should treasure the baton with the greatest care and with grateful remembrance.

The programme was then proceeded with commencing with the singing of Hymn 604, "Raise the psalm," to the tune "Deehurst," which gave a good idea of the powers of the combined voices and instruments. Dr. Wesley's glorious but difficult Te Deum was next essayed, and notwithstanding the dangerous points, the country choristers came out with success.

Gounod's grand song "Nazareth" came next, by Mr. W. Varley, who did himself credit by the care and feeling with which he sang the glorious words set to the peculiar music. Following this, the choir rendered Mozart's 12th Mass, "Sanctus," in a really masterly manner, singing it as though they knew it.

Four or five little girls then gave a sweet melody, "Angels are waiting," very nicely, after which the choir followed with Rossini's fine chorus "To Thee, great Lord," in an effective manner.

A somewhat difficult symphony and chorus was next undertaken by the band, who acquitted themselves remarkably well, and were properly rewarded with an encore. The strings consisted of Messrs. I. Liversedge and J. R. Seanor, junr., first violins; Mr. W. Ellis, second; Mr. S. Morton, viola; and Mr. Ward, violincello.

A charming melody, "Glad Tidings" was next on the programme, by the choir. Miss M. E. Seanor both delighted and astonished the audience by the ease and power with which she sang "Let the angels in," and richly deserved the encore she received.

Hymn 839, "Guide me, O thou great Jehovah" was next sung to the new tune, "Olivet." The Sunday School Anthem, "Cry out and shout," rendered with the full power of which the choir is capable, brought the first part to a conclusion.

A violin duet by Mr. Liversedge and Mr. Seanor reflected considerable credit on both teacher and pupil and was well received. A little girl, Betsy Hampson, sang very prettily "Come, birdie, come," to which Mr. Liversedge played a capital accompaniment, the last verse being again called for. The part song "The Belfry Tower," was very nicely given by the choir, though a little more piannissimo would have been an improvement, the broken time however was well kept.

In the "Mocking Bird," Mr. Liversedge displayed his musical powers in singing, and a well-played accompaniment on the guitar, the imitation of the mocking bird's whistle by a Leeds friend greatly delighting the audience who demanded its repetition.

The lullaby, "Sweet and Low," by the choir, demonstrated the possibility of their singing softly, and we must congratulate them on the success they attained, and advise the members to watch this point more frequently. They can give the forte first-rate, when they attain the same accomplishment in piano their success as a choir will be complete. Miss Lambert followed with the sacred song, "Lead me to the rock that is higher than I." and greatly charmed the audience by the sweetness and mellifluousness of her voice; at the request of the audience she repeated the last verse.

An overture by the band came in as an agreeable change, and was cordially applauded; after which the choir rendered Handel's grand chorus, "Then round about the starry throne," in a thoroughly effective manner.

Before the last piece was sung, the chairman called on Mr. S. Seanor to move a vote of thanks to the conductor (Mr. Ward), the choir, and the instrumentalists, which he did with very great pleasure and in suitable terms. Mr. Marshall, in seconding the vote of thanks, felt proud he was connected with such a choir, and was sure very few country choirs could come up to them. Thanks were also most heartily given to Mr. Hargreaves for so kindly taking the chair. Mr. J. R. Seanor was exceedingly pleased to see Mr. Hargreaves coming among them, and for his very kind and timely present to Mr. Ward. He would be glad if they could have the concert repeated in the course of two or three weeks, and have a collection. Mr. Morton briefly seconded the resolution, which was put by the Rev. Mr. Dawson, who stated how willingly Mr. Hargreaves had agreed to assist them, and expressed his pleasure in having his presence. hoping he would become still more closely connected with them. The applause having subsided, Mr. Hargreaves said he had been pleased to be present, and felt greatly obliged by their thanks. The last hymn (962) was then sung to tune "Ellers," after which the company dispersed.

The success of the concert has been greatly enhanced by the assistance of Mr. Liversedge, whose wonderful powers as a violinist we have before noticed, as well as his three pupils, Messrs. Seanor, Ellis and Morton. The effective and careful accompaniments of Mr. Naylor on the piano and harmonium were a considerable help, and his playing throughout was highly creditable. The assistance of Mrs. A. Ward in the choir was also of great value to the treble singers. To Mr. Ward's continuous earnestness and patience every credit is due, and we trust he may long live to maintain the efficiency of Methodist singing in Rothwell.

The nett result of the effort will be devoted to the Fund for the much needed new chapel.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the above Board was held on Wednesday evening. Present—Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman) Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison and the Clerk, and Attendance-Officer.

The minutes of the previous meetings having been read and confirmed, the opening of the Temporary School was considered, and it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Seanor and carried—That the Rothwell Temporary School be opened on Monday, April 29th, at 9 o'clock in the morning, the fees and other particulars to be announced by means of 50 bills.

It was also resolved that the Clerk obtain estimates for the making and fixing of a rail fence, and for a gallery in the infants' room of the Temporary School for the approval of the Attendance Committee.

The fees of several children were remitted up to the end of June, and notices issued for the more regular attendance of others. Enquiries as to the amount earned by two other persons, who applied for remission of fees, were directed to be made by the clerk.

The Chairman proposed, and Mr. Seanor seconded, "That Miss Jane Kidd be appointed adult monitress at Waterloo, at a salary of £25 per annum." Carried.

Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed, and Mr. Jewison seconded "That a precept for £300 be served on the Overseers for the half-year ended September 29th." Carried.

Resolutions were also passed for the payments of teachers' salaries, for Mr. Lockwood's account, and for £5 for petty cash.

The articles wanted by the various schools were sanctioned on the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

Who can it be that so artfully acted the part of that dear girl? what an ass I must have been not to discover who it was that I clasped so lovingly to my breast, what if it should have been a male, instead of a female that has just deceived me, (the very thought drove him to the verge of distraction) and then these clothes, for a surety Miss Nelly must be in the secret, however can I meet her eye again? I now see into my folly, suppose I had in reality succeeded in carrying off that sweet maiden, what misery I should have imposed on her. and the rest of her family, who have always been so kind to me. That honest cobbler instead of helping me to disgrace, has really done me good service, instead of punishing him, I will doubly reward him.

Thus soliloquised Melville, as the old bells in Methley church tower rang out a merry christmas morning peal. He now felt very different in his own mind, he felt thankful that his evil design had been interrupted, how true are the words of the great dramatist 'for conscience doth make cowards of us all.'

We must now skip over a period of fifteen months, and start on our journey again in the sweet spring-time.

After a long and dreary winter, how pleasant is a fine spring morning, how fresh is the air how sweet are the voices of the wild birds, in the valleys and dells, and copses, and the green lanes of 'old England' what spot on earth can equal her, in this the youngest season of the year. When the lovely white blossom of the hawthorn scents the passing breeze, when the foxglove, and blue-bell, primrose, and cowslip adorn the meadows and the wayside, how charming it is to rove at will, and enjoy these beautiful productions of Nature, when the glorious rising sun sheds his bright beams on hill and dale, on cottage and mansion.

How vast is the difference between a rural village and a crowded city, (in the springtime of the year) with its thousands of busy workers, toiling in workshops that scarcely admit the free and open daylight, how much happier is (or ought to be) the ploughman that can listen to the lark singing his morning song, as he rises towards the blue sky

On the evening of a day such as I have described, a handsome young man took his way across some fields that led towards Rothwell Church, all through the day, sunshine and shower had been very frequent.

It was nearly dark, but he seemed no stranger to the old village, when he had crossed the fields, he turned down a lane that led him towards an inn, that stood close to the churchyard, (an inn at that period in Rothwell was the only place where a traveller could find accommodation for any length of time) this young traveller entered the Black Swan (but since that time, it has turned into a white one) and sat down in a low little room, there was only one window that looked churchyard, on the hearth burnt some wood, which gave out a peculiar odour.

A few candles burnt on the strong oak tables, and a good many pots stood around them, some full of ale, and some nearly empty, the conversation was very lively, there had been a wedding betwixt two loving couples in the morning, and they were celebrating their nuptials amid the boon companions here assembled.

In one corner was a fiddler scaping away at a lively tune, and in the middle of the room was a nimble and active man (whom Melville knew at the first glance) dancing to it, the reader may imagine him to be our old friend Dick, for it was no one else, his exertion seemed to have fatigued him after the tune was played out, so he sat down in a seat close to the young traveller, who had entered without being noticed.

The reader will no doubt have guessed who the young traveller was, it was no other than Melville, but Dick did not as yet recognised him, the poor cobbler's eyesight was not of the best, and the uncertain light of a few flickering candles did not help him to discover the individual he had so cleverly outwitted.

CHAPTER X.

Pontefract is a place that can claim a great share of the antiquarian's research and attention, it stands on an eminence, and the pedestrian cannot enter the town without going up hill.

In the time of the Saxons it was called 'Kirkby' but was changed by the Romans to Pontefract.

The Castle which will ever hold a conspicuous place in the History of England, was first begun to be built in the reign of King William, and it was finished in the year 1080, it was built on an elevated rock, and commanded a beautiful view of the sorrounding country.

The wall of the Castle yard was very high, and was flanked with seven towers, it had also a parapet, and a deep ditch or moat, which was on the western side of the Castle, and also on this side was the barbican or drawbridge, and close to these was the mainguard, which was of great strength and magnitude, there were other gates which were used as watch-towers and some of them had also drawbridges.

On a little rising ground near the western extremity of the Castle wall, stood the keep, or round tower, the walls of this edifice were twenty feet thick, at the bottom of it is a dismal dungeon fifteen feet deep, and not six feet square, and no light could ever penetrate into it, the whole Castle when built covered about seven acres of land, and it was supplied with water, from several wells which were very deep.

It was at this formidable Castle that Richard the second was murdered, or starved to death, and other distinguished persons were basely murdered, or put to a lingering and most miserable death.

It was also one of the last strongholds of Charles the first, and it was garrisoned by his troops until he was beheaded, they surrendered by capitulation to General Lambert, one of Oliver Cromwell's ablest generals; but to proceed.

Melville who was still in the service of the King, had obtained a short leave of absence, his heart and mind were nearly always with Miss Nelly, in the old Vicarage, whether in the battlefield, or on the quiet hearth, he could not forget the sweet maiden whom he had tried so wilfully to steal away from her happy home.

Could she have forgiven him? he asked himself this question a thousand times, he had again been invited to the old house of Vicar Thornwood, but he pleaded indisposition, the worthy Vicar did not know of Melville's intended conduct towards his daughter, it had been kept a secret by all the parties concerned, even Niss Nelly never mentioned it.

Melville then at the first opportunity determined to find out Dick Pinder, and if possible through him he would get to know the real state of Miss Nelly's feelings towards himself, so he took leave of that famous castle of Pontefract, and in plain civilian's clothes, and went to Rothwell, and found out the very individual he had come to converse with, but we anticipate.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen. Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and

JOHN DYSON, WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,
Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.
With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.
From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.
From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

THE PRIZE MEDAL (Premiere Classe) of the PARIS EXHIBITION in 1855, and by the unanimous decision of the Musical Jury at Paris they were awarded a GOLD MEDAL OF HONOUR THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862, Awarded for "Great Excellence of Tone." THE PRIZE MEDAL OF THE EXHIBITIONS IN DUBLIN, 1865 and 1872, For "Improved Mechanism and Tone."
JURORS' AWARDS. By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction. See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4. "In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:— "For Great Britain— "BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."
AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867 after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by J. & J. HOPKINSON. At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by J. & J. HOPKINSON. N.B.—J. & J. Local Board Meeting.

On Thursday, the 18th, an adjourned meeting of the Local Board was held. Present, Mr. W. Hargreaves (chairman), Messrs. Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, the Clerk, and Treasurer.

The Clerk stated he had seen Mr. Filleter and that the man recommended by him is the same as the chairman of the Churwell Board had written about, and that he was appointed as Clerk of Works for the reservoir making at 50s. per week. The Clerk also intimated that Messrs. Pickthall and Co. would commence work after the Easter Holidays.

As regards the bricks required for the reservoir, the Chairman stated that Mr. Charlesworth had offered to provide the bricks at a saving of about £1 per 1000 in carriage, &c., but owing to his being a member of the Board, it could not be accepted. Lord Stourton had, however, arranged to let the Board get what clay they may require for a payment of £10, and Messrs. Charlesworth were prepared to carry it on their rails to where it is required, without charge, the same as the pipes.

Mr. Bramley said he would be glad to let the Board have what clay they wanted, if suitable for the purpose. The Chairman thanked Mr. Bramley for his offer. It was found, however, on further enquiry, that they would have to go 12 feet down in order to get the quality of clay necessary for pudding, but Mr Bramley agreed to send a load up to the ground for Mr. Filleter's inspection.

After some discussion, it was proposed by Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves and carried, "That Mr. Morris and Mr. Woolley be asked to estimate for 30,000 bricks, suitable for the reservoir, delivered on the spot."

The chairman would like to have an estimate for two sorts of brick from each party.

Mr. Holmes had used the cheaper sort to which the chairman referred, and had found them as useful as the others at 8s. or 10s. more price; only they were not so well finished. It was accordingly decided to have the different samples and estimates submitted to Mr. Filleter and the Waterworks Committee on Wednesday last.

A letter was read from Messrs. Dibb, Atkinson and Braithwaite, enclosing draft agreement between Mr. Calverley and the Local Board in regard to the Board carrying a main drain through about 700 yards of Mr. Calverley's land, in the Oulton parish. The document was of considerable length, and protests and objections were taken to several clauses, especially to the one fixing the lease at 30 years; also that £5 per year acknowledgment was sadly too much, and also that only on payment to be hereafter fixed could the Board agree to allow Mr. Calverley to carry drains from his property into the Board's main drain.

On the motion of Mr. Holmes, seconded by Mr. Lunn, it was resolved to return the agreement together with the several objections made by the Board.

At their meeting on Wednesday it was decided that the Waterworks Committee shall consider certain portions of the charge for water rents.

Certificates were received from Mr. Parkinson and Mr. Filleter for certain payments on account to the Wortley Fire Clay Co. for sanitary tubes; to Mr. H. Fisher for work done in pipe laying, and to Messrs. Cochrane, Grove, and Co. for water pipes; which besides several smaller accounts were ordered to be paid on the motion of Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley.

The clerk read the auditor's report, setting forth that the books were audited by him on April 16th, and that the accounts were correct and legal, and that the books of the several officers were kept in a satisfactory manner.

Wesleyan Sunday School Union Meeting at Rothwell.

The annual gathering of the Wakefield Circuit Wesleyan Sunday School Union was held this year at Rothwell on Good Friday. A large number of teachers came from Wakefield, Alverthorpe, Ardsley, Lofthouse, Stanley, Normanton, Carlton, Oulton and Woodlesford, to meet the Rothwell friends.

Shortly after half-past two the conference of teachers assembled in the chapel under the presidency of the Rev. Thos. Brookes, superintendent minister, and the usual devotional exercises engaged in. In opening the conference Mr Brookes expressed his perfect sympathy with the union, and his pleasure in taking part in it, and after a few remarks on the need for some means of connecting the school and the church more closely, and of keeping their young people from wandering into the world; he called on Mr. Sugdon to open the subject of "Catechumen classes and Membership."

Mr. Sugden was heartily received and proceeded to lay down the necessity for closer connection between the school and the church, the advantages of catechumen classes as the missing link, and that such classes were of early origin. He also gave some valuable suggestions as to the character of the class and the leader, how they should be conducted, and of whom the class should be formed, urging on all the schools the need for such classes being at once commenced wherever practicable.

Remarks were also made on the subject, and suggestions thrown out by Messrs. Wice, Pollard, Crossland, Morton, and others, also by the Rev. W. G. Dawson. It was finally resolved, "That it is recommended by this meeting that all schools establish catechumen classes as soon as possible."

The conference then broke up, after singing and prayer.

Admirable arrangements had been made for providing tea in the schoolroom, where sixteen ladies presided at as many trays, and about 500 persons partook of a capital and varied tea from half-past four till after six o'clock.

About six o'clock the public meeting commenced when the old chapel was crowded from floor to ceiling.

The Rev. Thos. Brookes, having taken the chair, the 280th hymn was sung, after which prayer was offered.

The 445th hymn was next sung, after which Mr. Crosland read the report for the largest library in the Union, not excepting West Parade.

Mr. Sugden pressed on teachers the one aim of their labour, that of bringing the children into connection with the church, combating the idea that children should not become members. He also urged his hearers to study well what they were going to teach their scholars, and as education became more general and of a higher character, to get prepared for children who were well versed in secular information.

Mr. Braithwiate urged thoroughness of purpose as a means of success. Mr. Marrand, of Stanley, encouraging his fellow teachers in an eloquent speech. After the 428th hymn had been sung, the Rev. W. G. Dawson also felt the necessity for better preparation by the teacher; he did not think the church had done her duty to the Sunday School, but was glad that all the churches were now turning their attention to that important institution.

Mr. Skinner urged in addition to what had already been said, the need for perseverance, instancing Dr. Moffat as an example.

Mr. Pollard, of Wakefield, urged the beneficial results of visiting the scholars at their homes. Mr. Morton, of Rothwell, felt there was greater need of doctrinal teaching, and pointed to the action of other churches in this respect.

The chairman, who had frequently interspersed suitable remarks between the speeches, and had done a great deal to make the meeting a pleasant one, complimented the Rothwell friends on the excellent arrangements, especially for the tea, called on Mr. Nurse to propose a vote of thanks to the Committee and ladies who had so successfully provided for the tea and meetings. Mr. North, of Carlton, cordially seconded the motion, which was very heartily carried. In accepting the vote of thanks, Mr. Seanor said the friends were heartily welcome, and he hoped when they came again they would have a larger and more beautiful chapel to meet in. Mr. Seanor then proposed thanks to the chairman, which was seconded by Mr. Nurse, and very warmly carried. The meeting was then brought to a close.

LOCAL BOARD ELECTION.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

SIR—Will you allow me through the columns of the "Rothwell Times" the privilege of expressing my thanks to the electors of the district for the hearty support given to my candidature during the late election for the Local Board.

As my name heads the poll, I feel that some special acknowledgement is due from me to the electors for placing my name in so proud a position, and I beg hereby to tender my grateful thanks, also to those friends who so generously undertook to canvass for me, and those, too, who on conscientious grounds "object to canvassing," yet actively assisted me in other ways.

I am well aware that my friends desire me to prove my gratitude in a practical way by representing them with proper care in the Board-room, and I promise that I shall as far as lies in my power, give expression there to public opinion, which is so far as I have been able to understand it, for rigid economy where the public money is expended more especially during these hard times.

In private undertakings great caution is exercised just now. As regards incurring expense, my idea is that this principle should animate the members of the Local Board in their public capacity. It was on these grounds I took my stand in placing myself before the electors, and "I guess" the Liberal Association adopted me as their candidate because it was known I was favourable to greater economy with the public money.

The electors may rely upon it my voice will be raised against extravagance, at the same time I am in favour of progress and improvement where due caution and economy is exercised

On other and more general matters I shall at all times be glad to hear the opinion of the ratepayers, to listen to suggestions and even complaints on current topics, and where I can be of service in any detail, the public may command my attention in all matters in favour of the general good.

I remain,
Your obedient servant,
SQUIRE BRAMLEY.
Rothwell, April 1878.

EASTER.

Last Monday being 'Rothwell Feast' an unusually large number of strangers thronged the streets. There was the ordinary variety of swings, fly-boats, gingerbread and nut stalls, &c., which drove a pretty good trade. The Rothwell Model Prize Brass Band paraded the streets, and in the evening, played dance and other music in the Gillett Field.

EASTER AT ROTHWELL CHURCH.

The joyous season when we commemorate the Saviour's resurrection was suitably kept on Sunday last, when our fine old church was tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens, the handiwork of the ladies connected with the church. Appropriate sermons were preached morning and evening, by the Rev. H. S. King and the Vicar respectively, and large congregations thronged the church.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

To return to the old village inn, where the wedding party were getting very merry, and the evening was closing very fast, Dick volunteered to sing a song; the burden of it was—

"Oh merry is the time of a morning in spring,
When the flowers smell sweet, and the birds first sing,
Oh merry is the time when the farmer makes hay
But neither are so merry as a wedding day."

"That is varry true," said a little man in the opposite corner to the fiddler. "I hev heard my grandmother sing that song many a time, an ye may say what ye like, but we hev hed a merry time on it ta-day, I knaw. Play another tune," said he, addressing the fiddler.

that he had carried that same fiddler on horseback from Rothwell to Methley, and Tim (for he was the fiddler), did not know that the strange young man who sat beside of Dick was the soldier that carried the "girt long sword" he was so frghtened of, and Dick did not know that he sat so close to the only man in the world that he dreaded meeting.

What strange things happen in this world sometimes, and very often when we least expect them.

Had Dick and Tim known who Melville was when he first entered the room, they both would very likely have rushed out of the window into the churchyard and run home as fast as their legs could have carried them (and they were both very good runners, tradesmen in their line of business generally are), but they didn't know who he was just then. They were here at the convivial celebration of a wedding, and Melville would have given all his worldly treasure to have been at the celebration of his own.

While Tim then was scraping away on his four stringed instrument Melville thought it a good opportunity for making himself known to the dancing cobbler, so he said in a fictitious voice—

"If I remember rightly I have heard thee sing before."

"Thear's unlikelier things then that," answered Dick, "I've sung before lots a foakes as I suddent knaw agean."

"There is not the least doubt of it, and thy dancing I have admired in this village before," again spoke Melville.

"An that's varry likely," said Dick smiling at Melville's flattery of his personal accomplishments.

"I've done'd and sung at many a wedding before now, and I may happen her ta do so agean."

"I hope thou will," responded Melville, "but thou hast other accomplishments that thou art very clever at."

"If you mean that my trade is a 'complishment, as ye call it, I'll put a brussle in a waxend or hammer a soft piece a leather hard on my lapstone, or put a soile or a heel on a boit or a shoe as soon as onny man theear is e Rodill."

"I dare say thou can't, and thou art a very fair rider on horseback."

Dick now took a long pull at the pot of ale that was before him and then said,

"Owd Billy Tupshin has a donkey, and I hev tried to ride on his back many a time, but never could yet manidge it, for as sooin as he feels ye are on his back up goas his two back legs, and doan goes his girt thick heead, an if ye doan't mind ye goa ower top on it."

"Ha, ha," said Melville, laughing, "he is like thyself, a very artful customer, but thou cannot say that thou hast never ridden on horseback."

A late occurrence rushed into Dick's head and he began to sit in his seat very uneasy.

"I think I did once on Farmer Underwood's owd horse Dobbin wi' a seck of corn thro' t'owd watermill ta Leeds."

Melville thought it was of little use beating about the bush any longer, for Dick was as good a strangest as ever, so he said in his natural voice—

"But thou once rode on one of Farmer Underwood's horses with me to Methley."

Dick's eyes were now opened in an instant and had a thousand cannons gone off altogether they could not have frightened him any more than he was when he heard these words, he could not have jumped up quicker had he been sat on a wasp's nest. He was making for the door but Melville caught him and whispered in his ear.

"That night's work is forgotten, I am thy friend."

Dick looked over his shoulder, and seemed afraid to believe these assuring words.

At this juncture all eyes were turned towards them, they both sat down again. Suspicious and eager glances were cast at Melville. A great many of the company would have done anything for their chief entertainer had rude hands been laid upon him, but as he and Melville appeared now to understand and to have recognised each other they did not interfere.

It was now very late in the evening. The fiddler's arm was tired, and some mischievous, unmusical wretch, had greased the strings of his instrument with a candle. The merry topers began to disperse; the antideluvian laminaries were nearly out, the ale-pots were empty and the landlord refused to refill them again, so after a little while Melville and Dick were left in the room alone.

Holloway's Pills.—Stomach, Liver, and Bowels.—There is nothing hurtful in the composition of these purifying Pills.—Nothing that can injure the most delicate constitutions. They improve the appetite quicken the energies of the stomach and livor, and regulate the bowels. They thus become the surest safeguards against indigestion, and the surest promoters of the body's growth and the mind's developement. Holloway's Pills exert a wholesome alterative and tonic action on every internal organ, and they regulate every disordered or debilitated function. They are natural, and thereforere efficent purifiers and correctives. Few unhealthy conditions of the stomach or digestive apparatus can withstand the accumulative healthy influence obtained over the whole frame when these pills are judiciously and perseveringly taken by invalids.

From DR. B. J. BOULTON & Co., Horncastle.
We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direc Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this grea advantage over all other Sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after-effects.
"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, 1st December 1864.
CAUTION.—BEWARE of PIRACY and IMITATIONS.
CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, FREEMAN, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July 1864.
Sold in Bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevent degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to and returning from the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

IN THE
WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT,
OF

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes

JURORS' AWARDS.
By the following extract it will be seen that, in addition to the Medals awarded in 1862, TWO FIRMS ONLY IN GREAT BRITAIN were selected by the Musical Jurors for special distinction.
See Jurors' Report, Class xvi., page 4.
"In making the awards for the Pianofortes, the Jury have felt a difficulty arise from the Medals being all of the same value, which compels them to award apparently the same degree of honour to any merit shown by a small maker that they would to the most successful performance of the first manufacturers in Europe. The rules established by the Commissioners do not warrant any special awards being given; but the Jury consider they will not be exceeding their powers in placing certain makers at the head of their head list. The makers whom the Jury wish thus to distinguish are:—
"For Great Britain—
"BROADWOOD AND HOPKINSON."

AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION IN 1867
after a careful examination of the Grand Pianofortes (during which the names of the makers were not known) THREE INSTRUMENTS WERE SELECTED BY THE JURORS AS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, and one of the three thus honoured was by
J. & J. HOPKINSON.
At the Exhibition held in Dublin in 1865, the first Pianofortes decided upon by the Jurors for a PRIZE MEDAL were those by Opening of Rothwell Board School.

The third school under the Rothwell School Board was opened on Monday last, in the Wesleyan school-room, when a number of parents attended with their children. The room and class-rooms have been let to the Board temporarily, until the new schools are built in Carlton Lane. The Board has fitted up the room with a complete set out of new desks, cupboards, maps, books, slates, &c., and the education of the children is under the care of Mr. J. B. Whicker, late of Waterloo school, and Miss Jowitt, of the Rothwell Haigh Infants' School. Shortly after nine o'clock on Monday morning the proceedings were commenced by the singing of a hymn, after which the Rev. G. Heberden offered a short prayer asking the Divine blessing on the school, and the instruction which should be given. The chairman of the Board, Mr. W. Hargreaves, addressed the parents and scholars present, urging regular attendance at school, and there are now two schools. He pressed on them the folly of changing from one school to another, and neither benefitting the managers nor themselves. If they decided to come to the Board school they were welcome to do so; if they decided on the National schools let them go, and remain; which ever school they fixed on, let them continue at that school. This would not only benefit themselves, but also the ratepayers. As there are now such opportunities offered, no one could have an excuse for not having their children educated, and he trusted every one would take advantage of them.

The Vicar quite coincided with the chairman in his remarks on the advantages now offered in Rothwell, and also on the necessity of regular attendance. They had an excellent school-room here, and he trusted they would use it well. He further urged punctual attendance at 9 o'clock, in order to get the benefit of the scripture lesson given during the first hour of the day. He hoped the children would learn all they could now, for "the child is the father of the man," and he longed to see Rothwell growing and improving. He concluded by reminding them of the Saviour's words, "one thing is needful" and trusted they would learn to love the Bible and its teachings.

Mr. James Batty followed with some good advice to the parents to send their children early and cleanly. Agreeing with what had previously been said, he reminded the scholars that there is no royal road to learning. He hoped by and by they would have new schools to go to, and trusted that with all the advantages we now possess a new era was commencing for Rothwell.

Mr. James Hargreaves was also present and several other gentlemen.

The Chairman, in declaring the school open, trusted the Board would have no necessity for putting the compulsory powers into effect, and that every parent would see to it that their children were educated.

The school was then declared open, and 66 children were enrolled, which during the week has increased to 92.

Rothwell Local Board Meeting.

On Monday the usual fortnightly meeting of the Local Board was held — present, J. Charlesworth, Esq. (chairman), Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, Smith, Hargreaves, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes and the clerk, medical officer, treasurer and surveyor.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The Waterworks Committee had had several long and important meetings at which considerable progress was made with the details connected with the reservoir making, and other matters. It had been found that the clay offered by Mr. Bramley was not suitable for puddling, and that offered by Lord Stourton was very satisfactory to the engineer, Mr. Filleter. The leading of the clay is let to Mr. Wm. Bulmer.

Mr. Charlesworth, before proceeding with the ordinary business, returned thanks to the members of the Board for electing him to the chair for the sixth time, and had no doubt that the present Board would follow the example of the late one, and use every endeavour for the welfare of the ratepayers. He heartily thanked the Board for so unanimously electing him.

The medical officer presented his monthly report, shewing 11 deaths and 18 births; 7 boys and 11 girls. Seven of the deaths were from lung affections.

Referring to the rate for the corresponding month last year, it appears there were 20 births and 7 deaths. The health of the district might be considered healthy, as most of the sickness arises from the nature of climate, producing colds, &c. Some conversation also took place on several deaths of which the cause was not definitely stated.

Several loads of bricks having been delivered by Mr. Morris. which were not considered suitable for the reservoir, and not according to sample; it was proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Holmes, and carried, that a letter be written to Mr. Morris stating that should the next bricks sent be not according to sample, they would lie at his risk.

The medical officer having again referred to the unsatisfactory condition of the drains &c., at Royd's Green; it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried, that the Sanitary Committee visit Royd's Green, and inspect its condition as regards drainage, &c.

It was stated that in one place the sewage water found its way into a well.

In relation to the proposed supply of water to Lower Goslam, Messrs. Cochrane, Grove and Co. state their willingness to supply 3-inch pipes at the same rate as the contract, and their offer was accepted.

Mr. Jowitt asked 1s. 6d. per yard for laying, which the Board considered very much too high, and it was resolved on the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley, that his tender be not accepted, Mr. Bramley thinking there were plenty of men out of work who would be glad of a job.

The same proposer and seconder accordingly moved, that Mr. Wright and Mr. Hammond be asked to tender for the laying of the pipes, with a lead pipe and tap or guard to the end of Archdale's house, the Board finding the pipes only. Carried.

The Clerk of Works appointed seems to be giving general satisfaction. The Surveyor was granted a cheque for £12 for wages in connection with the clay getting, &c.

The question of laying pipes in Carlton Lane was seriously considered, and after discussion, it was deemed advisable to wait until the water scheme, as laid down is nearer completion; at the same time it was acknowledged that water was greatly needed.

Mr. J. Hargreaves also asked whether it would not be well to make provision for a water main on Spitey Land. Several other unprovided roads were mentioned, and it was eventually agreed to leave the matter for the Waterworks Committee to consider.

A circular letter from the new Shore Board was read enclosing copy of a resolution which the clerk was desired to submit to the Rothwell Board, petitioning the Government for an alteration in the present mode of electing members to the Local Boards, by substituting the ballot or some other means. The expense of election by ballot on the Rothwell School Board was stated to be £36, while the Local Board election only cost £15 It was proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves, "That the Board considers the present mode of election the most economical."

Mr. W. Hargreaves proposed and Mr. Holmes seconded, "That the new Committee to carry out the naming of streets, and numbering of houses consist of Messrs. Smith, Lunn, Greenwood, and Bramley." Carried.

A discussion ensued on the state of the Wood lane causeway, and after a spirited debate the subject dropped.

A resolution was passed "That the Corporation be asked when they anticipate being able to take the Stourton seWage." Further steps in the matter will be taken by the Public Works Committee.

ENTERTAINMENT AT ROBIN HOOD. — On Monday evening a social entertainment was given at Robin Hood, in the Methodist Free Church School Room by several gentlemen amateurs from Scarboro'. The programme included songs, recitations and addresses on temperance. Mr. D. Duckworth, of Leeds presided and there was a good audience. The gratuitous services of the gentlemen gave great satisfaction.

THE CUCKOO was heard for the first time in the neighbourhood by several persons, being a few days later than last year.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. Impurities of the Blood. To ensure health it is absolutely necessary that the fluids and solids of the human body should be kept free from those impurities which are continually getting admission into the system by erroneous living, unwholesome atmosphere, or disordered stomach. The only safe and certain way to expel all impurities is to take Holloway's Pills, which have the power of cleansing the blood from all noxious matters, and at the same time removing any irregularities which their presence may have already produced in any organ. Holloway's Pills expel all humours which taint or impoverish the blood, which they purify and invigorate and give general tone. They are applicable to all alike—young or old, robust or delicate

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Last night Mr. Chamberlain postponed his question as to the movement of the Indian troops.

Mr. Fawcett gave notice that on the Supplementary Estimate in respect of these troops being brought forward, he should move a resolution disapproving of the removal of the troops without the Government having first communicated their intention to Parliament.

The President of the Board of Trade, (Mr. Sclater Booth), in reply to Mr. Tennant, said the Rivers Pollution Prevention Act was put into operation by the local authorities, and not by the Local Government Board.

Col. Stanley, in reply to Sir Geo. Campbell, stated that the cost of the military forces employed in repressing the outbreak at the Cape would be paid by the Colonial Government.

On the order for the third reading of the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill, Mr Ritchie moved an amendment in favour of establishing a difference of 2s. per lb. between the duty on unmanufactured tobacco and cigars, instead of 1s. 10d. as provided by the Bill.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer opposed the amendment.

On a division, 82 voted for and 184 against the proposal, which was therefore lost.

Mr. Dillwyn moved the adjournment of the debate, and after some discussion, the amendment was negatived on a division, 85 voting for and 170 against it.

Mr. Vivian then moved the adjournment of the House, which after some discussion was withdrawn, on the Chancellor of the Exchequer assenting to an adjournment of the debate.

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD.

A Special Meeting of the School Board was held on Friday,—present, Mr. W. Hargreaves, (chairman), Messrs. Seanor, J. Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the Clerk.

Mr. Richardson attended with several sketches of plans for the new schools at Rothwell, which gave general satisfaction.

One elevation was fixed upon, on an L shape with the master's house facing Carlton Lane A long discussion ensued on several matters of detail, and the following resolutions proposed.

Proposed by the Chairman—That the school-room be planned to allowed 10 feet per child. Mr. Jewison seconded

Mr. Seanor proposed as an amendment—That 11 feet per child be allowed; seconded by Mr. James Hargreaves.

On being put only Mr. Seanor and Mr. Jas. Hargreaves voted for the amendment, while the resolution was carried by the Chairman, Mr. Jewison and Mr. Batty.

On the motion of Mr. Seanor, seconded by J. Hargreaves, it was unanimously agreed —That the mixed school be planned to accommodate 150 boys and girls, and the infants school 100 children.

Several alterations and suggestions were made for the architect's guidance, and he was instructed to proceed with plans of the elevations, sections, &c., and specifications of work required, and submit to the Board when completed.

The Draft Agreement was read between Messrs. Mawson and the Board as to the conveyance of land to be used at the school site, and after consideration, it was returned with certain alterations.

SANGER'S CIRCUS.

Last Saturday the whole town was on the qui vive, as it had been announced for a week or more that the great Hippodrome belonging to Messrs. Sanger and Son, would visit the town on that day. Shortly after one o'clock the procession formed in Butcher Lane, headed by their band in their carriage, followed by the trained horses, male and female eqnestrians, clowns, &c., all dressed in flashy colours, and many shaded costumes. Five elephants demurely walked next, closely followed by the camels and zebras, after which came the six-in-hand carriage, the magnificent trophy carriage with a lady seated on the pinnacle representing Britannia, and other splendidly gilded carriages. These all passed round the town, down Butcher Lane, through Commercial Street, up Marsh Road to the temporary circus tent, put up in a field, held by Mr. Barraclough, in Carlton Lane. An afternoon performance was given at three o'clock which was attended by a someweat small company, but in the evening the large circus was well filled and highly delighted with the many daring and interesting exploits performed by the several actors, as well as by the remarkable instinct and training evinced by the ponies and horses. We have no doubt the managers of the circus were well satisfied with the result of their visit to Rothwell. By seven o'clock on Monday morning, every vestige of the circus was cleared away.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO A CAVALRYMAN AT ABERFORD.

On Tuesday afternoon an accident which terminated fatally befel Private Cox, of the 17th Lancers stationed at Leeds. Cox, who was on a visit to Aberford, was riding a young horse belonging a butcher in the village, which was intended for cavalry purposes, and when about a mile from Aberford, he by some means fell off, fractured his skull, and die din a very short time.

ASSAULTING AN M.D.

John Abbot Smith, Barley Fields, Wetherby, was summoned by Mr. Wesley, M.D., on a charge of assault. The evidence was to the effect that on Sunday night last, while the complainant was whistling for his cousin, the defendant, who lived next door, came up to him and asked him if he was whistling "for his —— dog?" Some words ensued between the parties, and it was alleged that the defendant shook the doctor by the collar, knocked off his hat, and otherwise abused him. A fine of 10s. and costs was imposed.

SHERBURN.

PETTY SESSIONS,

UNSOUND BACON.

George Atkinson, a grocer, of Sherburn, was charged by Mr. Millar, Inspector of Nuisances, with having exposed for sale in his shop a shoulder of bacon which was unsound and diseased. The bacon had been seized by the inspector and taken to the Medical Officer of Health, who had condemned it as quite unfit for food. Both these officers gave evidence to this effect.

The defendant said he had no knowledge of the condition of the bacon, which he had bought along with a large quantity of hams and bacon from a firm at Castleford, and by his arrangement with this firm, he had power to return any of their goods which were in the least tainted, and he argued that he could not therefore have any interest in selling provisions which he knew to be unfit for food.

The magistrates considered the case proved, and fined him £1 and costs.

AN APPRENTICESHIP DISPUTE.

Cross summonses were heard together by one of which Mr. Jabez Birdsall, a wheelwright, of Church Fenton, charged his apprentice, William Walton, with having left his service, and by the other summons William Walton sued his master for £2 damages for neglecting to provide him with sufficient food.

Mr. Ayre, of Harrogate, appeared for the appentice, and Mr. Husband, of York, for the master.

It was not denied that the apprentice had quitted his master's service, and remained away about ten days, but it was contended that he had a just cause for leaving. The indenture of apprenticeship required the master to teach the trade of a joiner and wheelwright, and Mr. Ayre argued that he had not done so, but had employed his apprentice in felling and hauling timber, in foddering the cow and horses, and cleaning shoes, none of which services the apprentice leaving arose in connection with the foddering of the cow. The master ordered the apprentice to fetch some turnips for it as soon as the rain had abated. The master directed him to go at once, and on his refusal to do so, he struck him in the chest, and pushed him out of the cow-house. He also refused to give him any tea until the turnips had been fetched, and in consequence the apprentice went to bed without tea or supper. Next day he returned home to his parents. Several other points of dispute were introduced into the case, which occupied a long time in hearing. Ultimately the justices made an order directing the apprentice to return to his service, and dismissed his summons against his master.

Notice of appeal was given against this decision.

GAME TRESPASSES.

Matthew Wadsworth, an old offender, living at Brotherton, was fined £1 and costs for trespassing with a dog and gun on land belonging to Sir John Ramsden at Brotherton, and George Wrightson, of Church Fenton, was fined £1 and costs for using a snare for taking game on land over which the right of shooting is rented by Mr. Collins, of Huddersfield.

ASSAULT.

A miner named Mason, of Castleford was convicted for assaulting a married woman, Mrs. Wright, of Newton near Ledsham. She was returning home with two or three friends from Castleford, where she had been marketing. The defendant without any provocation, rushed upon her friends, and after abusing them, he struck Mrs. Wright violently on the arm and in the face, and caused her great pain for two or three days. A fine of £1 and costs was inflicted.

A FARMER FINED FOR CRUELTY TO A HORSE.

Mr. Wainman, farmer, Ingmanthorpe, was summoned by Inspector Maidment, of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for causing two horses, his property, to be worked while they were in an unfit state, by reason of sores. Two servants of Mr. Wainman were also charged with working the animals. The evidence having been heard, the Bench inflicted a fine of £1 on Mr. Wainman, but dismissed the summons against his men.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

CHAPTER XI.

What a trying sensation to a man is fear, and it sometimes happens that the simplest thing will tend to temporarily frighten him; for instance, if he should be walking by himself on a lonely road on a dark night, and if his nerves are easily affected his sense of hearing is very acute, and any unusual sound, such as a poor bird suddenly fluttering from its nest close by his side in the hedge will cause his flesh to creep, and his hair to lift up for a short time

And there is also a partial fear which causes disaffection in a man's mind; for instance, a man with weak nerves, even in the twilight, walking on a lonely and unfrequented road by himself may fancy that he sees a peculiar object in the hedge or wayside, still he walks on half afraid towards it, and it may perhaps turn out to be the stump of an old tree or some other familiar thing that has partially frightened him.

Now Dick was subject to partial fear when he and Melville were alone together. He was quite uncertain as to Melville's intentions towards him, but still by Melville's free and open manner he was rather inclined to think him sincere.

"With thy permission, I will again meet thee at thy house to-morrow evening," began Melville.

"Varry weel, but come a bit sooiner then ye once did, say at eight o'clock, an then I will tell ye summat at will happen please ye."

Melville eagerly accepted the time appointed, as the open daylight did not yet suit his purpose. the poor honest cobbler was very tired with so much extra exertion so they now parted good friends. Dick to his house near the old Market Cross, and Melville after a few words with the landlord to whom he was no stranger, retired to his old fashioned room upstairs where he had slept a little more than twelve months before.

During the time that passed between that memorable night at the roadside inn at Methley, and the singular meeting of Melville and Dick again, the latter individual's house had undergone a change for the better.

The hole in the chamber boards was the only exception. Dick kept it intact as a memento of a certain occasion, with which the reader is already acquainted.

The rush bottommed chairs had been repaired, and a few more had been bought with part of the contents of Melville's purse, which he threw into Dick's apron on his second visit. The three legg'd table stood very much firmer, Dick would not part with that useful piece of furniture. He said it once belonged to his grandmother, "who lived till shoo wor ninety yeear owd."

All his cracked pots had been thrown into the street, and some good sound whole ones the now shining corner cupboard could boast of, as for a tea or coffee pot neither Dick nor the cupboard had the least idea imaginable what such things were. The old rickety bedstead had been repaired and so had Teddy Rustynail's boots, for the village cobbler and the village carpenter had arranged a little bargain between themselves that had proved beneficial to both the boots and the bedstead.

The next day after Melville's arrival at the "Black Swan" passed very slowly away. Very early in the morning he was out of bed, and looking from his chamber window he could see into the churchyard, the sexton was digging a grave, and Melville could plainly hear him singing—

When from the body parts the soul
In mournful time my bell I toll,
For all must leave this world of strife,
The loving husband and tender wife.
The strong, the weak, the brave the bold,
Must come to this when my bell I've toll'd
For deep is the grave, the churchyard's wide
Where young and old sleep side by side.

"Thou singest a very mournful song," said Melville, who had already left his bedroom, and was standing by the side of the grave that the old sexton was digging.

"Hey, that I do," answered the sexton, standing upright and looking up at the speaker with one foot on his spade and both arms resting on the handle, "mine is but a mournful trade. My work is not for the dead, and yet my own living depends upon the dead. We all very much resemble yonder lark that is now soaring up to the bright morning sky; we are born, we gradually rise as it were to a certain height then we descend, and sometimes like that sprightly bird very quickly to mother earth again."

"Thou art right," answered Melville, "but thou hast taken a very solemn view of the short time that is allotted out to us in this world. That bird we now see and hear appears to rejoice and make merry even by himself, he seems to enjoy his life."

"Hey that he does, but he is young and strong like thyself; I am old and take an old man's view of the things of this life," and the sexton begun digging away, and again singing—

Hey' hey, ho? when this grave I have dug,
I will then quench my thirst from my old brown jug;
Let me live while I live, let me die like the brave
Then I will sleep with my flock in my churchyard grave.

We will now leave the sexton working hard at his very necessary occupation.

Melville kept close quarters all the day, he wondered in his own mind what Dick had in store for him "I will tell ye summat that will happen please ye," were very encouraging words the humble workman had uttered the night before what the meaning of them were he could not yet tell; how slow that old clock doth go round thought he, it is only seven o'clock another weary hour then I may perhaps hear som-thin that I hope may please me.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are securities of health to all nations, of whatever clime. They have given hope relief, and comfort to millions. In irritation and debility, generated by excesses of any kind, or in general prostration of the system, their effect is rapidly soothing, renovating, and restorative. They rapidly drive from the system the morbid cause of ailment, and renew in the frame its pristine animation, health, and vigour. They greatly increase the appetite, give tone to the stomach, assist the digestion, and impart elasticity to the spirits; their essence enters the circulation and, carried through its course, exerts its cleansing power over every organ. In the lungs they affect most striking changes, converting the impure venous into pure arterial blood, by which the whole frame is recruited.

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL AT PRESTON.

The Attorney-General, replying to a toast at a dinner given on Saturday on the occasion of the opening of a second Working Men's Conservative Club at Preston, said he hoped to bring in a satisfactory Bill during the session to settle the question of the liability of employers for injuries sustained by their workmen. He said—

A good deal of discussion had ensued on the point, and because the Bill did not meet with approval, the action of the House of Commons had been censured by many newspapers. Supposing the owner of a mine had imposed the most stringent regulations, and had done all he could to prevent accidents, and yet a working man, disregarding those regulations, went down into the mine with a lighted candle instead of with a safety lamp, was it reasonable to suppose that the master should be wholly responsible, and be fined to the last sixpence? ("No, no.") Such a responsibility he maintained was not just, and he did not think a Bill like that should be passed. He did not deny, on that account, that there were not obstacles that should be removed, and that some legislation was necessary in this respect between master and servant.

In speaking on the Eastern Question, the Attorney-General said it was a most important question—none more so, and was engaging the most serious attention of the Government and of the country. Yet was it a most simple question. Putting aside all declamation on the subject, the real point at issue was this:—A war, in his humble opinion—and he would say so at the risk of getting a wigging (laughter)—a most unjust war, had been waged by Russia against Turkey (cheers); and Russia had been victorious. Well, Russia had entered into a preliminary treaty—called the Treaty of San Stefano—with Turkey, and the real question to consider, and the real point at issue between them and their Radical friends, was whether that treaty should, as it stood, be accepted without objection or not. ("No.") All along the Government had said, although they would not go to war for Turkey, yet would not allow British interests to be imperilled. (Applause.) He, for his part would have wished that the declaration of this country had been to Russia, "If you, Russia, put a single soldier across the Pruth, we will declare war against you." (Cheers.) But one could not have always what he wished, and wiser heads than his had come to the conclusion that such could not be in consequence of the feelings raised in the country by Mr. Gladstone and his followers. The Government did not take the line of the conduct he would have wished, but, although they did say that the Turkish government was bad, could not be supported, and that they could not go to war at any rate in support of it, yet they would not allow the interests of England and of Europe to be imperilled by Russia having the command of the Dardanelles, the Bosphorus, and Constantinople, whatever Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Bright, Lord Hartington, and others might say to the contrary. (Applause.) By the Treaty of San Stefano, if accepted as a whole, the whole line of the Danube would be in the power of Russia, who might at any moment pounce upon Turkey and make her her vassal; and what would then become of British interests? He maintained that it was essential for the protection of British interests to protest against this Treaty of San Stefano as it stood. Of course, if Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Bright, and others of their views had been in power, war might not have been thought necessary, because those hon. gentlemen believed that Russia was in the right, and that Russia should have her own way; and Russia, on her side, would naturally fall in with their way of thinking. But the present Government thought otherwise, and by its determined action would, he thought, prevent there being any war at all, because Russia would come to the conclusion that it would be right and proper and most expedient to agree to enter into a Conference, and thus matters might be amicably settled. The object of Russia was to alter the Treaty of 1856 and give the go-by to the Treaty of 1871; but that could not be, and all the signatory Powers to that treaty must have a word in the matter. It was time that Russia, that great despotic Power, should be convinced that Great Britain was no longer to be trifled with, and that the safety of Europe must not be endangered. (Applause.)

PROMISING CHILDREN.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)

The question is often pertinently asked, "what becomes of all the promising children?" but it is seldom that a satisfactory answer is forthcoming. It does appear strange that so many boys and girls who astonish us by their bright sayings, by their early proficiency, by their acute perceptions, and even by their profundity of thought, should grow up into very ordinary men and women, distinguished for nothing in particular, and certainly fulfilling none of the promises which their early youth so plentifully afforded.

Of course, no single cause is sufficient to explain this phenomenon, but among those which combine to produce it, none is more conducive than the general lack of power to render the faculties obedient to the will. When this power is feeble the most brilliant parts, the most fertile imagination, the most keen perceptions, the greatest fluency of language, will not save their possessor from finally sinking into insignificance. For a time these qualities will sparkle on the surface and dazzle many eyes. In childhood, especially, where we do not expect any great strength of will or power of concentration, we are strongly attracted by the marks of what we fondly call genius, and look forward with happy assurance to the time when they will develop into manly and womanly superiority. But when life's exigencies arrive, and the demand is made for accurate knowledge, sound judgment, and steady purpose, these hopes are often sadly disappointed; the lustre which illuminated childhood has faded, and the power which should support manhood does not take its place.

It does not, however, follow that such an issue is necessary; that brilliant qualities are destined to an early grave, unless nature has conferred a proportionate strength of will-power to balance them. The will is as amenable to culture as any human power. Continually exercised, it grows strong; lying dormant, it sinks into feebleness. True, in some natures, the tendency to use it is greater than in others, but even then it more often takes the form of controlling and subjecting other people than our own faculties. And as the task of cultivating such a habit in children is one of great difficulty, requiring both wisdom and delicate perception in the teacher, and not being followed by immediate or palpable results, it is, perhaps, not surprising that it is so frequently neglected. In the case of promising children, especially, there is a general indisposition to give the requisite discipline to develop this self-control. They are flattered and admired, instead of being guided and trained, and they naturally learn to believe that nature has been so bountiful to them that she has left them but little to do for themselves. Thus they grow up without the habit of concentrating their minds earnestly upon any one subject, and their talents, thus undisciplined, fail to fulfil the splendid promises they have made.

The most difficult and the most valuable step in all education is to acquire this habitual control over the faculties. All knowledge, however comprehensive, all talents, however attractive, must yield in importance to this one power. When the will exerts complete authority over the mind, and can oblige it to bring its whole energies to bear upon a single subject as long as is needful, the chief work of education is accomplished. Only constant and habitual effort can confer this power. The discipline should be commenced at a very early age. Close attention should be required for short periods, but frequently to subjects suited to the age and comprehension. They should be made as interesting as possible, and always limited, to prevent the possibility of weariness, but during the time the mind should not be suffered to wander nor the attention to flag. Gradually this effort should be transferred from the teacher to the taught, and the latter, with every fresh experience of his own power over himself, would have an increasing desire to exercise it. If this were done systematically, and discreetly, the habit of mental control would be insensibly acquired, and one of the chief difficulties in education would be removed.

There are other less direct means by which this culture of the will can be aided. Physical health is one of its primary necessities. Indisposition weakens all the faculties, and is fatal to will-power. Therefore, rigid obedience to the laws of the body is essential. Exercise, air, sleep, regular habits and moderation must be constantly observed, and everything which tends even slightly to derange the physical functions must be avoided. The practice of carrying out every resolution instead of being driven from it by self-indulgence and trifling obstacles is most important. It is so much easier to yield than to resist, to drift than to stem the current, that continual watchfulness is needed to prevent it. Punctuality is an important ally in this work. To do everything at the time allotted for it, to keep all engagements strictly, to systematize work and recreation, so that neither shall intrench on the province of the other, necessitate repeated action of the will and strengthen its authority. It is in youth that all these habits can most easily be formed and the power of self-government acquired. Early training should make this object pre-eminent, even at the sacrifice of much that is more showy and attractive.

THE POULTRY YARD.

The food supply is a matter of no small importance in the management of a poultry yard, and it should be constantly borne in mind that it is a very easy matter to incur a serious loss annually, where a good number of fowls are kept, by injudicious feeding. Speaking in a general way it may be said that poultry of all kinds should have a sufficiency of food without being over fed. If the birds are kept in a state of semi-starvation as they very often are, the hens lay comparatively speaking but few eggs, and those intended for killing become so attenuated that a very considerable outlay is necessary before they can be brought into proper condition for the table, and when there they lack the tenderness and delicacy characteristic of birds that have been well fed from the first, for when they are kept on short commons for a considerable period, and then highly fed they take on a lot of fat which is more or less objectionable, and represents so much waste. To feed too liberally is wasteful, and in the case of laying hens decidedly objectionable, for a hen when it becomes very fat ceases to lay freely, and is subject to ailments from which others less highly fed enjoy an immunity, and an over fed cock becomes lazy and subject to death from apoplexy. The happy medium is to give sufficient food to maintain the birds in good condition without their laying on much fat. To do this some amount of observation on the part of the manager of the yard is necessary as no specific directions can be given; but as a guide to the inexperienced it may be said that full grown fowls should have just as much as they will readily eat and no more, for when the supply of food is such that a portion is left upon the ground after a meal the waste is very great. Barley either whole or in the ground state contains a good proportion of flesh forming substances than most other grain, and is economical either alone or in combination with other food. Oats and oatmeal are very rich in flesh and fat forming substances, and are of especial value for feeding purposes in fattening for the table. Indian Corn or Maize is perhaps one of the most economical foods for poultry, and is of special value in the neighbourhood of towns as owing to the large size of the corn the sparrows which may be seen in such numbers hovering about the yards in suburban districts cannot swallow it and are consequently unable to rob the fowls of their food as they do to a very considerable extent when oats and barley are used. Corn and meal should as a matter of course be largely supplemented by the "scraps" from the kitchen, and where fowls are kept a vessel of some kind should be kept ready to hand, in a cool place to receive them so that there may be no waste. Pieces of bread, potatoes, and in fact vegetables of all kind may be utilized, and scraps of meat chopped up rather small are of great value in feeding fowls shut up in small yards, when they are unable to obtain worms and insects, which form an important portion of their food when they can range over the fields. Potatoes well boiled, and mixed with sufficient coarse pollard or bran, when scalded to form a rather stiff paste, are useful for helping out the corn, and when there is a surplus they can be turned to good account in the poultry yard. As a rule fowls kept entirely in enclosed yards should have three meals a day: the first to consist of soft food, prepared by the admixture of boiled potatoes, kitchen scraps, bran or pollard, and barley or oatmeal, and for the other two meals corn of some kind is decidedly preferable. The soft food should be put into a trough with a rail across the top, and during the winter it will be all the better if it is mixed over night and placed in an oven, so that it may be in a nice warm state in the morning. The preparation of soft food is undoubtedly attended with considerable trouble, and those who have but little time to devote to the management of the poultry, should feed entirely with Indian corn. A constant supply of fresh clean water is essential, and a moderate quantity of green food, such as cauliflower, cabbage, lettuce, and broccoli leaves and turnip tops should be thrown into the yard daily, otherwise it will be difficult to keep the occupants in a thoroughly healthy condition.—Gardener's Magazine.

DISCOVERY OF HUMAN REMAINS IN LONDON.

Excavations have for some time been in progress to prepare for the building of some new houses and places of business on the site of an ancient block of property at the corner of Spital-square, Bishopsgate, and during last week the workmen engaged have discovered two skeletons which had manifestly been buried on the spot where they were found. This is the second discovery of the kind which has been made during the progress of the works in question, a similar skeleton having been found about a fortnight ago, enclosed in brick, of the old Roman make, 2in. in thickness. The relative positions of those last discovered would seem to indicate that the coffins, if any, in which the bodies were buried were placed the one across the other, the skeletons being found in that position, one with the head to the north and the feet to the south, and the other lying east and west. On the crown of one of the skeletons there is a round hole about an inch in diameter, and on the space on each side two ancient vessels were likewise found, one in the form of a small basin, and the other resembling a jar or tankard. The remains were found bricked over by an arch or vaulted roof, about 2ft. above the skeletons themselves. The old buildings which have been taken down to clear the ground were wooden structures, and stood upon the site which was formerly the old "Bishop's gate." As the new buildings are only being erected in sections, and as there are still further portions of the old structures to be demolished, it is not improbable that in the course of the excavation still more of these remains will be found.

THE OYSTER FISHERIES OF FRANCE.

Mr. James Hayes, Inspector of Irish Fisheries, has made a report on the principal Oyster Fisheries of France. The following are his concluding observations:—

Of the ten places which I visited, four—viz., Courseulles sur Mer, Les Sables D'Olonne, Marennes, and La Tremblade are used simply for rearing and fattening purposes. There remain, therefore, but six which may be properly regarded as places of reproduction—viz., Granville, Cancale, Auray, Vannes, Ile D'Oleron, and Arcachon. Of these Granville, as I have stated before, is I fear in a hopelessly bad condition. Cancale although producing a considerable number of oysters, cannot be considered as thriving, being at present very far behind its former productiveness. Vannes, although giving good promise of a great future, has not yet made sufficient progress to warrant any very decided opinion upon it, and Ile D'Oleron has not yet attained the character of an important oyster-producing quartier. This reduces the number of really thriving important oyster-producing fisheries to two, viz., Auray and Arcachon, both of which have much increased in importance within the last few years. In endeavouring to account for this improved state of things, I will try to avoid all theoretical opinions on the subject, and confine myself to what, as far as I could learn, is the prevailing belief of those best able to judge in the localities. The first object of the authorities both at Auray and Arcachon appears to be to secure that on all the public beds an abundant stock of oysters of all sizes should be kept. This is fully shown at both places by the very limited time during which public fishing has been permitted, and as far as I could judge it appeared to me that in proportion as this time has been limited, production has increased. It should be observed that at Arcachon the great increase in production has taken place in the last three or four years, and although severe restrictions prevailed before, it was not until 1869-70 that they became very stringent, and since then the time for fishing has been again considerably reduced, so much so that during the whole of the last eight years only seven hours' fishing has been permitted in the Bay of Arcachon. Besides this, it is evident that those charged with the administration of the fisheries attach great importance to the retention on the beds of all oysters which have not attained the 5 centimetre (2-inch size), as is shown by the strict enforcement of the rule, prohibiting the export of oysters under that size, especially from Arcachon, whether produced on the public beds, or on the concessions held by private individuals. But, supposing that the rules which have been so rigidly enforced by the State had been ever so successful, the public would not have derived by any means the amount of benefit which they have done, but for the enterprise of private individuals, who encouraged by the action of the State in stocking and protecting the public beds, have not hesitated to embark large sums of money in oyster culture. This report shows that whilst the public fisheries produced to the dredgers at Auray in 1877, 15,601,300 oysters, the private concessionaires managed to secure no less than 101,735,9 0 of spat upon their 3,139,550 tiles; and at Arachon, whilst the public beds in the same year produced 22,000,000 oysters, the produce of the tiles (between four and five millions) must have been enormous, 200,000,000 having been exported in that year, whilst the spat secured upon the tiles is supposed to be at least double that number. This shows that most of the great quantity captured, and which will eventually be consumed by the public, would have been lost but for the efforts of private individuals, who, supplementing the exertions of the Government, and engaging in the business of oyster culture, have secured this immense supply. At the different places which I visited, and where spat was produced, the amount appeared to me to be very much in proportion to the stock of oysters upon the public beds; thus, at Vannes there was less per tile than at Auray—at Auray less than at Arcachon—and at the latter place, as well as I could form an opinion by the few casts of the dredge made in my presence, there appeared to me to be a much greater stock of oysters upon the beds than at Auray. In my opinion, therefore, I should regard it as essential that—to succeed in reproduction to any appreciable extent—the breeding grounds should be kept fully stocked, and on no account should oysters under two inches in size be allowed to be removed. It is generally admitted that for successful oyster culture, it is necessary that localities should be selected possessing certain conditions of soil, &c. Without going into this matter, however, it is incumbent upon me to draw attention to the fact that the fisheries at Auray, Vannes, Ile D'Oleron, and Arcachon, are to a certain extent enclosed, and sheltered from the violence of the sea, and further that in three out of the four, viz., Auray, Vannes, and Arcachon, they are so placed as to be completely under the control of the authorities, who are thus enabled to secure thorough protection, and strict observance of the laws. With regard to the points to which my attention was specially directed by the Government, viz., "to obtaining information likely to be practically applicable to Ireland, and to those oyster beds, the circumstances of which correspond most nearly with those "of the beds on the Irish coast." It is exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, satisfactorily to draw a parallel between particular oyster beds in France, and any in this country; but, I submit, that in the course of this report it will be found that I have dealt with the most important points relating to the French fisheries, which are deserving the attention of oyster culturists in Ireland; and I am convinced that if it could be possible to induce the same energy and enterprise in this country, as exists in France, amongst those engaged in this occupation, they would find that by exercising proper judgment, they would be well remunerated, and the public benefited by a largely increased supply. In proceeding south, I found the invariable opinion at the different places to be much in favour of the oysters imported from the district of Auray; they were said to be hardier, that they thrive better, and that the loss in transport is less than in those from Arcachon. I am not aware that any oysters from the Auray or the Vannes district have been yet imported into this country, but I would recommend that the experiment should be made, if only as an experiment. However anxious the authorities may be to promote the oyster fisheries of this country, I do not believe that any attempt can be successful, as at Archacon and Auray, until our Acts of Parliament, dealing with the conditions upon which licenses to plant on our foreshores are given, and those regulating the administration of the Fishery Acts, have been changed. At present the powers conferred by these Acts are too limited, and can only be exercised after a certain routine, involving great delay. In France, full power exists to lay down and enforce, at any moment, from time to time, such rules as may be considered necessary, by those charged with administration of the fisheries, and ample means are provided for securing their enforcement. There are several places on our coast where experiments might be made to re-establish old exhausted beds, with good chances of success, provided the alterations referred to be made in our Statutes, and that the necessary protection be provided for securing protection; without this, however, I fear we cannot look for any very great improvement in the existing state of things.

Tarring and Feathering.—Richard Cœur de Lion ordained, "that if any man was taken with theft or pickery, and therefore convicted, he should have his head polled, and hot pitch poured upon his pate, and upon that the feathers of some pillow or cushion shaken aloft that he might thereby be known for a thief, and at the next arrival of the ships to any land, be put forth of the company to seek his adventures without all hope of return to his fellows."

CHEAPSIDE IN THE OLDEN TIME.

Wondrously different was the Westchepen of the eleventh century when the Norman Conqueror granted his brief and pithy charter to the citizens of London, from that of the nineteenth, with its stately edifices, its asphalted pavement, and its rush and roar of never-ceasing traffic. It was then somewhat like an ill-tended country road, in the summer rough and uneven and full of deep holes, and in winter a quagmire of mud and filth knee deep, with better beaten causeways at the sides for pedestrian traffic. It is recorded by Stow that in 1091 a terrible hurricane passed over London, when 600 houses were blown down, and the roof of the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, erected a few years previously, was lifted off, carried some distance, and dashed into the street with such violence that four of the rafters, 25 feet in length, were driven into the earth, "the ground being of a moorish nature," leaving only four feet exposed, "which were fain to be cut even with the ground, because they could not be plucked out." The houses stood apart from each other like cottages in a village, and were thatched with straw, which was the cause of many fires, one occurring two years after the great storm, in which nearly the whole of the remaining houses were consumed? and so did the citizens continue to rebuild their habitations after each successive fire, until 1245, when it was ordained that for the future they should be covered with tiles or slates, instead of straw, in the chief streets, "especially those close together, which were but few in number, for in Cheapside was a void place called Crown field, from the "Crown Inn," which stood at the end of it." This field was at the end of Soper's-lane, by Bucklersbury, and upon it were erected stages for spectators of pageants. It was sold, 2 Ed. IV., to Sir Richard Cholmley, but does not appear to have been utilised immediately for building purposes, as we hear it spoken of in the time of Henry VII.—City Press.

THE FACTORY INSPECTORS' REPORTS.

Commenting on the recently published reports of the Factory Inspectors, The Times has the following leader:—

The half-yearly Reports of the Factory Inspectors to the Home Secretary have just been published. They will be read with much interest at the present time, when a Bill "to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Factories and Workshops" is before Parliament, and is likely to become law in the course of the present Session. The Bill is a very comprehensive one; it is based on the report of a Royal Commission, and it endeavours to introduce some order and principle into the maze of accumulated enactment on this important subject which has grown up during the present century. Factory legislation has a very long and intricate history, and its latest development would certainly be startling to many even of those who, in the face of much opposition and obloquy, fought the uphill fight of its earlier stages. In his work on "The Reign of Law" the Duke of Argyll has acutely noted the contrast between recent legislation in restraint of trade and of labour respectively. "Since 1802," he says, "there has been passed a long series of laws, removing one after another all restrictions which aimed at guiding the individual will in its sharp and sagacious pursuit of material wealth. During the same period, there has been passed another long series of Acts, imposing restrictions more and more stringent on the individual will in its blind and reckless disregard of moral ends." In each case the legislation, tried by the test of results, has been highly beneficial to the community, and, however strenuously the Factory Acts were opposed as they were successively advanced in stringency from time to time, they are now universally accepted and their benefits are acknowledged by all classes. The essential difference between restriction of trade and restriction of labour is clearly indicated in the remarks we have quoted above. In the one case self-interest, the all-pervading motive of human production, works beneficially, in the other perniciously. We avail ourselves, therefore, without hesitation of a potent force so long as it only helps us, and we restrain it unreservedly as soon as it becomes injurious. Thus society reaps the benefit both of the freedom and of the restraint.

The chief point of interest in the present reports will be found to lie in the evidence collected by the Inspectors and their assistants as to the working of recent legislation in restraint of the hours of female labour. This is a most important subject, though it is one which was hardly thought of in the earlier stages of factory legislation. We all recollect Hood's "Song of the Shirt" and the mingled horror and sympathy which it excited; but it was a long time before those feelings found a vent in practical legislation, and before it was acknowledged to be possible to extend the principle of factory restrictions to workshops and other places of labour employing only a few hands and wearing them out with continuous toil. There are many reasons for a more stringent legislation in regard to women's labour than is applied to that of men. Women are weaker than men, their opportunities for effective combination are not so great, and they have domestic duties which cannot be neglected without grave injury to the community at large and especially to the rising generation of labourers. Yet for a long time the hours of women's labour were wholly unrestricted, save by the occasional and voluntary forbearance of employers and by the passive resistance of exhaustive human nature. How feeble and inoperative these restraints were at the best was abundantly manifest. The "Song of the Shirt" was but an isolated instance of a crying and universal evil brought into strong relief by the voice of genius and humanity. Women were compelled to work throughout the day and far into the night, with weary fingers and aching eyes and throbbing brains, crowded in unwholesome rooms, every additional hour's work rendering them more and more listless and inefficient, until at last they were compelled to cease by sheer exhaustion and overwhelming fatigue. For evils such as these legislation in restraint of the hours of labour was the only possible cure. Mere humanity was powerless, however sincere. Employers might be the humanest of the humane, but the competition of less scrupulous rivals compelled them at moments of pressure either to overwork their labourers or to lose their customers. Customers in respect of certain trades are often thoughtless and generally exacting; their wants are sudden and urgent, and they will not hear of impossibilites. But a law which affects all employers alike and makes overwork penal protects employers against the rapacity of their rivals, and labourers against the enforced exactions of their employers. Such a law has now been in operation for ten years, and, according to the best authority—that, namely, of those who are chiefly affected by it—it has produced the most beneficial results. Of course the operation of such a law is necessarily somewhat elastic, and it has to be enforced with a considerable liberty of exceptional exemption. In some industries, such as those which deal with perishable materials, time is an essential element, and a rigid restriction of labour, incapable of modification, would be fatal to their pursuit. In others, a special and periodical pressure of employment is rightly made the ground for a relaxation of the ordinary rules of restraint. But the general principle of a fixed period of labour, subject to these and similar exceptions, has been enforced with most satisfactory results. It appears from Mr. Redgrave's report that an impression has been prevalent in some quarters that women themselves were not in favour of the restrictions imposed. Mr. Redgrave quotes at length from the report of Mr. Henderson, one of the Sub-Inspectors, in which this particular question is dealt with. A complaint was made, at the Trades' Union Congress held at Leicester last autumn, that the reports of the Inspectors dealt with the question of factory and workshop legislation mainly from the point of view of the employers. This, as Mr. Henderson says, is but natural, because, by the theory of factory legislation, it is the interests of employers that are assumed to be assailed and interfered with. But he adds, "Since the meeting at Leicester I have made it my business to ascertain, so far as I could, the opinion of women employed in different occupations in London as to the influence of the Factory Acts, and I can say confidently that, without a single exception, I have found the limitations imposed upon their hours of work most cordially approved of, and the greatest anxiety and positive alarm entertained at the prospect of any relaxation which would expose them to the irregular and uncertain hours of work which prevailed prior to the passing of the Factory Act of 1867." This opinion is supported by a good deal of detailed evidence, and, as it is expressed by a thoroughly competent authority, it may be accepted without question. Women may sometimes regret that they cannot now earn higher wages by labour continued up to the point of exhaustion, but the more thoughtful of them must acknowledge that the old system of overtime was a reckless expenditure of capital that could never be replaced, while even the more needy must rejoice that the law now restrains them from yielding to what would otherwise be an overpowering necessity.

It is impossible to question the beneficial results of this legislation. It rescues women from the tyranny of rapacious employers; it enables such of them as are married to give a reasonable attention to their domestic duties, and it secures them regular employment without pressing them to exhaustion. All these advantages are secured without any real economical sacrifices, for the vigorous labour of reasonable and regular hours is found to be as valuable to the employers and as remunerative to the labourers as the listless and weary toil of continued overtime. Some of the women whose opinions on this point are given went so far as to doubt the value of working even the overtime allowed under the Act at periods of exceptional pressure. "The women at the close of the twelve hours were tired and exhausted, and hardly did enough after that to pay for the gas consumed. Book sewers and folders are all paid by piecework, and if overtime were continued for a few weeks together 'their earnings would soon fall to about the same amount as when they worked the regular hours.'" This is an economical result of workshop legislation which is at once unexpected and significant, for if it is once acknowledged that judicious restriction of the hours of labour is economically harmless, the strongest objection to the principle of such legislation will fall to the ground. Of its moral and social benefits there can be no question. Mr. Henderson effectually disposes of the singular and scarcely ingenuous complaint that a restriction of the hours of women's labour is an encouragement to immorality. "Not a single fact can be adduced," he says, "which would even appear to support the monstrous assertion that the Factory Law affords encouragement to vice." It is clear, moreover, that parents of young girls can much more easily control the employment of their leisure now that their hours of labour are fixed by law than in former times, when the duration of the employment was indefinite, and the time of their return home was correspondingly uncertain. On the whole, therefore, it is manifest that the legislation in regard to female labour has been abundantly justified by its results. It has abated an acknowledged scandal, and at no economical sacrifice it has effected a great social reform. It is not often that humanity and economy are so completely at one; when they are, the legislation to which they give rise ought to be placed beyond the reach of assault.

The gout from which Prince Gortschakoff is suffering has, it is now stated, passed into both feet, and the physicians have ordered him to abstain from all business.

AMBULANCE DOGS.

While the English people have been discussing the merits of the dog as a means of contributing taxes to the Imperial Exchequer, a Viennese journal (says the Globe) has espoused his cause in a different way, as an agent in saving human life in war. The difference between the two methods of regarding the same useful animal pursued in the two countries may, perhaps, be considered by a moralist as illustrative of their different habits and lines of thought—the nation of shopkeepers being attracted by the financial aspect of the canine question, and the people whose chief pride is in their military displays preferring to look at it from a soldier's point of view. The suggestion of the Wehr Zeitung is that a race of dogs should be attached to armies in their campaigns, or at least to the corps of ambulance service attending upon them, and that after every battle the dogs in question should be sent forth to range over the field of battle in search of those wretched wounded soldiers who have not been killed outright, but who have hidden themselves in some refuge, and after figuring in the list of "missing" men too often perish miserably before any relief can find them out. It seems that the idea of employing dogs in this way is by no means a new one, but was brought forward two years ago at Dresden, where some dogs qualified for this purpose were shown in an exhibition. Since that time experiments have been made by means of crossing the St. Bernard with other races with a view to obtaining the most suitable breed, and a very satisfactory result is said to have been arrived at by the German fanciers. The precise mode of employing the animals on their beneficent mission is described in the Vienna paper, which explains that the dog is furnished with a leather collar and plate, having marked upon it his number, and the division of the army to which he is attached, and the Geneva Cross. To this collar is suspended a small leathern bag containing a pencil and a slip of paper, and even a little lantern in case of his being sent out at night. The wounded man, upon being found, opens the bag and writes his name if he can upon the paper, together with the nature of his injuries, and on the return of the animal to the ambulance assistance is sent under its guidance to the spot where the sufferer is concealed.

KEEPING LATE HOURS.

There are two classes of people who, it seems to me, are the chief sufferers from the habit of keeping late hours—first the votaries of fashion or pleasure, and secondly those who devote their lives to literature and the study of the sciences. I would have a word to say to both. The first I would remind that refreshing sleep and rest are just as necessary for the keeping of our bodies in health as are food and exercise. "Apollo does not always bend his bow," and a due proportion of sleep is required by all, that the system may recover, and the nerves be freshened and recruited after the bustle or toils of the day. I have, in a previous paper, tried to explain that during sound sleep the capillaries of the brain are in a great measure bloodless, that if these minute arteries are weakened by long excitement of any kind, they are unable properly to contract, their elasticity is in a great measure gone, and only a semi or partially bloodless condition of the brain is possible, and consequently deep sleep cannot be procured, but only in its stead a semi-unconsciousness, during which past events and past thoughts are mingled and blended together in what are termed dreams, which, whether pleasant or the reverse, indicate the absence of that balmy sleep which alone is nature's sweet restorer. Now a certain time of quiet repose of mind before retiring to bed is necessary to those who have spent the night in joyful excitement, to allow the blood to return from the brain, if anything like refreshing sleep is to be expected, for only the weary labourer can throw himself on his couch and go to sleep at once. But do the keepers of late hours ever get, or ever seek to get, this period of repose, this prelude to a quiet night? I fear but seldom. And if their bodies are deprived of sufficient rest and sleep, surely it is absurd to think they can last as long as they otherwise would, as to expect a piece of simple machinery, a clock for example, to go for ever without winding and repairs.—From "Cassell's Family Magazine."

PLANT-HOUSES.

Conservatory and Greenhouse.—In the management of these structures carry out previous directions, and clear the greenhouse of all bedders and soft-wooded stock going out of bloom, to give more valuable subjects room to develop themselves and get plenty of air.

Orchid-House.—In the Indian and Mexican houses abundant moisture and a liberal temperature may be allowed. By far the greater number of the most valuable species derive their chief subsistence from the atmosphere; hence frequent sprinkling of the paths and stages should be practiced. Where there are large examples requiring abundance of atmospheric moisture, the walls and tables near them should be drenched frequently, and the tanks should be kept full. This treatment will be most needed by Saccolabiums, Vandas, Phalænopsis, Dendrobiums, and Aerides, which make little progress unless liberally treated. Manage, however, to have the houses rather dry once a day by means of ventilation, so as by shutting up and watering to imitate the natural deposition of dew of the jungles, from which these plants come. When syringing use a very fine rose, to cause the water to fall in a shower. Plants on blocks must be dipped twice a day, and those recently potted be kept alive chiefly by means of atmospheric moisture until established, when they may be subjected to dipping.

Stove.—Plants recently potted to be kept on a good bottom-heat. Shift on all fast-growing subjects. As fast as plants come into bloom, remove them to a cooler atmosphere. Whatever can be propagated now will be better done than in autumn, as the young stock will have a long growing season before them to fill their pots with roots. Therefore, buy in any new varieties of choice subjects which it may be desirable to propagate from. This is the best time to propagate a supply of Begonias, Euphorbias, Justicias, Poinsettias, and other quick-growing, soft-wooded plants for display during the winter. Specimens to be assisted with liquid manure, and the shoots to be stopped of all shrubby and branching kinds. Justicias especially should be freely grown now, to get the wood well ripened for a good bloom at the turn of the year. Those out of bloom to be potted in peat, rotten dung, and fibry loam equal parts.

FORCING-HOUSES.

Cucumbers in Frames will require plenty of air and a brisk bottom-heat. Reline the beds where necessary. Train and thin the shoots. After lining, give plenty of water round the insides of the frames. Sow seed or strike cuttings for succession.

Fig-House.—In early houses there is much fruit ripening now, and the syringe must be used with caution; but it must not be dispensed with altogether, because of the liability to red spider. Care must be taken, therefore, especially as, though there may be much nearly-ripe fruit in the house, there will also be much immature fruit needing assistance.

Melon-Pit.—Plants just put out must be kept quite close and warm till the roots run freely, and then a short-jointed growth should be encouraged by moderate ventilation and abundance of light.

Peach-House.—The trees must be liberally supplied with water, plenty of air, and full sun. Strong shoots to be pinched in; useful shoots to be tied in. Keep a watchful eye as to the furnishing of the lower parts of the trees; if they are allowed to make gross shoots high up, they will become bare at bottom, and it is always a sign of a careless management when the trees are irregularly furnished.

Pinery.—Pines must now be shaded as little as possible, except those lately potted. Give plenty of air and abundance of water. Maintain a brisk temperature in the structure filled with succession plants.

Vinery.—The various attentions requisite as to assisting growth, bloom, and fruit as vines begin their seasonal work, have been described at some length in calendarial notices during the past two months, and we refer readers to the various notices, requesting them to apply to their own particular cases the instructions given.

FLOWER GARDEN AND PLEASURE-GROUNDS.

Thin out annuals and top the branching kinds, and they will bloom so vigorously as to be altogether unlike the crowded spindly things so frequently seen. Late-planted Roses should have plenty of water and the surface mulched, and similar treatment given to Hollyhocks and Crysanthemums put out last month. Part and plant Polyanthuses and Primroses that have done blooming, and give them a rich loam and shady aspect. Where it is intended to have new gravel, it would be advisable to defer it till the beds are filled, and the whole garden acquiring its full summer gaiety; a coating of new gravel then will add much to its fresh and bright appearance. Roll and mow grass turf frequently to promote a fine close growth. Any watering of plants in the open ground should be done in the morning now, as the nights are often very cold.

Bedders must have all the air possible to thoroughly harden them; indeed, those not in cradles must have the lights drawn off night and day when no danger from frost is apprehended.

FRUIT GARDEN AND ORCHARD.

In gardens exposed to the east newly-planted trees should be safely staked, and the ground be liberally mulched about their roots. Protection is still needful on fruit-walls, but at the first change to westerly winds may be removed. Meantime let the trees have air as much as possible.

KITCHEN GARDEN.

Sow a few Kidney Beans in pots, to make good any that miss in the rows. Sow also in pots or pans sufficient seed of Scarlet Runners for a first planting, to give an early supply. These will be a fortnight earlier than those sown in the open ground. In cutting Asparagus, take only the strongest shoots. Give plenty of water and weak liquid manure. Transplant from seed-beds as fast as young plants become crowded, and use the hoe wherever weeds appear, so as to keep them down before they have time to flower. Plant out Capsicums and Tomatoes at the foot of a wall with a south aspect, and cover with hand lights or glasses until all danger from frost is past. Sprinkle soot over the ground and hoe it in a few days afterwards. Sow Broad Beans, Peas, Radish, Celery, Borecole, Beet, Lettuce, Small Salads, Spinach, Turnips, Carrots, Endive, and Cucumbers for planting out on ridges early in June.

Can a Man be His Own Grandfather.—"There was a widow and her daughter-in-law, and a man and his son. The widow married the son, and the daughter the old man; the widow was therefore mother to her husband's father, consequently grandmother to her own husband. They had a son, to whom she was great grandmother; now as the son of a great-grandmother must either be a grandfather or a great uncle, this boy was therefore his own grandfather. This was actually the case with a boy at school at Norwich."—Notes and Queries.

THE GOORKHAS.

The worthy inhabitants of Malta will scarcely derive much æsthetic delight from the personal appearance of the Goorkha regiment that will be shortly among them. Ugly beyond comparison, with flat features and mere slits for eyes, these soldiers are of stunted stature, frequently very bow-legged, and much too broad for their height. But they are splendid little fellows for fighting purposes, being very hardy, capable of enduring almost any amount of fatigue, devoted to their officers, and completely devoid of even the instinct of fear. Armed only with their "kookeries"—broad-bladed, heavy knives, of fine temper, and sharp as razors—they often go on foot into the jungle in quest of some man-eating tiger, and if the brute is brought to bay, it rarely escapes with life. Buddhists by faith, they hold in scorn the caste prescriptions of Hindooism, and when in our service, they adopt many of the customs of the English soldiery. It is an amusing sight to see a Goorkha setting forth from a station for a day's sport in the neighbourhood. Dressed in some cast-off European mufti which he has purchased in the bazaar, he carries either an ancient fowling-piece or a razed Brown Bess, while at his heels follow two or three curs of very low degree, whose ears and tails have been artistically docked. Yet, bizarre as looks his get up, the little fellow generally manages to bring home a decent bag, unless, indeed, his weapon bursts at the first discharge. His method is either to stalk the game, be it a dove or a deer, or to lie in wait for it for hours at some likely spot. Between whiles, he puffs his short clay pipe and murmurs the songs of his native land, which sound rather harshly to sophisticated ears. Altogether a right merry lad is the Goorkha in quarters, and held in high esteem by the European soldiers. But his greatest talent lies in fighting to the death for the side whose salt he eats. Some years ago, during one of our expeditions into the Peshawur hills, a Goorkha detachment was skirmishing with the Afredees. On the recall being sounded, three or four men who had taken up favourable positions declined to come back. There they remained, leisurely firing at the enemy until the Afredees swarmed down in overwhelming force, and then out flashed the wicked looking kookeries, and there was some very pretty fighting. Of course the plucky little fellows were all killed, but not before the ground was considerably littered with defunct Afredees.—Globe.

JOTTINGS FOR THE CURIOUS.

Baptism for the Dead.—Some time ago it was a custom among the poorer and more ignorant of the Jews, when any of them were dangerously ill, to send for a rabbi, and to have the sick man's name changed; the object being, that, in case the evil one should come and claim the patient—Moses Abrahams we will call him—the byestanders might answer with truth; "Ah! this is not Moses, it is Michael Abrahams." And so, after apologising for calling at the wrong house, the "Old One" might go somewhere else in quest of his man.

A Skilful Fraud.—It is related of Cross, an English painter, who was remarkable for his talent in copying correctly, that being employed by Charles I. to copy some of the works of the best masters in Italy, and being permitted by the State of Venice to copy a famous Madonna of Raphael, in the church of St. Mark, he executed his commission so happily that he brought away the original and left the copy in its stead! The deception was not immediately discovered, and the detection was made too late to regain it; for although several messengers pursued him expeditiously, they were all disappointed.

The Origin of the Game of Domino.—Amédée Ponthieu has written an elaborate article about the game of "domino" (or, as it is often called, "dominoes"), and contends that it dates back to the sixth century. Two monks of the celebrated monastery on Monte Casino, who were confined in the gaol for a trifling disobedience, invented, in order to kill the dreary hours of their imprisonment, a game with small white pieces of chalk, into which they cut small holes, which they coloured, and with which they played. Being watched by the gaoler of the monastery, they commenced to sing with a loud voice the beginning of the psalm "Dixit Dominus Domino" as soon as they heard the gaoler coming, and repeated these words until the dangerous man was gone. After having been released, they manufactured square pieces of wood and ivory with black holes, and sold them to other monks. Thus the game was soon spread throughout Italy.

"Bulls."—"Bulls" are not all of Irish origin. It was the mayor of a Portuguese city who once enumerated, among the marks by which the body of a drowned man might be identified, "a marked impediment in his speech." General Taylor was made ridiculous for a time by the sentence which occurred near the beginning of his message sent to the Thirty-first Congress, December, 1849 as follows:—"We are at peace with all the world, and seek to maintain our cherished relations of amity with the rest of mankind." But Mr. Buchanan almost matched it in a speech which he made at the South, in which he said—"I do believe, gentlemen, that mankind, as well as the people of the United States, are interested in the preservation of the Union; and John C. Calhoun, commenting on this Clause of the Declaration of Independence to the effect that all men are created equal, remarked that "Only two men were created, and one of these was a woman!"

A Pitiful and Unmanly Employment.—The following extract, from the Annual Register of 1773, shows a curious contrast to the state of feeling of the present day—especially now that the fashion of wearing chignons, and the study of dressing ladies' hair, require special qualification of no mean order on the part of the hair-dresser:—"At a meeting held by the Lord Mayor of London and the other trustees, under the will of the late S. Wilson, of Hatton Garden, for lending out the sum of £20,000 to young men who had been set up not more than two years in some trade or manufacture, application was made by two young men, hair-dressers, to be partakers of the said loan, whose petitions were rejected; his lordship and the other trustees being of opinion that the said occupation was not fit for young men to follow, and were persuaded the testator never designed his money should be lent to promote so pitiful and unmanly an employment, which did not seem to require a capital of above £5."

Epigram on a Bible.

"One day at least in every week,
The sects of every kind,
Their doctrines here are sure to seek,
And just as sure to find."

Harvesting on Sundays.—The following extract from the Injunctions of Queen Elizabeth, 1559, shows the state of feeling with regard to the practice of farmers getting in their harvest at the period of the Reformation:—" . . . . Yet notwithstanding, all parsons, vicars, and curates, shall teach and declare unto their parishioners, that they may with a safe and quiet conscience, after their common prayer, in the time of harvest, labour upon the holy and festival days, and save that thing which God hath sent: and if for any scrupulosity or grudge of conscience, men should superstitiously abstain from working upon those days, that then they should grievously offend and displease God."

Curious Writing.—Peter Bales, one of the earliest and most eminent of English writing masters, according to M. D'Israeli, astonished the eyes of beholders by showing them what they could scarce see, and which was a piece of writing, which contained the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Ten Commandments, with two short prayers in Latin, his own name, motto, day of the month, year of the Lord, and reign of Queen Elizabeth, to whom he afterwards presented it at Hampton Court. It was all written within the circle of single penny, and encased in a ring with a border of gold, covered by a crystal, the whole so accurately written as to be plainly legible, to the great admiration of her Majesty, her ministers, and several ambassadors at court. In the year 1590, Bales kept a school at the upper end of the Old Bailey, in London, and a few years after had a trial of skill in writing with Mr. Daniel Johnson, for a golden pen value £20, and won it. The particulars of the contest for the pen, supposed to be written by Bales himself, are in the British Museum. And D'Israeli, in his Curiosities of Literature, gives a long account of the combat.

Times Prohibiting Marriage.—The following rhyme in reference to the times prohibiting marriage is contributed to a London periodical by a correspondent:—

"Advent marriage doth deny,
But Hilary gives them liberty,
Septuagesima says thee nay;
Eight days from Easter says you may,
Rogation bids thee to contain
But Trinity sets thee free again."

Japanese Gardens.—Fond as the English are of their gardens, they would appear to be excelled in this respect by the Japanese. Everyone of these singular people, both rich and poor, is said to have a garden; the latter, if possible, both in front as well as in the rear of their cottages. In them they cultivate the plum and the cherry, not for the fruit, but for the flower. By a peculiar treatment they improve them so much as to make the flowers become as large as roses. Indeed, it is stated that plum blossoms have been seen four times the size of our common cabbage roses. In the season, when they are in full blossom, these trees afford a delightful sight in the gardens, and about the temples, and public walks.

The Primacy of England.—The Archbishop of York is styled in formal documents "Primate of England," the Archbishop of Canterbury "Primate of all England." The origin of this distinction is said to be as follows:—In the reign of Henry II. a synod of English prelates was held at Westminster, at which the Legate of the Holy See was present. It is reported by one historian that on this occasion the Archbishops of Canterbury and York were contending for precedence, when high words came to blows among their respective parties; the adherents of Canterbury pulled the Archbishop of York down from his seat to the ground, tore his casule, chimere, and rochet from his back. The Papal Legate was so terrified at the sight that he fled from the place of meeting. Next day the Archbishop of York appealed to the Pope upon the matter, and the dispute was finally settled by the respective titles above-mentioned being given to him and to his brother metropolitan, the precedence being thus settled in favour of the see of Canterbury. In like manner the Protestant Archbishop of Dublin is called Primate of Ireland, and his Grace of Armagh Primate of all Ireland. The Lord Chancellor for the time being ranks below the Archbishop of Canterbury, but above the Archbishop of York.

An Aged Bride and Bridegroom.—In the Dublin Gazette, 8th Feb., 1731, the following particulars are given:—"Yesterday morning the Rev. Mr. Taylor, Curate of St. Peters (Dublin), married in that church James Thompson, of Kevan's-street, shoemaker, and Agnes Roberts, of the same street. The bridegroom averred that he was ninety odd years of age, and the bride that she was above eighty-six years old. The concourse on the occasion was so great that the church and churchyard could not contain the people. The new-married couple were obliged to be locked up in the vestry until three o'clock in the afternoon, when the mob dispersed."

The Mark Lane Express states that spring corn has been making satisfactory progress, and that barley, oats, beans, and peas are showing well on the ground, both in bulk and colour. The hay crop bids fair to be a heavy one. Stock, and especially sheep, continue healthy.

THE GREAT PURIFIER AND RESTORER OF HEALTH.

BOWEN'S ANTISEPTIC TONIC-SALINE

imparts to the system Nature's great purifier—OZONE, thereby cleansing the blood from all effete or poisonous matter, preventing fermentation in the stomach and ensuring perfect digestion.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE is the most efficacious remedy yet introduced for Indigestion, Bilious and Liver affections, Sourness of the Stomach, Constipation, Nervous affections, Headache, Depression of Spirits, Eruptive or Skin complaints. Scrofula, and Wasting Diseases.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE makes a pleasant invigorating and refreshing draught, that may be taken habitually at any time from infancy to age.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE invigorates the Nerves and Muscular System, Purifies and Enriches the Blood, Animates the Spirits, and Mental Faculties and ensures GOOD HEALTH.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE is of the highest value to Consuls, Emigrants and Europeans generally, who are visiting or residing in Hot or Foreign Climates, being a certain preventive as well as cure for Fever, Measles, Epidemic, Small-Pox, &c., Dysentery, Cholera, and Diarrhœa.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE is indispensable to ship captains, being by far the best and safest remedy for Scury and other diseases that sailors and persons on board ship are subject to. For Biliousness and Sea-sickness it is unequalled; the worst cases will yield to its influence in a few minutes.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE As a family Medicine it is beyond praise, on that account no Household ought to be without it, for by its timely use many serious results and Doctor's bills may be entirely prevented.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE is an excellent substitute for celebrated English and Continental Mineral Waters, thereby supplying a great want to those whose means or occupation will not allow their visiting those places.

BOWEN'S TONIC-SALINE. Invalids who have in vain sought relief from suffering and disease, or who have travelled the world over in search after health, are earnestly invited to try this unequalled and most potent remedy.

CAUTION.—Although there are several preparations similar in appearance to mine, yet they are of an entirely different composition. The Tonic-Saline is the only Saline possessing Health Restoring properties that can be taken habitually without deranging the system, therefore it is necessary to see that the words "Bowen's Antiseptic Tonic-Saline" are on each bottle, without which it cannot be genuine.

JOHN DYSON,

WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,

25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.

Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts when most simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

In E b for Soprano or Tenor, in C for Contralto or Baritone. Rothwell Times,

Yes, true enough:—this is rightly called the age of progress—While in the world of state, the great matters of peace and war are managed in a different manner, and effect larger masses of people; while in the world of commerce and manufacture, transactions of immense magnitude are conducted, and articles of every conceivable description are made; while in the world of science, we have learnt pretty nearly to discard the word "impossible," and to receive the most astounding revelations and discoveries with hardly the flutter of amazement; while in the literary world, wonders of genius and advancement are being displayed; while all is vitality and push in the great world outside, this little speck of a "Rothwell" not discernable with microscopic aid on a map of the world, but dear to many a one, both residents and those who, though removed to distant towns, still retain in their hearts a deeply-rooted desire for its welfare; in this little spot, we are not dead, but for the last six or seven years have shewn continuous signs of genuine and ever-advancing tokens of vitality.

Compared with that date, something like as many more children are now receiving education, the district is in process of being drained and the laying of water pipes remind us that very soon one of the greatest boons we can possess (plenty of good water) will be brought to our homes: the architecture is of the town is being gradually improved, old thatched shanties giving place to well-built erections, literary and religious efforts and associations are increasing and taking a more defined shape, while after great struggling, the advantages of a Money Order Office and Savings Bank, and the still greater benefit of the Telegraph wire, all prove, beyond a doubt, that Rothwell, ancient at she is, is renewing her youth, and promises better for long life than she has done for centuries.

To be somewhat personal, we look back to the month of December, 1867, when the first attempt was made to introduce Printing into Rothwell, and while we feel amused at the remembrance of the first productions of Rothwell printing, we think of the vague shadowy sentiment which then pass'd through our "disordered brain" of the possibility that at some far-distant day, the easy-going steam machine might throw off its 2000 or 3000 copies an hour, and how we came to our senses again, and felt how wildly our imagination had been soaring. And yet, ten years afterwards, our readers are conning the pages of the "Rothwell Times" of 42 long columns, composed and printed in Rothwell by the powerful aid of Steam Machinery.

We are making arrangements for the publication of the result of Cricket and Football Matches reports of neighbouring Board and other Meetings, &c., and also to bring national and general news up to the latest moment possible, so as to give our readers every advantage.

Trusting still further to secure the patronage and assistance of our many friends, and to make the "Rothwell Times" all its best well-wishers can desire, we issue the first number of the new series.

ROTHWELL LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

The usual meeting of the Rothwell Local Board took place on Monday evening. Present: J. Charlesworth, Esq., chairman, Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, J. Hargreaves Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Medical Officer, Inspector, and Treasurer.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed, also of a meeting of the Waterworks Committee on May 24th, when some of the charges to be made for water were fixed, and a decision was come to that the connections with the houses shall be made by the Board, who shall charge a reasonable sum for so doing.

The account for the Commissioners' Inquiry last September was put in and unanimously most moderate, and it was proposed by Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. Lunn, and carried,—That a cheque of £2 5s. be granted to the Local Government Board for the Commissioner's expenses in conducting an Inquiry last September.

A notice was read from the Clerk to the Leeds and Barnsdale Highway Trustees giving notice of their intention to offer the Chain Bar house, garden, &c., for sale in August next. Mr. Smith said the garden did not belong to them at all, it belongs to the Board. It was eventually proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Hawden and carried,—That the Clerk ask the Trustees for a plan of the site referred to.

Some little feeling having arisen about Mr. Lunn's right to take rent for a stall near the cross, that gentleman brought up the question for settlement, as he had no desire whatever to have anything but his own, and he was wishful to know the facts of the case. The ordnance map was accordingly examined, and it was found to Mr. Lunn's satisfaction, that the ground belonged to the Board, and that therefore he was not entitled to receive stallage. Mr. Lunn also stated in contradiction to some erroneous reports, that he had never made a charge for the stall, but a certain amount was offerred him which he accepted. It was then proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn and carried,—That all stallage near the cross be paid to the Board.

The Medical Officer presented his annual report on the health of the district, which we purpose publishing in full next week.

The monthly health report set forth that four deaths have occurred, while nine boys and fifteen girls have been born. The remarkably small number of deaths is very satisfactory and accords with the Registrar General's report of fewer deaths, more births, and a larger amount of pauperism. Rheumatic and bronchitic colds of a mild nature are prevalent. There is also one case of typhoid fever, which is not serious, and the necessary precautions have been taken. The doctor had heard that chicken pox and whooping cough had broken out at Waterloo, and the Board asked him and the inspector to pay a visit to that place.

In reference to the yearly report, the large amount of infant mortality was commented on, and the medical officer feared that many of the deaths arose from improper food and overfeeding. He wished the parents would use milk and Scotch oatmeal instead of tea, bread sops, &c.

The chairman thought it would be a good thing if the School Boards paid some attention to the question of suitable food children.

On the motion of Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley, the report was unanimously accepted.

It was also moved by Mr. Holmes seconded by the Chairman and carried (Messrs. Lunn and W. Hargreaves neutral) That the attention of the Registrar General be drawn to the fact of five deaths in which the cause of death is not stated.

The Waterworks Committee arranged to meet Mr. Pickthall on Tuesday, the 28th.

Mr. W. Hargreaves proposed and Mr. Lunn seconded, That a cheque for £2 0 be granted to Mr. Jowett for pipe laying—carried.

After previous correspondence with Mr. Hallbrook had been read, it was resolved, That a notice be served on Mr. Hallbrook to make his shop in Carlton Lane safe.

Several persons had applied for the work of widening and improving the causeway in Bell Hill. It was found that Mr. A. Nickol's tender was the lowest, and Mr. Bramley proposed, and Mr. Hargreaves seconded a resolution, That Mr. A. Nickol's tender for £4 2s. 6d. be accepted—carried.

Proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Smith and carried, That Messrs. Elliot & Sons have a cheque granted for £252 8s., quarter's account for repairing the roads in the Board's district.

Next meeting falling on Whit-Monday, it was resolved on the motion of Mr. Bramley, seconded by Mr. W. Hargreaves, That the next meeting be held on Friday, June 7th.

It is therefore necessary that all persons wishing to lodge plans should have them in at the Board Room by Tuesday, June 3rd, when the Building Committee will meet.

Accident to a Miner at Rothwell.

Mark Chadwick (56), residing at 48, Anchor-street, Hunslet, was admitted to the Leeds General Infirmary on Sunday last, suffering from a fracture of the right leg and very severe bruises on the chest, caused by a heavy fall of stone upon him while he was sitting at his breakfast in the Beeston Pit bottom, the property of Messrs. J. and J. Charlesworth.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER.

"Here are red and there are white roses," said the vicar, "the two fatal flowers chosen as symbols by the famous houses of York and Lancaster, at the sanguinary battle of Towton Field, where so many brave warriors fell victims to the ambition of two kings. I trust to the Almighty that such a battle may never occur again between the people of this land. When will that day arrive when the prophecy of the prophet Isaiah shall be fulfilled, 'and He shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people, and they shall beat their swords into plough-shares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.'"

"That day, sir," began Melville, "I fear me is in the mist of futurity. I have been in many engagements and have had many narrow escapes. I remember once feeling the touch of a bullet that grazed the tip of my ear, and a ball from the enemy's cannon that whizzed close by my head; when in the heat of battle and the excitement that a soldier feels when in an engagement, he is blind to all danger. But I have had enough of Mars, and am now a votary at the shrine of Cupid. I am not a coward, nor am I unwilling to serve the cause of my country but I have been wounded, and there is but one physician in this world that can cure me."

"Yours must be a desperate wound, and the physician must be a very clever one," said the vicar, smiling.

"Your remark is very truthful," said Melville, "I am wounded in my heart, and the physician is your youngest daughter; I only wait your approval and Miss Nelly's consent to my recovery, then I will leave the turmoil of war and live in a home of peace."

The latter part of Melville's conversation with the vicar was spoken with emotion; it was the first time he had ever uttered a word to him on that most important subject on which his future happiness depended. The vicar did not seem surprised at the words Melville had just spoken, but gave him encouragement to put faith in the word—Hope.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Hope deferred maketh the heart sick," wrote King Solomon, and Melville had fully experienced the truth of that proverb, but he did not despair; he was now a constant visitor at the vicarage, and was well received by all the family, the vicar and he were often out together enjoying the fresh morning air. The old cottage houses were very picturesque in the spring and summer months, the gardens and orchards that surrounded them were full of fruit and bright flowers.

"This is a beautiful sight, indeed," said the vicar one morning as they stood together in what is now called the "Church Fields," which stands on an eminence; a few of the old cottages stood in the valley close to the running stream that leaves behind it the wheel of the old mill. One of the houses in particular looked beautiful, it was nearly covered over with a creeping plant that was supported by trellis work fixed to the walls, the old-fashioned windows with their white curtains peeped out of the green leaves and relief to the pretty scene.

Dame Nature is very profuse with her verdant and floral gifts to the people in this old village, continued the vicar, and I for one do most heartily enjoy them; my daughter Nelly and the gardener are very proficient in the cultivation of more tender and richer coloured flowers than we see here growing around us, as you may have observed in the garden around the vicarage.

"I have, indeed, observed with great pleasure the beautiful flowers in your garden, (but it would indeed be a stupid flower that would not grow when cultivated by such pretty hands as Miss Nelly's, thought Melville) and I have a desire to learn the cultivation of them."

"Your desire may, perhaps, be gratified," said the vicar, approvingly, "'Faint heart never won fair lady,' you have my consent to solicit the fair young lady's opinion of you as a pupil in the art of horticulture, or as a future partner for the rest of her lifetime."

Melville warmly thanked the vicar for his encouraging words, and promised at the first opportunity to ascertain the true state (if possible) of the young lady's affectionate feelings towards himself. Mine is not a faint heart, thought Melville, and I have the good vicar's consent, the battle is now half over, and I think I shall win the victory.

A day or two passed swiftly away and Melville's leave of absence was drawing to a close, but he had made good use of his time, for he and Miss Nelly were constantly in the flower garden together as pupil and teacher; and what an amiable and winning teacher, and was there ever a more attentive and willing pupil?

CRICKET.
AUSTRALIA v. YORKSHIRE.

A THREE days cricket match was commenced yesterday at Huddersfield, between the Australian Eleven and a Yorkshire County Eleven. The latter team went to the wickets first, and were got out for a score of 72. The Australians followed, and scored 87 for the loss of four wickets.

THE CONGRESS.

From a telegram yesterday evening, the Emperor has asked Prince Bismarck and Secretary of State Von Bulow to represent Germany at the Congress. It is also understood that Greece will be asked to appoint a representative to take part in the proceedings, at the suggestion of England.

BLACKBURN RIOTERS.

The adjourned hearing of the charges of rioting and incendiarism against several persons was resumed before the county magistrates at Blackburn on Thursday. The prisoners Burns and Cafferty, two women of dissolute habits and abandoned characters, described the part which the others had taken in the demolition of Colonel Jackson's residence. Another committed prisoner said that Cafferty was the first person to fire the furniture in Colonel Jackson's house. A farm bailiff proved that fire-arms were extensively used, and it was also shown that the furniture had been brought out, piled and burned, and that the lodge house had been sacked. The prisoners were committed to the Lancashire Assizes for trial. Bail was refused.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—During piercing winds and excessive variations of temperature every one is more or less liable to internal or external disease. Throat, chest, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin all suffer in some degree, and may be relieved by rubbing in this Ointment, aided by proper doses of the Pills, for administering which full directions accompany each box. In truth, any one who thoroughly masters Holloway's "instructions" will, in remedying disease, exchange the labour of an hour for the profit of a life-time. All bronchial, pulmonary and throat disorders require that the Ointment should be thoroughly well rubbed upon the skin twice a day with great regularity, considerable briskness, and much persistence.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

There is no medicinal preparation which may be so thoroughly relied upon in the treatment of the ... ailments as Holloway's Ointment. Rubbed upon the surface of the body, over, or near the affected parts, it disappears under the action of the hand, penetrating at once to the source of the evil, and thus performs its healing errand rapidly, safely and without pain. In all long standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they purify the Blood and expel all depraved humours from the system.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, and Bronchitis.

This Ointment is irresistible in the cure of these throat and pectoral complaints, which when neglected often end in settled Asthma or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the Chest and Back, night and morning, penetrates the skin, and thus absorbed, is carried directly to the Lungs, where, in immediate contact with the whole mass of circulating Blood, it neutralizes or expels all impurities. By these means all pulmonary complaints may be cured with rapidity and ease.

Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.

In any of the above complaints more benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours, by adopting the following simple means, than could be brought about in six months by any other treatment. In bad cases, if the ointment be diligently rubbed into the small of the back, over the region of the Kidneys, it will quickly penetrate and give immediate relief. Six or eight of the Pills should be taken nightly according to circumstances.

Gout, Rheumatism and Stiff Joints.

This invaluable Ointment exercises a more obvious control over Gout and Rheumatism, than any other Medicine. No one need remain uncured, who will in good earnest make a vigorous application of this infallible remedy—according to the Printed Instructions affixed to each Pot. All settled aches and pains will likewise be banished by the same treatment.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula and Scurvy.

The beneficial effects of this peerless Ointment are truly wonderful in cases of Ringworm, Scurvy and Scrofula, or King's Evil, and its powers are adequate to the removal of the most inveterate Skin Disease to which the human frame is subject.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language.

N.B.—Advice can be obtained, free of charge, by applying at the above address, daily, between the hours of 11 and 4, or by letter.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.
A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throats, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.
By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.
Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Burns, Bunions, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Contracted and Stiff Joints, Corns (Soft), Fistulas, Gout, Glandular Swellings, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Sore Nipples, Scalds, Sore Throats, Skin Diseases, Scurvy, Sore Heads, Tumours, Ulcers, Wounds.
The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

THE CONGRESS.

THE invitations to an European Congress which have been sent out to the Powers by the German Government, mark a distinct stage in the history of a prolonged series of negotiations.

It is a little more than a twelve months ago that the Russian army arrived upon the banks of the Danube, and paused for several weeks upon the shores of that broad and rapid stream, making preparations to cross it. The Russians, after a delay which seemed to other nations almost unaccountable, crossed the Danube on the 27th of June, and the Turks made a feeble and ineffectual attempt to dispute that passage. Yet they made a desperate resistance at Plevna, and though for five months Osman Pasha's great tactical skill succeeded in rapidly converting an open town into a fortified camp, and in holding it against an overwhelming force of Russians, he was at length compelled to surrender, and the Russians then found it an easy march to Constantinople. We all know what has happened since. Turkey, prostrate and bleeding at every pore, lay at the feet of the conqueror, the Treaty of San Stefano was signed, and it is over that famous instrument that all the subsequent difficulty has arisen. The other Powers, more especially Great Britain, objected to such a displacement of influence in south-eastern Europe without a discussion of such an important matter by the whole body, and the reluctance of Russia to submit the Treaty to a Congress, has proved the great stumbling-block in the way of a ratification of that famous instrument.

For the present we may well rest satisfied with the fact that the Congress is to meet after all, and that no resort will be made to arms before the European Powers have attempted to settle the questions arising out of the defeat of Turkey, in another way, and by peaceful deliberation. The date fixed for the first meeting is Thursday next, at Berlin, when the most notable statesmen in Europe will sit together in confabulation. Since the memorable Congress at Vienna, 60 years ago, no such important gathering of the chief Ministers of Europe has taken place. Prince GORTSCHAKOFF is doing gallant battle against disease and old age, and hopes to be present. Prince BISMARCK is already in the German capital, brought thither before the expected day by the cruel and monstrous crime repeated against the person of the venerable Emperor. Count ANDRASSY, the Chancellor of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, makes a third Continental Premier; and though France sends her Foreign Minister only in M. WADDINGTON, and Italy follows her example by commissioning Count CORTI, the Porte complies with the lead of the other Powers in a manner peculiarly its own. The Sultan sends his Grand Vizier, SAFVET PASHA, thus adding a fourth Prime Minister to the distinguished list, and the acceptance of the English representation by Lord BEACONSFIELD, last, but by no means least, of the eminent array, makes five Ministers of the very first grade who will sit together at the Berlin table. It must be avowed that the Congress of 1878 will lack nothing in personnel to elevate it to an equal dignity with that which exercised so large and so prolonged an influence upon the destinies of Europe.

Happily there is no cause for doubt as to the main fact that the Congress will enter on its deliberations with the great advantage of having arrived at an approximate understanding as to the fundamental principles of a settlement calculated to meet with the approval of both England and Russia; and for this the two nations more immediately concerned cannot be but too thankful, for an enormous gain is thereby secured to the cause of civilization and humanity.

Medical Officer's Annual Report.

To the Chairman and members of the Rothwell Local Board—

Gentlemen,

The following report of the sanitary condition of the District of Rothwell, for the year ending 31st December, 1877, I present to you for your consideration.

The estimated population is 5,250, being an increase of 250 in the year.

236 births (113 males and 123 females) have been registered during the above period being at the rate of 44·8 per 1000 of the population, against 190 births, or 38 per 1000 registered in 1876.

The total number of deaths registered for the year was 78 (35 males and 43 females,) equal to a death rate of 14·8 per 1000, as against 91 deaths, or 18·2 per 1000 last year. Our present death rate therefore is 3·4 per 1000 lower than in 1876; and although according to the Registrar-General's Report, there has been a decrease of deaths throughout England generally, during the past year, and especially during the last quarter of the year, which he states may be partly due to the milder weather of the usually inclement months of November and December, nevertheless our death-rate is greatly below the average number of deaths in the principal Urban populations of England and Wales, which was 21·98 per 1000 in the year, and it compares favourably with that of the Rural districts of England and Wales, which was 18·2 per 1000 in the same period.

Death-rate from all causes—14·8 per 1000.

CAUSES OF DEATH.

Six deaths have been caused by zymotic or preventable diseases: measles, one; scarlatina, one; diarrhœa, three; and infantile remittent fever, one. Last year 9 deaths resulted from zymotic disease.

I attribute the decrease this year principally to the improved sanitary condition of the district.

During the months of March, April, May, June, July, and August, measles were epidemic in a mild form; 26 cases occurred in the district, of which only one proved fatal, a child aged under two years.

Scarlatina was also prevalent in the early part of the year, seven cases on the Stourton Estate, two at Royd's Green, one on the Haigh, and the remaining case in Rothwell. Only one case proved fatal at Royd's Green, a child, aged four years.

Three cases of typhoid fever occurred during the year; two at Rothwell, which I attributed to bad drainage, and one on the Haigh, caused, I strongly suspected by drinking well water contaminated by sewage none of these cases proved fatal.

I visited all the above named cases, and adopted such measures as I deemed necessary under the circumstances, to check the spread of the diseases; and I have reasons to believe with considerable success.

A striking feature in the vital statistics is the large amount of infantile mortality recorded. The mortality of infants was very high in 1876 (28), it has however been still higher during the past year, 34 deaths of infants under one year, having been registered, being nearly one half of the total deaths.

This fatality is the more remarkable in that the general death-rate in the district was low.

This waste of infant life is deplorable, especially as many of the deaths were caused by debility arising from improper feeding and negligence, the results of ignorance.

The number of deaths from diseases of the respiratory organs (including 9 from bronchitis, four from pneumonia and nine from phthisis), is exactly the same as in 1876, namely 27, and amounts to more than one third of the deaths registered during the year; this again confirms what I have stated in my previous reports, that lung diseases are endemic in this district.

I attribute the low death rate from diarrhœa, in some measure to the scarcity of fruit during the autumn and partly to the cleansing of the sewers generally by the excessive rains in August and September.

I have in accordance with my usual practice, inspected the district at various times, and have also made special visits to portions of it on receiving information of the outbreak of any contagious, infectious, or epidemic disease.

Various drains have been examined and improvements made in them where necessary.

920 middens and ashpits, &c., have been emptied during the year, and two houses ordered to be closed, being unfit for habitation.

I congratulate you on the improved sanitary condition of the district generally, and that you have completed arrangements for an immediate ample supply of pure water, and a thorough system of drainage.

Finally, it is gratifying to me to know that in the discharge of my duties as medical officer of health, I am ably supported and assisted by you.

I am, Gentlemen,
Yours obediently,
JOHN HEAPS,
Rothwell. Medical Officer of Health.

The Rothwell Mechanics' Evening School.

On Monday evening, the Committee of the Institute provided tea for the boys who have attended the night school, and afterwards those who were worthy received prizes in the shape of books of various value.

Previous to the distribution of prizes, Mr. S. Seanor exhibited the telephone, and explained its mechanism and powers, as well as the construction and effect of the the microphone and the phonograph. Mr. Mason, president of the Institute, Mr. Ledgard teacher of the Institute, members of the Committee and others were present, and highly appreciated the clear and interesting manner in which Mr. Seanor explained these newly invented instruments.

In addressing the lads present, Mr. Mason made some excellent remarks and gave valuable hints on the necessity and advantage of good habits, perseverance and self-denial, instancing Stephenson, Howard, and others as noble characters they should endeavour to imitate.

As this is the first year the class has been presentable for examination, the Committee is to be congratulated, although the success is not so great as they would like.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

In Washington there are anticipations of another Indian war.

All the Cabinets have accepted the invitations to a Congress in Berlin on June 13th. The Russian journals are sanguine of a successful result from the Congress.

Though the condition of the German Emperor shows no more serious symptoms, there are fears that further loss of blood might be very dangerous; and the pellets in the wrist have not yet been extracted.

The Derby Stakes at Epsom was won by Sefton, Insulaire (who won the French Derby on Sunday) being second, and Childeric third.

The Mayor of Burnley's suggestion that the lock-out in Lancashire should be terminated by the men undertaking to resume work at a 5 per cent. reduction, and agreeing to a further decrease in a similar amount at the end of three months should trade still prove bad, has been rejected by Colonel Jackson.

The miners of the Farnworth district, who a fortnight ago received notice of a reduction in their wages to the extent of 10 per cent., have in most cases accepted the reduction.

The sliding-scale system, which was adopted in the collieries in South Wales, has acted well up to the present. There have been many meetings to settle the wages of the district, and the utmost cordiality has prevailed.

The Australians have been this last week or two disproving the stereotyped cry of the last few cricket seasons, that the "bat was getting the best of it." By means of good bowling and excellent fielding they have beaten the M.C.C., Yorkshire, and Surrey, and if it only takes the conceit out of some of our "tall" players, and shows them where they are wrong, cricketers generally ought to feel deeply indebted to their colonial brethren for their visit.

The condition of the Emperor of Germany remains without material change. He slept well on Wednesday night, and the increased pain felt in the arm on Wednesday had subsided yesterday. There was no fever, but His Majesty's appetite is not so satisfactory as could be desired.

A sign of the Emperor's improved condition is to be found in his jocular enquiry as to what has become of the Shah in all this confusion: "Poor fellow; he will have missed his dinner." His Majesty, on hearing that all the theatres were closed on the evening of the attempt, remarked to his adjutant, "That is not right. It is too bad to deprive the people of their pleasure."

Special services of thanksgiving have been held in St. Petersburg Kiel, and elsewhere.

In the House of Commons on Thursday Mr. W. H. Smith, in reply to Mr. Bates, said he was not without hope that the next attempt to raise the Eurydice would be successful.

The train proceeding from Barcelona to Perpignan was stopped and robbed yesterday near Moncoda, a station situated a few miles to the north of Barcelona.

In the unavoidable absence of the Marquis of Lorne, owing to the recent death of the Duchess of Argyll, the Right Hon. Lord Gordon has kindly consented to preside at the Whit-Wednesday meeting in Barnsley of the Yorkshire Union of the Mechanics' Institutes. Mr. Parker is selected to represent the Rothwell Institute.

ROTHWELL PRIMITIVE METHODISTS

Last Sunday the School Anniversary Sermons were preached in the Rothwell Primitive Methodist Chapel by the Rev. S. Lloyd, and in the afternoon by Mr. James Batty.

The children sang anniversary hymns and recited some pieces. The congregations, especially at night were very good. The services are continued on Sunday next.

BEES-SWARMING.

Yesterday afternoon, a hive of bees belonging to T. C. Hudson, Esq., swarmed on an apple-tree and after hanging about three hours, was successfully secured. This is the first swarm this year, and is considered very early.

RECKLESS PLAY.

On Saturday last two miners named John Mellor and Peter Farrer were playing with their pocket knives in the Crooked Billet Inn, Thwaite Gate, when by some mishap the knife of one of them penetrated the eye of Mellor, causing him to lose his sight. He was admitted into the Leeds Infirmary the same evening.

ACCIDENT AT ROTHWELL.

On Saturday last, as Mr. Humble and his groom Lewis were driving down Wood Lane the axletree suddenly snapped, and without the slightest warning both persons were thrown to the ground. The horse took fright and some attempts were made to secure it, but both horse and trap ultimately came to a standstill in the beck, the conveyance being completely smashed. The groom escaped unhurt (except the stun), while Mr. Humble received a severe sprain of the ankle and also had his shoulder slightly crushed by the wheel passing over it. He was at once conveyed home, and is progressing very favourably.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—During piercing winds and excessive variations of temperature every one is more or less liable to internal or external disease. Throat, chest, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin all suffer in some degree, and may be relieved by rubbing in this Ointment, aided by proper doses of the Pills, for administering which full directions accompany each box. In truth, any one who thoroughly masters Holloway's "instructions" will, in remedying disease, exchange the labour of an hour for the profit of a life-time. All bronchial, pulmonary and throat disorders require that the Ointment should be thoroughly well rubbed upon the skin twice a day with great regularity, considerable briskness, and much persistence.

THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER,

Hark, hark: to the old church bells,
Their tongues with joy and gladness tells,
Of some event that's good and rare,
'Tis the wedding day of a loving pair.

T'WAS a lovely morning in summer, the very birds sung their sweetest songs in the meadows, and the air was laden with the perfume of flowers. In and around the old church the pathway that led towards the porch was crowded on both sides with young and old to witness a wedding procession which would now soon be on its way to the old parish church.

The first marriage that was solemnised within its now venerable walls we shall never have any account of, but let us hope it was a very happy one, and let us hope at the same time it was not a runaway one, for the old church at one time was notorious for runaway weddings.

The author of this story has witnessed not a few weddings in the old and sacred edifice, as his handwriting in the register books will attest.

One morning a happy couple were expected very early, the late lamented vicar and his parish clerk were waiting in readiness to read the marriage service, and join them together in the holy bonds of wedlock, the bridegroom arrived, as in duty bound, at the appointed time, but the bride was lagging behind.

"I wonder if shoo's barn ta come," exclaimed the bridegroom, who was not very fashionably attired to say it was his wedding day.

Now midday was fast approaching, and the impatient bridegroom was nearly at his wits end. It wanted but twenty minutes to twelve when the bride made her appearance with a female attendant.

"Weear hes ta been to all this time," said the bridegroom.

There was no time to be lost neither for seeking nor finding. They were arraigned before the altar rails.

The good clergyman read the service till he arrived at a most important part of it. He requested the bridegroom to put the ring upon his book, but that now woeful individual could not find it. He felt in every pocket two or three times over, but it was not to be found, and old Father Time was hurrying very swiftly on his way. What was to be done?

Oh, happy thought. Run down and borrow the village bricklayer's wife's ring, for though very much worn it will answer the same purpose as a new one.

It was accordingly borrowed, and it acted its part well, and the marriage service was concluded just as the old clock struck twelve.

Excuse this digression reader, and follow me in your imagination through a large door way in the porch, whose door must have seen five hundred years at the very least.

Towards the altar (whose table is beautifully decorated with the rarest flowers of the season) within the altar rail stands, book in hand, a grand old man that was worthy to be called "Bishop Thornwood" as regards either learning or deportment.

Next to the altar rails stands Melville Seaton, late commanding officer in the army of His Majesty King Charles the 1st, and by his side is Nelly Thornwood. The rest of the two families (the Seatons and Thornwoods) are arraigned in rows behind them, and a host of the prettiest young maidens that could be found in the village.

Our old friends Dick, Tim, and Tommy Rosebush were standing close by in their Sunday clothes which Tim had made.

The golden ring had been given and received. The good vicar with tears rolling down his cheeks had pronounced a true fatherly blessing upon the happy pair.

The old bells rung out a joyous peal, and as the wedding party crossed the wooden bridge that spanned the running stream, half way home to the vicarage, the delighted villagers shouted with joy.

It was now a reality and not a dream was the marriage of Melville Seaton and "THE VICAR'S DAUGHTER."

THE END."

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with WATCHES, JEWELLERY, ELECTRO-PLATE, CLOCKS, MUSICAL BOXES, of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.
A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjecting the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming those inconveniences, and at the same time get greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.
JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows is displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.
A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.
By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.
Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depravation from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Burns, Bunions, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Contracted and Stiff Joints, Corns (Soft), Fistulas, Gout, Glandular Swellings, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Sore Nipples, Scalds, Sore Throats, Skin Diseases, Scurvy, Sore Heads, Tumours, Ulcers, Wounds.
The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

WHITSUNTIDE.

Of all the seasons in the year none are looked forward to with such interest and expectation as Whitsuntide, the children's holiday.

A hundred thousand loving mothers, and a million cheerful, merry children anticipate at Whitsuntide the School Festival, with the Sunday School singing of their fresh, sweet voices, the special Sunday services, the Monday's parade, the bran new clothes, the carefully dressed hair, then the busy tea meeting, and the evening's frolic in the fields in which young and old alike take part.

All this and much more makes Whitsuntide a special and very happy season.

Besides being the great Sunday School season, Whitsuntide has also a claim to be called the only summer holiday in the year, and the weary sons of toil have not been slow to take hold of the occasion as a suitable time for a run into the country, up to town, to the Exhibition, or staying at home to hold cricket matches, galas, brass band contests, or to visit gardens and other places of recreation and pleasure.

All these proposals have, however, been sadly damped, or even altogether given up by reason of the continuous rain which has this year fallen almost daily, and frequently without intermission during the last month.

Sunday was gloomy and some rain fell, while Monday was wet until about five o'clock, when the weather cleared and continued fine all night.

We append notes of the various gatherings so far as they have come to our knowledge.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVALS.

ROTHWELL.

The second Sunday services in connection with the Primitive Methodist Sunday School Anniversary were held on Whit-Sunday, when Mr. J. Parker, of Pudsey preached morning and evening, and addressed the children and teachers in the afternoon. Recitations and dialogues were said, and hymns and anthems sung at each service, the congregations being very good, especially in the afternoon and evening. On Monday the teachers, scholars, and friends walked through the principal streets, singing at various places on the route. After tea and buns in the school-room they adjourned to the cricket field, kindly lent for the occasion, when games were indulged in till the shades of evening closed in.

OULTON.

The Wesleyan Sunday School Anniversary Services took place on Sunday last, and were conducted by the Rev. R. F. Cape, of Wakefield, who delivered in the morning a very practical and suggestive sermon on Sunday Schools and their workers, founded on the text, Titus 3 chap., v. 1, and in the evening a powerful discourse, the text being Proverbs, chap. 3, v. 36. The afternoon service for the parents and children was well attended. Mr. Cape retained the attention of all by an address full of racy anecdote, and forcible lessons, taking for his text Psalm 116, v. 12, which he firmly grounded on the memories of the children.

The special Hymns were well sung, and in the evening the anthem, "I will lift up mine eyes" was well rendered by the choir, the Misses Walker taking the duett and Mr. Ross the bass solo. The choir was augmented and with Mr. Ward as violincellist, and Mr. Flockton, junr., at the harmonium rendered very able service. Mr. Flockton had been very painstaking with the children at their weekly practice, and was well repaid by the success which attended the vocal portion of the services.

The teachers and scholars met at the school on Whit-Monday and proceeded to Clump Cliffe House. Mrs. Armitage having kindly consented for the sixth time to provide accommodation. Although showery in the afternoon, the numerous amusements provided were heartily entered into, and in the evening the clouds passed away, bearing no regrets at having ventured under such unfavourable auspices earlier in the day, so far.

The scholars tea was provided at four o'clock succeeded by one at five o'clock for friends, which was numerously attended.

The financial results were satisfactory although not so much so as at the last anniversary.

LOCAL BOARD MEETING.

An ordinary meeting of the Board was held on Friday, the 7th instant. Present,—J. Charlesworth, Esq. (chairman), Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Lunn, J. Hargreaves, Smith, Greenwood, Bramley, Hawden, Holmes, and the Clerk, Treasurer, and Inspector.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, the disputed question as to the letting of the eatage on the highways was gone into, and on the motion of Mr. W. Hargeaves, seconded by Mr. Smith, it was resolved—"That a copy of the Enclosure Act be obtained, and that the Highways Committee consider the whole matter."

It was proposed by Mr. W. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Lunn, and carried—That a cheque be granted to the solicitor for the Public Loan Commissioner for £24 7s. 6d. in payment of their charges respecting the loan of £6,725.

There being considerable dissatisfaction with the way in which Messrs. Pickthall and Co. are treating the Board as to the reservoir making. It was proposed by Mr. Lunn seconded by Mr. Hargreaves and carried—That the clerk write Mr. Pickthall to meet the Board on Thursday.

The purchase of the land at the bottom of Commercial street, of Mr. Briggs and others, being now completed, it was proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Holmes and carried—That a cheque be granted for £30, in payment of land purchased for Street Improvements near the Black Bull Inn, and that the Public Works Committee be entrusted with the alteration being properly made.

It was proposed by Mr. Lunn, seconded by Mr. Bramley, and carried—That the accounts and salaries be paid.

In reference to the five cases of death, in which the Registrar returns "cause of death unknown," and to which the clerk was instructed to draw the attention of the Registrar General, the following explanation has been forwarded by Mr. Stephenson.

Hunslet, Rothwell, 3rd June, 1878.

The Registrar General.

Sir,—With regard to the letter from the Secretary of Rothwell Local Board which you had the goodness to send me, dated 29th May in reference to the fact that during the last year five deaths have been registered in the Board's district without the cause of death being assigned in the certificate of death. There having been no certificate presented to me in the cases alluded to, the Registrar could not assign a cause of death in the cases. Hence the word "unknown." For the last 12 months however I find (I think I am correct, the last book being in possession of the Superintendent Registrar) four deaths are registered unknown.

3rd Entry—58, Elizabeth Verity, 68 years.

4th Entry—75, George, son of John Newby, aged 9 months.

With regard to the first entry, 494, Mr. J. T. Robson, father, a most respectable man. His statement to me was that she died somewhat suddenly, and before a medical man could be had. 2nd entry, 46, daughter of John Lunn. The mother, a well-known respectable woman stated to me as informant, her child had died unexpectedly—two days' illness, though an assistant to a highly respectable practitioner, Mr. James Nowell, was in attendance, not however being qualified could not give a certificate, and Mr. Nowell was away from home and did not see the child. 3rd entry, 58, Elizabeth Verity, aged 68 years, close by my own house, found dead in bed, had been ailing for some years. She had been attended by a qualified practitioner, but he was away from home at the time, and his assistant could not give a certificate. The police, however, was communicated with on the matter, and her own daughter informed me that the police officer said there was no need for an inquest. Entry 75, George Newby the assistant to Mr. Nowell was in attendance, but Mr. Nowell himself did not see the child, who died suddenly, two day's illness, consequently no certificate could be given. In all the above cases not the slightest suspicion of foul play could be attached. Had the Rothwell Board information to the contrary for all the cases were near and the families known to most if not all the members of that Board, it were an easy matter for the Board to call my attention to any or all the cases when they could have been satisfied by undeniable evidence. I shall be glad for the Board to remind me of any case at once—they have the returns made to them weekly. I am most sorry that the Registrar General should be troubled in any way in such cases. I can assure the Registrar General after about 40 years service as Registrar I know of no case of foul play or suspicion during the whole of that time. I hope I may be allowed to say that I have and always shall be most anxious to insure a representation of facts with regard to medical evidence as to the cause of death.

I am, sir, faithfully yours,
THOMAS STEPHENSON,
Registrar and Vaccination Officer.
Rothwell District of Hunslet Union.

General Register Office, Somerset House,
London, W.C., 5th June, 1878

Sir—With reference to your letter of the 29th ult., I am directed by the Registrar General to inform you that Mr. Stephenson, the Registrar of Births and Deaths for the Rothwell Sub-district, accounts for no cause of death being assigned in the five entries referred to in his Death Register, by the fact that in none of those cases could a Medical Certificate of cause of death be obtained

Mr. Stephenson, has, however, been referred to his instructions upon this point, which are to the effect that it is undesirable that the cause of death should be entered as "unknown," whenever any indication of the probable cause can be obtained.

I am, sir,
Your obedient servant.
Mr. S. Hargreaves, WM. CLODE,
Clerk to the Local Board, pro Secretary,
Rothwell, near Leeds.

In reference to the large charge for water consumption at Stourton, Mr. Matthewman had written that the charge was correctly stated, but that he feared there was considerable waste going on.

Mr. Holmes said he had a day or two ago discovered one serious leakage in the garden lately owned by Mr. Fawcett, where a pipe appears to have been running probably most of the winter, and up to a few days ago. Of course it is now stopped, but a vast waste of water must have arisen from that cause. It ought to be at once carefully and thoroughly looked into.

Mr. W. Hargreaves agreed with Mr. Holmes, but they could not think of taking away the Inspector from his work of superintending the laying of water pipes in Rothwell, which he was doing very well. They must have a practical man who could inspect the entire system. He proposed that Mr. Matthewman be asked if he could lend a man to the Board for the inspection of the water system at Stourton.

Mr. Lunn cordially seconded the motion, which was carried.

Mr. Holmes kindly agreed to see about the above matter.

Some conversation ensued as to the advisability of having stop cocks in connection with the water mains, which was referred to the Water Works Committee.

A letter was read from Mr. Schofield, clerk to the Guardians, respecting the Rothwell drainage, in which he states that the Rural Sanitary authority never considered that the Board had given a valid acceptance of their proposal to join in the Oulton and Woodlesford drainage scheme, and Mr. Calverley having introduced new clauses into the lease, the Sanitary Authority had decided to apply for compulsory powers, and that he had no doubt the authority would afterwards be prepared to take the Rothwell drainage, but perhaps not on exactly the same terms.

Great dissatisfaction was expressed by the members at the intelligence thus conveyed, whereby, as Mr. Lunn and Mr. Hargreaves said, the whole time and expense hitherto spent on this subject are thrown away, and we have to begin again.

By request the clerk read the correspondence between himself and Mr. Schofield relative to the matter, and in two letters, the acceptance of the second of the three proposals of the Sanitary Authority is distinctly stated, and in one of Mr. Schofield's replies, he states that his Board is glad the Rothwell Board has accepted the second of the three proposals

The second proposal was to leave the question of payments till the works are completed, when the cost shall be ascertained by the two engineers, and an umpire, and proportionately divided.

Mr. W. Hargreaves proposed and Mr. Holmes seconded—That a reply be sent to the Rural Sanitary Authority referring them to the correspondence, and that the Board have in their letters entered in o agreement with Oulton to turn their sewage, into the Oulton drainage—carried.

A letter from Mr. Parkinson stated that he had seen the Engineer to the Corporation and expected Leeds would be prepared to take the Stourton sewage in about three months. The Stourton works are going on very favourably. Mr. Parkinson also asked for a cheque on account of Rothwell Sewage Works: he pointed out that all the plans, &c. were now completed, and that as it seemed improbable the works could be carried out for some time, he would be glad to receive an amount on account.

In reply to a question it was stated that when the plans, sections, &c. were made out it was considered among engineers and architects, that half their work was done, and a cheque was resolved to be granted to Mr. Parkinson for £40 on account. On the motion of Mr. Bramley seconded by Mr. J. Hargreaves.

Proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Bramley and carried—That plans submitted by Mr. Fawcett be approved.

Mr. W. Hargreaves asked whether as the causeway in Church street has to be taken up for the laying of water pipes, it would not be well to have new flags put down instead of the old ones, which were very much worn and broken.

On the motion of the chairman it was resolved to empower the Highways and Public Works Committee to ask for tenders for the laying.

Mr. J. Hargreaves proposed and Mr. Hawden seconded—That Mr. Leather be written asking Mrs. Ingram to give a piece of land at the corner of Commercial street and Church street for the improvement of the road, and if so, the Board will forward a plan of the proposed alteration.

Mr. W. Hargreaves moved an amendment—That a plan of the intended improvement be made and sent with the application.

Mr. Bramley seconded the amendment.

Some members thought the cost of the plan, might be saved, while others believed there was a greater probability of obtaining the desired boon, if a plan was forwarded with the application.

There voted for the amendment—Messrs. W. Hargreaves, Bramley and Smith. For the resolution, Messrs. J. Hargreaves, Hawden, Lunn and Holmes. The resolution was therefore carried.

Mr. W. Hargreaves proposed and Mr. Bramley seconded — That Mr. Wright's amended tender for laying water pipes to Low Goslan be accepted—carried.

Mr. Bramley wished to know whether if an application were made for another reporter, it would be entertained.

The chairman thought that if an application were made, then would be the time to consider it.

Mr. Lunn, not feeling quite certain about the proprietorship of the land in front of his property near the Cross, on which a stall has lately stood, would be glad if the right of ownership was thoroughly gone into, as he had found it had been claimed by the various owners of the property for a long time past.

On the motion of Mr. Holmes, seconded by the chairman, it was resolved—That the Public Works Committee and the Highway's Committee look thoroughly into the matter, and have it decided—carried. Mr. Lunn being neutral.

BALLOON DESCENT AT ROTHWELL.

Considerable interest was excited in Rothwell on Wednesday evening, when the villagers of Rothwell, Carlton, and Lofthouse about half-past eight descried a balloon, which appeared to be coming down in the neighbourhood. Hundreds of persons followed in the direction of the aerial machine, and amid great excitement, it came to earth most steadily and safely about 8.40 in a field belonging to Mr. W. Smith, near the pastures.

It was found to have started from the Leeds Horticultural Gardens at ten minutes past eight. Captain Youens being accompanied by Mr. S. S. Almond, of Dewsbury.

The gentlemen had had a most favourable little voyage, the greatest altitude to which they reached being nearly three miles.

The first man hold of the rope was a son of Mr. Edward Wright, of Carlton, who was suitably rewarded. The balloonists got away about 10 o'clock.

BALLOON DESCENT AT SHERBURN.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

On Monday evening, about nine o'clock a balloon was observed over Rothwell, at a great height, which it appears came down in the neighbourhood.

From later information, it turns out to have been sent from the Pomona gardens at seven o'clock, carrying Captain John Morton, and a young solicitor, that they encountered strong winds bearing them in the direction of Marsden and Huddersfield; and that the balloon was overturned by a sudden squall, throwing out the occupants. Fortunately the two gentlemen held on to the ropes, and although they sustained considerable injury, they were not killed.

FUNERAL OF MR. T. OLIVER.

The funeral of the late Mr. Thomas Oliver of Rothwell Haigh, took place this morning at half-past twelve. The arrangements were admirably conducted by Mr. Calam, undertaker, of Carlton. The hearse and four mourning coaches arrived at the church gates about twenty minutes to one, when the funeral procession was formed and received by the Rev. G. Heberden, M.A., who also conducted the service. Bearing the pall were Mr. Appleyard, Mr. Parnaby, Mr. Atkinson, Mr. Lawton, Mr. Smith, Mr. Fatkin, Mr. Schofield and Mr. E. Wright. Following the corpse were Mr. John Oliver and Mrs. Oliver, sen., Dr. and Mrs. Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Oliver, of Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. G. Armitage, Mr. North, Mr. Ransley and other relatives and friends.

Lord Stourton was represented by Mr. Bromet, his Lordship's steward.

Mr. Oliver has, we understand been one of his lordship's tenants for 40 years, and has been highly and deservedly respected by all who knew him.

The coffin was borne by the farm labourers under Mr. Oliver, and was of polished oak, the large brass plate having the simple inscription.—"Thomas Oliver, died June 11th, 1878."

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

At Manchester Race Meeting Harbinger secured the De Trafford Cup on Tuesday, and Attalus the Manchester Cup on the following day.

The Sheffield Whitsuntide Handicap, run at the Queen's Grounds was won by J. Richards, (Middlesborough); Palmer of Sheffield, second; Marchbank, (Wibsey), third. Won after a splendid race by a yard only.

At a mass meeting held at Blackburn on Tuesday, it was resolved that the strike should be continued.

The first sitting of the Congress was held yesterday afternoon, in the Radziwill Palace. It is understood that it was only of a formal character, and was limited to the election of President (Prince Bismark), the verification of the powers of the Plenpotentaries, and the appointment of the Bureau. The first real working sitting will be held on Monday, and it is believed that during the interval an effort will be made to facilitate the work of the Congress by preliminary negociations between the Plenipotentaries. Yesterday there were interviews between Count Andrassy and Lord Beaconsfield, between Count Schouvaloff and the Marquis of Salisbury, and between the two latter and Count Andrassy. It is rumoured that Austria will demand either that the Principalities of Servia and Montenegro should become members of a confederation under Christian auspices or should conclude a military convention with Austria.

The Emperor of Germany enjoyed uninterrupted sleep on Wednesday night, and yesterday morning his condition was very satisfactory.

The Empress of Russia also passed a quiet night, and Her Majesty was not so weak as before. The local symptoms show improvement. The Duchess of Edinburgh arrived at Tsarskoe Selo on Wednesday night.

It is reported that the Earl of Beaconsfield, replying to the toast of "The Queen," given by the King of the Belgians at the Palace the other day, said, "As long as there shall be an England there will be a Belgium."

The delegates attending the Conference of the Yorkshire Union of Mechanics' Institutes at Barnsley, yesterday visited the seat of the Earl of Wharncliffe, and other local places of interest.

The Rome correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says the health of the Pope is declining daily, and that his physicians have pronounced his removal from the Vatican to be indispensable to his recovery. The majority of the Cardinals, nevertheless, oppose his departure.

CRICKET.

The editor will be glad to receive reports of matches from the Secretaries of Cricket and Football Clubs, for insertion in this paper. All copy should be sent on or before Wednesday.

NOTES.

In spite of the inclement weather the past week has been a busy one with the trundlers of the ball and wielders of the willow. In bright weather there is no recreation that can compare with cricket, but with a leaden sky, sodden turf, and general dampness the enjoyment, as far as the spectators are concerned is very small, although nothing short of a perfect deluge will damp the ardour of some its most ardent votaries.

Our local clubs have kept the ball rolling right merrily this Whitsuntide in spite of lowering skies. On Saturday the First Eleven encountered the Wakefield Parish Church Club, but they suffered defeat at the visitors' hands. The Second Eleven visited Leeds on the same day, but the match ended in a "draw," which must have been annoying to the Rothwell team, as they had secured 3 of the Caledonian wickets for 9 runs only when play was stopped. On Monday a Rothwell team visited Oulton and engaged the Brewery club but they were over powerful for their neighbours. As will be seen from the different analysis, Messrs. Tiffany, Dobson, Green and Horner have done some creditable trundling, especially the two former.

There have been numerous other matches in the neighbourhood, some of which, owing doubtless to the fact that we have not been able until lately to give them our special attention, we have not received particulars of.

The Australians who have been making "exhibitions" of district eighteens, in more senses than one, are to play at Hunslet on the 27th, 28th, and 29th. Those who enjoy seeing good cricket can secure tickets of Mr. Andrews of the White Swan.

On Monday last a match was played at Carlton between the Carlton and Wakefield Odd Fellows' Clubs, the former gaining the victory. Score, Carlton, 45—55. W.O.F., 23—39.

JOHN DYSON,
WATCHMAKER, JEWELLER, AND GOLDSMITH,
25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS,

Begs to return his sincere thanks for the favours he has received during the past twelve years from his many friends and customers, and also announces that he has now completed the alteration of his premises, and is in a position to supply all the requirements of his Patrons and the Public generally, with

of the very best manufacture, and at prices to defy competition.

With the aid of his novel and peculiarly constructed windows he is enabled to display the largest and most varied stock of any Watchmaker in the Country.

EXTRACTS FROM TWO OF THE LEEDS NEWSPAPERS respecting the alterations and NEW JEWELLERS' WINDOW SAFES, IN THE WATCH, CLOCK, AND JEWELLERY ESTABLISHMENT, OF MR. JOHN DYSON, 25 and 26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS.

From the "Leeds Mercury," March 3rd, 1877.

A NOVEL SAFE.—Up to the present time the prevailing custom among jewellers has been to remove valuables from their windows at the close of every day, and store them in safes or in a strong room. Where valuable articles are exhibited in the shop windows this involves much trouble, subjects the articles to damage from constant removal to and from the windows, and it is said is very costly. It is with a view of overcoming these inconveniences, and at the same time greater security both from burglars and from fire, that Mr. Dyson has adapted his invention to his shop, or, more correctly, to two of his shop windows. The invention in this instance has been costly, but Mr. Dyson believes that in being enabled to leave his valuables in his windows he will be sufficiently compensated.

From the "Yorkshire Post," March 3rd, 1877.

JEWELLERS' WINDOWS.—In order to obviate the trouble of nightly removing the valuable jewellery displayed in his shop windows and of replacing it in the morning, as well as for the purpose of protecting it from burglars or fire, Mr. John Dyson, watchmaker and jeweller, of 25 and 26, Briggate, Leeds, has adopted a somewhat novel contrivance, which seems to answer the purpose admirably. The watches and jewellery in two of his windows are displayed in glass cases, with framework of iron. These fit the window exactly, and really give it no peculiar appearance. When the shop is about to be closed for the night these cases (by means of powerful hydraulic rams, worked with oil instead of water, in order to prevent damp, and driven by a one-horse gas vacuum engine in the workshop behind) are lowered with their contents undisturbed into large iron safes buried in concrete below the floor level. The tops of the windows are of iron, and constitutes the tops of the safes.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.
The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.
A Certain Cure for Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.
For curing sore throat, diphtheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side—which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies, this Ointment has the same powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility. Old asthmatic invalids will derive marvellous ease from the use of this Ointment, which has brought round many such sufferers and re-established health after every other means had signally failed.
By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected. In all long-standing cases, Holloway's Pills should also be taken, as they will thoroughly expel all depraved humours from the body.
Gout, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints.
Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected. To effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take one of Holloway's Pills night and morning, and rub this Ointment most effectually twice a-day into the suffering parts; when used simultaneously, they drive all inflammation and depression from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:—

Bad Legs	Corns (Soft)	Scalds
Bad Breasts	Fistulas	Sore Throats
Burns	Gout	Skin Diseases
Bunions	Glandular Swellings	Scurvy
Chilblains	Lumbago	Sore Heads
Chapped Hands	Piles	Tumours
Contracted and Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
	Sore Nipples	Wounds

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilised World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and 33s. each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.
Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian, or Chinese.

JUNE TWENTIETH AND ITS MEMORIES.

Passing gradually away, and becoming fewer every year, are those who can remember the thunder of the guns on the morning of the Twentieth of June, 1837, when her Most Gracious Majesty ascended the Throne. The King was dead—Long live the Queen! The ruler of a great nation had passed away, but that made no difference in the onward march of the moving forces of national life. The state must have a head, and no interregnum can be permitted. The herald who proclaims the death of the departed Sovereign calls in the same breath for long life to his successor. The business of a great empire must go on, and the exigencies of its system of government have to be dealt with, although the monarch keeps the awful silence of the death chamber.

The intelligence of the death of William IV. was brought to the Princess Victoria by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Chamberlain at five o'clock in the morning of the 20th of June, 1837, and within six hours Her Majesty had held a Privy Council, at which the Ministers and the great officers of State took the oaths of allegiance and on the next day Queen Victoria was proclaimed Sovereign of this realm with the usual formalities throughout its length and breadth.

The situation was a novel one, in more respects than one. More than a hundred and twenty years had passed away since a woman had wielded the sceptre in this country, and in that time mighty changes had come over the land.

Civil and religious disabilities were removed; the basis of our representative system widened, deepened and strengthened; slavery abolished throughout the British dominions; municipal corporations reformed and broadened. All these had been witnessed in the few years preceding Queen Victoria's coming to the Throne. Events have proved that we were then but standing on the threshold of yet more comprehensive changes. The people who looked to the new Queen as the embodiment of all that was young and fresh and vigorous in the national existence, were not mistaken. Industry and enterprise, science and art, improvement and invention seemed to take a new lease of life. The history of these forty years has yet to be written, but when they are, they will show such a record of progress and development as was never experienced before in any age, country, or clime.

Most of the great political names of that day, have passed away, and of the public men now before the people, the Prime Minister, at the present time the principal representative of this country at the Berlin Congress, was not in the House of Commons where Mr. Gladstone had been a member only about four or five years. Not more than half a score of the present six hundred and fifty odd representatives of the people now occupy seats in the Lower Chamber.

Three years a maiden, twenty-one a wife, seventeen a widow; such is the domestic history of the forty-one years of Queen Victoria's reign. And notwithstanding the spread of Socialism in Europe and America, threatening the life of Emperors and princes, as citizens of "the Empire on which the sun never sets," most heartily we join in the loyal and earnest prayer, "Long live our gracious Queen, and God grant us peace and prosperity."

ROTHWELL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

A special meeting of the Board was held yesterday evening. Present: Mr. W. Hargreaves (chairman), Messrs. James Hargreaves, Batty, Jewison, and the clerk.

The business of the meeting being to inspect the plans and consider the specifications, Mr. Richardson and his son attended and explained the various plans, &c.

Ten plans were submitted being as follows—

1. Block plan.
2. Foundation plan.
3. Ground plan.
4. Side elevation of house, first floor of house, and end elevation of boys' class room.
5. North elevation, Carlton Lane.
6. Back elevation—Infants' School.
7. West elevation.
8. Elevation showing sections.
9. Longitudinal section.
10. Sections of outhouses, playsheds, &c.

The plans as a whole gave general satisfaction, and the Board will have the pleasure of pointing to a block of thoroughly good, convenient, and healthy school premises, with a sufficient amount of attractive style.

Several minor alterations were made, and it was then proposed by Mr. J. Hargreaves, seconded by Mr. Jewison and carried—That the plans and specification for the Rothwell Schools now submitted by Mr. Richardson, be approved, and tracings of the plans with specifications be forwarded to the Education Department.

ROTHWELL HAIGH MINERS' ACCIDENT CLUB.

On Monday evening the Annual meeting of the members of this flourishing Club was held in the large hall of the Mechanic's Institute, Marsh Road. Mr. Hawden in the chair.

Mr. Jas. Hargreaves read the report, which showed a balance in hand of £363 11s. 9d., which with contributions, &c. amounted to £762 5s. 11d. The expenditure for the year had been £317 9s. 1d., leaving a balance of £444 16s. 10d.

An animated discussion then ensued as to the disposal of the surplus, but it was ultimately agreed by a large majority to arrange a trip to Scarborough as early as possible. The Chairman and Mr. J. Hargreaves made a few remarks in reference to the death of the late Secretary, Mr. George Hainsworth. Mr. E. Ward being appointed his successor. The customary compliment to the chair concluded the meeting.

EXPLOSION OF GAS IN ROTHWELL.

On Tuesday evening, about eight o'clock, a somewhat serious explosion of gas took place in the house of Mr. John Wright, grocer, &c. For several days a slight smell of gas has been observed in the house, especially in the sitting-room over the shop, and on Tuesday evening Mr. Wright, thinking the smell possibly arose from the chandelier requiring water, he put some water into the slide, using a candle at the time. Finding, however, that this did not remedy the nuisance, he proceeded to take up the hearthrug and carpets in order to get to the pipe under the boards, but had scarcely got the rug up before the confined gas exploded (the candle being several yards off), and not only blew up the board and the underdrawing, but shifted the furniture and knocked down Mr. Wright, whose hand is badly scorched. The flame of gas passed down through the shop, knocking down a little boy, and greatly alarming Mrs. Wright who was in the shop.

Mr. Wright, being only poorly, has received a severe shock by the occurrence.

Fortunately the windows and doors were open or the probability is that the consequences would have been very serious, possibly fatal.

On examining the cause of the explosion it turns out to have arisen from an escape in a pipe under the boards, which had been in the way of the progress of a mouse, and the little creature had nibbled and nibbled away at the pipe until it had got a hole in it, and thereby produced what might have been a serious and fatal accident.

'T PIG FARCE.

Last Tuesday neet ther wor a taan e Roddill. An owd feller wor fetchin' hoam a litter a young pigs throo t' mother, and a nivver see'd sich fun e' my life. He first appeared at bottom o't taan, an be degrees gat em wammald up ta Batty's but here t'owd chap's trubbles began. "Nah," thowt piggy, "nah's me chance." Nivver heedin' t' man's shaatin and shovin, piggy hooks it up Batty's fowd, and t' man an a lot of bairns after 'em. They gat 'em raand at last, an back agean they comes, but piggy was no going to be beaten, so daan t' next fowd they runs, all t' seven young 'uns, an t' man and bairns after 'em. An soa they went on wisitin nearly ivvery fowd e t' place an nah an then hookin it back agean mony a time up Batty's fowd (that wor their favorite spot), till he'd got em nearly to t'loin heed, an piggy turns tail again, squeaking, squealing as they went, an up Batty's fowd agean till t'owd feller wor nearly done up, an t' little lads and lasses shaated and t' big lads an lasses shaated, an t' big fowks wor ommost boust wi' laughin'. An there they war at that strength for a full aar. At last some young chaps collared t' pigs under their arms, an marched up t' street, wi' piggy's head shakin and squeakin e t' front, and his tail waggin behint, an gat em safely hoam, but my word there wor some laughin an fun ovver that job—it wor as good as a play.

RUNAWAY HORSE.—On Friday evening last a horse going at full speed passed through the town. It came from Wood lane and went up Butcher lane in the direction of Carlton, where it was rumoured it ran over a child. It was mounted by a lad who had evidently lost all control over the animal, but who stuck to his seat with the tenacity of wax. The horse is said to belong to some dealers of Hunslet, and as we have heard no more of the accident, we would fain hope that the mad career of this juvenile "John Gilpin" has had no worse result than showing the lads' friends the folly of trusting youngsters with dangerous mounts.

WESLEYAN SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Owing to the unfavourable weather on Whit-Tuesday, a portion of the Festival programme of this school had to be adjourned. On Saturday last, however, the little ones were favoured with a splendid afternoon, and with their teachers and friends paraded the streets of the village, singing their anniversary hymns at certain points of their route.

The company then sat down to tea in the school-room, after which the usual festivities and games were indulged in, in a field kindly lent for the occasion.

On Sunday the annual sermons were preached by the popular Mr. Edward Simpson, of Pontefract, who in his own attractive cheery style, entered heartily into the pleasurable duties of the day, and greatly interested and profited the crowded congregations afternoon and evening.

NOTES.

On Monday and Tuesday last a match took place between the Australian's and Eleven Gentlemen of England, at Prince's Ground, London. The success which has hitherto attended the former team during their visit caused great interest to be taken in this match, as many as 12,000 persons having been present during the afternoon. The Australians went first to the wickets, but the "Graces" were against them, and after a stand made by the Bannermans (the only two who obtained double figures), the wickets fell rapidly, and at four o'clock the innings closed for 75. The Gentlemen sent W. G. Grace and Gilbert to face the bowling of Spofforth and Allan. After making 25 W. G. was clean bowled by Boyle, whose bowling was frequently applauded. The Gentlemen closed their innings for 139. The Australians again tried to redeem the game, but to no purpose, for at the close the Gentlemen had won by one innings and one run.

The match played at College Grove Road, Wakefield, between Yorkshire and Sussex, on Friday and Saturday last, resulted in a one innings victory for Yorkshire.

A two day's match between Leeds Clarence and Sefton (Liverpool) was concluded on Saturday at Kirkstall, in favour of Sefton by one innings and 74 runs.

The Australians v. Lonsight (Manchester) Eighteen, resulted in a victory for the latter by three runs and two wickets.

ROTHWELL v. BEESTON MANOR.

This match was played at Beeston, on Saturday, the 15th inst. The home team were all out in the first innings for 77, Messrs. Dobson and Tiffany bowling well for the visitors. Time did not allow of the latter completing their innings, but with only 27 to obtain and 5 wickets to fall, their chance looked rosy.
